STANDARD FORM NO. 64

REPORT.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT,
20th October, 1882.

MY LORD MARQUIS,

I have the honour to submit to Your Excellency this Report of the Education Department for the year 1881, together with such additional information as can be furnished relative to the proceedings of the Department during the current year.

The last Report shews that on the 31st December 1880 there were in operation 1,624 day schools, of which 1,580 were worked full time, 43 half time, and 1 one-third time. Four of the full-time schools were closed from that date, and two others were from the same date discontinued as independent schools, and worked thenceforward in connection with each other on the half-time principle. The number of schools in existence at the commencement of the year 1881 was therefore 1,619.

During the year 22 schools were struck off the roll, and 119 new schools were added. There were thus 1,716 day schools in operation on 31st December 1881.

Of the 22 schools struck off the roll, 9 had fallen so low in point of attendance as not to warrant their retention, 9 were attached to other schools, and worked half time with them, 1 was discontinued in consequence of the building—a rented one—in which it was held being withdrawn, and no other suitable accommodation being procurable, and 3 were superseded by new schools.

Of the 119 new schools, 109 were opened in places previously unprovided with means of education, 7 were old schools re-opened, and 3, as above stated, took the places of schools which were closed.

The 1,716 schools in operation at the end of the year comprised 1,660 conducted as full time and 56 as half time, 1,772 localities being thus provided with State schools.

This shows an increase during the year of 80 full-time schools, and of 13 half-time; but as in the latter number is included the school previously worked one-third time, one of the three branches of which was discontinued, the increase in the number of localities for which school provision was made is 103.

It thus appears that, notwithstanding the efforts made in previous years to bring the means of education within reach of all, whereby the number of schools, or branches of schools, was raised from 1,043 at the commencement of the year 1873 to 1,669 in December 1880, the demand for additional provision has latterly been more active than ever, the increase of school departments for 1881 being 103, as compared with 95 for 1880, and 84 for 1879.

Of the 186 night schools which were in operation in 1880, only 41 were still carried on in 1881. Of these 11 were open to boys only, 4 to girls only, and 26 were attended by both boys and girls.

This considerable diminution of the number of night schools was owing to a change in the regulations which took effect from 1st January 1881, whereby the minimum attendance for which payment would be made was raised from 10 to 30.

The following table shows the number of schools in operation and the number of scholars enrolled and in average attendance during the year :—

Schools and attendance.

On comparing this return with the corresponding one for the previous year, it will be seen that the gross enrolment in day schools advanced from 216,854 to 224,626, while the average attendance advanced from 115,160 to 119,084, being an increase of 7,772, or 3·58 per cent., in the former case, and of 3,924, or 3·4 per cent., in the latter.

Number of
vidual children
attending.

In order to determine the actual number of distinct children that received instruction in State day schools it will be necessary to make the usual correction for such of them as attended more than one school during the year. From a return of the children present on the 30th November 1881—numbering in all 124,653—it was found that 14,506, or 11·64 per cent., had attended one other State school during the year; 1,466, or 1·17 per cent., had attended two other State schools; and 206, or ·16 per cent. had attended three or more other State schools during the same period.

It thus appears that out of 124,653 names entered on the rolls, 18,056, or 14·48 per cent., would be those of children who had already been entered once. If the necessary correction be applied to the gross enrolment—viz., 224,626—we obtain as a result 192,089 as the number of distinct individual children that attended State day schools during the year.

The duplicate enrolments have been somewhat more numerous than during the two preceding years, being at the rate of 14·48 per cent., as compared with 13·67 in 1880, and 13·93 in 1879. This, of course, indicates either that children have been allowed greater latitude in changing from one school to another, or that the population has been more migratory. In view of the increased rate at which it has been necessary to provide additional schools, the latter explanation would appear to be the correct one.

The net enrolment is much higher than in any former year. When compared with that for 1880, it exhibits an increase of 4,879 children.

The total number of pupils enrolled in night schools was 6,797—a very considerable falling off from the 12,869 enrolled in 1880, and due to the operation of the amended regulations by which the number of night schools was reduced to less than one-fourth. This total has further to be corrected for duplicate enrolments. From a similar return to that furnished by the teachers of day schools, it was found that, out of an attendance of 1,659 scholars on 30th November 1881,

582, or 35· per cent., attended one other State school during the year

80, or 4·8 " " two " schools "

26, or 1·6 " " three or more " " "

In other words, 49·42 per cent. of the names of these scholars would be found a second time on the rolls for the year. Assuming the same rule to hold good in the case of all the pupils enrolled in night schools, and making the necessary correction, we find the number of distinct individuals that attended night schools to be 3,437.

The combined returns of day and night schools shew a total of 195,526 distinct children as having attended State schools during the year. This number is less by 210 than the corresponding total for 1880—the decrease being wholly traceable to the night schools, and, more particularly, to the diminished number of pupils above school age attending such schools.

Notwithstanding the diminution of the net enrolment, the average attendance has continued steadily to advance. It is higher by 1,730 than during the previous year; and if the disturbing element of the night schools be disregarded, and the day schools alone considered, the increase in average attendance is found to be more marked than in any year since 1877.

The following table shews the progress made during each year since 1872 in regard to the number of schools, and the number of children enrolled and in average attendance:—

* The figures marked (*) are an approximation only, the returns of numbers on rolls of night schools for these years being incomplete.

Progress made under the Education Act as regards number of schools and attendance.

If the above figures be scrutinised, it will be found that although the average attendance is absolutely higher than in any former year, yet, when considered relatively to the number enrolled, the same rate of improvement is hardly maintained. The percentage of average attendance to total number enrolled is indeed 52·39 as against 52·02 in 1880 and 52·35 in 1879,—this last percentage representing a greater regularity of attendance than had been secured prior to that date. A closer examination, however, reveals that part of the improvement during 1881 is due to the diminished number of night schools which enter into the calculation; for, the regularity of attendance in these being much less than in day schools, the smaller the number of this class that are included, the better will the general result appear. If the day schools be considered separately, it is found that the percentage of average attendance to total number enrolled is 53·6 for 1879, 53·1 for 1880, and 53 for 1881.

If, however, the attendance be regarded with reference to the net, instead of the gross enrolment, the result is more favourable to 1881. Extending the comparison on this basis, we find that the total of the daily attendances during 1881 represents an average of 142·6 days' attendance for each child on the roll, being 22·5 days in excess of the number required by the Act. The average number of days attended by each child on the roll during 1880 was 141·4.

In regard to regularity of attendance, Victoria continues to compare not unfavourably with other Australasian colonies, as will be seen on an inspection of the subjoined returns for the year :—

The following table shews the ages and sex of the children attending day schools. It is compiled from returns furnished by the head teachers, and comprises a total of 224,536 scholars. Of these there were—

Summarizing the totals with a view to the school ages, we find that there were—

Under 6 years of age	33,005
Between 6 and 15 years	180,131
Above 15 years	11,400

And reducing these numbers so as to correspond with the number of distinct individual children, we obtain—

Under 6 years of age... ..	28,235
Between 6 and 15 years	154,101
Above 15 years	9,753

Total 192,089

Similar returns received from the night schools comprised a total of 6,010 scholars, of whom there were—

Total ...	4,632	1,378	6,010

Or, more concisely, 3,681 of the total number were of school age, and 2,329 above that age. Reducing these figures for duplicate enrolments, we find that of the distinct individual children attending night schools there were—

Between 6 and 15 years ...	2,105
Above 15 years ...	1,332
Total ...	3,437

The classification in regard to age of the total number of distinct children under instruction during 1881 will therefore be shewn as under :—

	Under 6 Years.	Between 6 and 15 Years.	Above 15 Years.	Total.
Day schools ...	28,235	154,101	9,753	192,089

So that out of every 100 children attending there were—

Above 15 years ...	5·08	38·75	5·67
Total ...	100·	100·	100·

A comparison with the returns of the two previous years shews a marked increase in the proportion of pupils under 6 years,—an increase continuous but less marked in the proportion between 6 and 15 years,—and a considerable decrease in that above 15 years. The percentages for the three years are as under :—

	1879.	1880.	1881.
Under 6 years ...	13·02	13·17	14·44
Between 6 and 15 years ...	79·63	79·78	79·89
Above 15 years ...	7·35	7·05	5·67
Total ...	100·	100·	100·

From the published statistics of the general census of 1881 it appears that, as regards the total population between 6 and 15 years, boys are to girls in the proportion of 1,000 to 996, while between 3 and 6 years the proportion of boys to girls is as 1,000 to 975. It will be found, on an inspection of the table shewing the ages and sex of the children attending day schools, that in them the same proportions are not far from being maintained, the proportion of boys to girls at the former ages being as 1,000 to 969, and at the latter as 1,000 to 944. Bearing in mind the greater extent to which girls are educated at home from a prejudice that many parents entertain against sending their daughters to schools of any kind, it would appear that the State schools attract their fair share of girls as well as of boys, and that the fact of the sexes being taught together does not militate in public estimation against the usefulness of the schools.

Reverting again to the statistics of the late census, we find the total number of children in the colony between 6 and 15 years given as 194,410. The number of children between the same ages attending State schools during the year was 156,206, leaving a balance of 38,204 children of school age to be accounted for. The returns received from private schools shew that they had in attendance during the year 30,499 children of school age, and if a deduction be made of 15 per cent., which may be regarded as a very liberal estimate, for those who attended more than one private school or also attended a State school, we obtain a net result of 25,924 as the number of pupils of school age attending private schools. The Industrial and Reformatory Schools may be credited with making provision for about 500* others. Deducting these two totals from the balance of 38,204 shewn above, we have a remainder of 11,780 children not attending any school. Seeing that amongst these will be included the large body of children who receive regular instruction at their own homes, and also those who have finally left school on being educated up to the standard prescribed by the Act; the residue of children who, whether from the neglect of parents or from there being no means of education within their reach, are receiving no instruction at all, must be small indeed.

The number of children who completed at least 30 attendances in each quarter, and the proportion that this number bore to the total number who attended during the quarter, are shewn in the following table :—

	Total Number who Attended during the Quarter.	Number who Attended at least 30 days during the Quarter.	Percentage who Completed at least 30 days' Attendance.
Quarter ended 31st March 1881	175,124	125,428	71.62

" " 31st Dec. 1881 ...	175,454	124,139	70.75

With the exception of that for the second quarter, these percentages compare favourably with the corresponding returns for 1880. If the average be calculated for the whole year, the percentage who complied with the legal requirement is found to be 73.79 as against 72.18 in 1880.

The following table shews to what extent those who failed to complete 30 days' attendance were able to plead a reasonable excuse for the deficiency :—

For the whole year the average percentage of defaulters to the total number in attendance is 5.6. The corresponding percentage for 1880 was 6.8.

*. The actual number of children of school age on the books of the Industrial and Reformatory Schools on 31st December 1881 was 514.

Private schools.

The number of private schools that furnished returns for 1881, in accordance with the provisions of Section X. of The Education Act Amendment Act, was 646. Of these, 78 were conducted as boys' schools, 67 as girls' schools, and 501 were attended by both boys and girls. A list of the schools, with the attendance at each, will be found in Appendix K. The following is a summary of the returns :—

Percentage of pupils to population in different countries and colonies.

The following table, prepared from statistics compiled by the United States Bureau of Education, will be of interest, although its usefulness is somewhat impaired by the fact that in many instances the information is not of the latest date. The table shews in the case of 27 leading countries and colonies the percentage of the total population recorded as attending school. The countries being arranged in order according to the percentage shewn by each, it will be seen that Victoria holds a very satisfactory position on the list. It is certainly headed by Ontario, with the very high percentage of 28·09; but it is less than $1\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. below that province, while more than 5 per cent. in advance of any other rival :—

The net expenditure of the Department for the financial year just closed was, as may be seen from Appendices A 1 and A 2, £616,715 5s. 9d., inclusive of the amount spent on buildings, or £544,291 16s. 1d., exclusive of that amount. The following

Annexed is a comparative statement of the cost of instruction (calculated, as in former years, on the amounts expended under the items numbered 1 and 4 in the preceding table) for each child in average attendance during 1880 and 1881 :—

Year.	Average Attendance.	Cost of Instruction for each Child in Average Attendance.
		In Day Schools.			In Night Schools.
		£	s.	d.	£	s.	d.
1880	{ Day schools 115,160	3	19	7 $\frac{3}{4}$	1	...	...
	{ Night " 4,360	...	...	...	1	14	10
1881	{ Day " 119,084	3	18	11 $\frac{1}{4}$	...	...	...
	{ Night " 2,166	...	...	...	1	11	8 $\frac{3}{4}$

It will be seen that there is a decrease of 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per scholar in the case of day schools, and of 3s. 1 $\frac{1}{4}$ d. in the case of night schools; the greater decrease in the latter instance being due principally to the closing of the smaller schools, in which the cost per child was higher than in the larger ones.

On the 31st December 1881, 4,314 teachers were employed in State schools, the classification of these teachers, and the positions held by them, being shown in the subjoined statement :—

During the year the number of head teachers increased by 90, that of work-mistresses by 10, and of pupil-teachers by 16; but there was a decrease of 25 in the number of assistants.

Comparing the classification of the 2,603 head teachers and assistants included in the foregoing statement with that of the head teachers and assistants employed on 31st December 1880, it will be seen from the following table that there is a substantial improvement in the number of certificated teachers:—

On the 31st December 1881, the teachers available for employment as head teachers and assistants were as follows:—

1. Trainees who had completed their course ...	31	41	72
2. Other qualified candidates for employment ...	23	86	109

There were also 170 first-class pupil-teachers who, having completed what may be regarded as their apprenticeship, were eligible for promotion. Of these, 42 were males, and 128 females.

The reports of the inspectors will be found in Appendix H.

The accounts they contain of the instruction imparted and progress made in the schools during the year 1881 are in the main very satisfactory, and are borne out by the particulars given below of the percentage gained at the result examinations. The principal fault noted in the teaching is that it is in some respects mechanical, and to remedy this evil it is suggested that some slight alterations might be made in the present system of examination without interfering with the general principle of payment by results.

The percentage of passes gained at the examinations for results held during the year shews a decided advance on the two preceding years, being 79.98 as against 77.76 in 1880 and 77.42 in 1879. Carrying the comparison of the three years into details, the following tables shew (1) the percentage gained in each subject of instruction, and (2) the percentage gained in each class in the several subjects. Looking at the total percentage in each subject, we find in 1881 an increase in every case :—

Passing from the consideration of the instruction given, it is satisfactory to find that a steady improvement is noted in the general organization of the schools, and that on the important matter of discipline the reports are very favourable.

The general tenor of the reports shews that the teachers are, as a body, doing their work faithfully and diligently. This is a matter of such moment that I consider, especially in view of the prominence which has been given by the press to certain cases of misconduct on the part of State school teachers, that it will not be out of place to quote the following remarks from the reports of three of the most experienced inspectors on the staff.

Mr. Brodribb, Senior Inspector, says :—

“Every large flock has some black sheep; and among several thousands of persons it may not be unreasonably feared that there will be found some offenders against morality; but it is only due to the teachers that those who, by opportunities of frequent intercourse, know them well should speak out and say what justice demands: that on the whole the teachers are an extremely steady and well-conducted body; and that in sobriety and morality they will bear comparison with any other class in the community. Further, it may be said that the tone of our teaching staff is rising.”

Mr. Topp says :—

“The staff of teachers in the schools of the Southern Metropolitan District, on 31st December 1881, was the following :—

Head Teachers	...	...	...	...	...	...	60
Assistants	...	...	...	...	...	...	57
Pupil-teachers	...	...	...	...	...	...	67
Workmistresses	...	...	...	...	...	...	20
Total	...	...	...	...	...	...	204

With slight fluctuations, this may be held to represent the staff of teachers in these schools during the last three years. During this period only one charge of immorality of sufficient importance to be referred to me for enquiry has been brought against this body of over 200 teachers, and this immorality occurred before the teacher joined the service.

“My own opinion on the teachers who have come under my observation is that, in regard to morality, they will compare favorably with any other branch of the public service, or with any other large body whose members follow a common calling or profession.”

Mr. Craig says :—

“A large service such as that of the teachers, who are so little under supervision, and who are peculiarly exposed to some kinds of temptation, may be expected to contain a few men who will, in some respects, produce a mischievous effect on the characters of the children committed to their care; but this evil, though certainly in itself serious, is inappreciable in comparison with the influences for good exerted willingly by the great majority of the teachers, and unconsciously even by the worst, through the inevitable working of the system they are helping to administer.”

Apart from the matters above touched upon, there are to be found in the inspectors' reports various remarks and suggestions of interest on such subjects as the programme of instruction, the reading books now in use in the schools, the teaching of extra subjects, the teaching of science, the examinations for exhibitions, the instruction and examination of pupil-teachers, the training of teachers, and other points of importance.

Extra subjects.

For instruction in extra subjects fees have been charged as heretofore; and although the number of schools in which such instruction is given shews little variation, having been 187 as against 182 in the previous year, a considerable increase has taken place in the number of scholars, the amount of fees paid by them having risen from £4,083 4s. 10d. to £4,469 6s. 2d. The following is a list of the subjects taught, with the number of pupils that received instruction in each :—

Algebra	...	...	1,493	Chemistry	...	...	150
Euclid	...	...	1,112	Latin...	...	...	1,305
Mensuration	...	...	143	French	...	...	975

Physical Geography	...	...	22	Drawing	...	...	224
Physiology	...	...	25	Singing	...	...	67
Physics	...	...	12

To the efficiency of the teaching in many of these branches testimony is borne by the increasing number of State school pupils who annually pass the University matriculation examination. For the last three years the number of pupils thus successful has been 15, 32, and 38. The number of those who have passed the Civil Service examination during the same periods has been successively 34, 59, and 47.

Military drill.

Military drill is continually being introduced to a greater extent into the ordinary routine of school work, as the number of teachers qualified to give instruction in this subject increases. During 1881 it was taught in 186 schools, and the average attendance at the classes was 11,437. This shows an increase of 20 schools, and of 752 children receiving instruction.

Singing.

Singing was taught in 222 schools, being 21 less than in 1880. The decrease is owing to the fact that, with a view to economy, the services of certain of the singing masters were dispensed with at the commencement of the year; and although the majority of them were subsequently re-instated, it was still deemed necessary to exclude from the benefit of their labours any schools in which the attendance appeared too low to warrant the requisite outlay. The number of children taught has suffered no diminution, the average attendance at the lessons having been 34,866, or 558 more than during the previous year.

In 150 schools the instruction was given wholly by visiting teachers, in 47 by visiting teachers assisted by qualified members of the ordinary staff, and in 25 by the ordinary staff only.

The number of visiting teachers employed was 24, being 5 less than in 1880. The arrangements initiated by my predecessor for the purpose of qualifying the ordinary teachers to give instruction in this subject have been attended with good results, the number of persons thus qualified and actually engaged in giving instruction in their own schools having risen during the three years that the scheme has been in operation from 14 to 74.

Drawing was taught in 148 schools, being 11 more than during the previous year. The average attendance at the lessons, however, shews a slight falling-off, being only 18,817 as against 18,975 in 1880. Drawing..

In 107 schools the instruction was given by visiting teachers, assisted in 22 cases by qualified members of the ordinary staff. In 41 schools the latter alone were engaged in teaching this subject.

The number of teachers employed comprised 14 visiting masters and 63 qualified members of the ordinary teaching staff. It is satisfactory to note the increase in the latter class, the number of persons thus qualified three years ago having been only 17.

For the eleven exhibitions open to State school pupils under 15 years of age, 63 candidates presented themselves at the annual examination in December last; the number of competitors for the previous three years, 1878, 1879, and 1880, having been 54, 53, and 49 respectively. Exhibitions.

The successful competitors were presented from the following schools:—

Of the 19 who are students at the University, 15 passed last year an examination in the Arts course, one in the Medical course, and one in that for the certificate of Civil Engineer.

Five retired in December 1881 owing to effluxion of time, two forfeited their exhibitions, two resigned, and one died.

The following is a list of exhibitioners who, during the year, passed advanced examinations at the University:—

1. Felix Meyer, who completed his course as exhibitioner in December 1878, graduated M.B. and Ch.B. in April 1881.
2. James L. Robertson, who completed his course in December 1878, graduated B.A. in April 1881.
3. William R. Fox, completed December 1879, passed 4th year Medicine, October 1881.

4. Robert E. Hayes, completed December 1879, passed 4th year for LL.B., October 1881, and graduated M.A., April 1881.
5. Charles Hill, completed December 1879, graduated B.A., April 1881.
6. Albert Pearson, completed December 1880, graduated B.A., April 1881.
7. William M. Stephens, completed December 1880, graduated B.A., April 1881.
8. George Palmer, completed December 1880, passed 4th year Medicine, October 1881.
9. Frederick J. Owen, completed December 1881, passed 4th year Medicine, October 1881.

Regarding the exhibitors attending the several Colleges and Grammar Schools, the reports of the principals of these institutions have been very satisfactory. Special honours were gained at the Scotch and St. Patrick's Colleges. At the former, James S. Thompson, one of the exhibitors, was bracketed with another candidate for the position of dux of the College, while at the latter Frederick H. Rickarby, another exhibitor, gained first prize in the highest class in Greek, Latin, French, Arithmetic, Euclid, Algebra, and Geography.

Training. The training of teachers has been carried on in accordance with the scheme that has been in operation for some years past, which provides that one year shall be spent by the trainee as a member of the staff of one of certain selected schools, and a second in the Central Institution, under the immediate instruction of the Superintendent and his assistant masters. The number of applicants for admission to the training course continues to be much in excess of the requirements of the State, 101 duly qualified candidates having offered themselves in January 1881, and 85 in July, of whom it was only possible to admit 37 on the former occasion and 34 on the latter. The qualifications held by the successful candidates, and the positions to which they were admitted, are shewn in the following table :—

		Teachers formerly employed in Schools.	First-class Pupil-teachers who had completed their Course.				Matriculated Students.		Other Persons who had passed the Entrance Examination.				Total.
		Males.	Males.		Females.		Males.	Females.	Males.		Females.

July 1881	...	3	3	1	4	0	11	0	7	0	5	34
		6	7	3	6	2	17	5	10	1	14	71

It will be observed that the whole of the studentships were awarded either to first-class pupil-teachers or to candidates who had passed the matriculation examination. It has been before remarked that preference is given to these two classes, as generally furnishing the best matériel for the production of educated teachers, and I may now add that during the current year this practice has received a still wider application than previously, as the appointments made have, with few exceptions, been confined to applicants possessing one or other of the qualifications in question. It may be well to state further, in order to prevent disappointment to the large number of female candidates who are continually offering themselves for training, that the Department is in no need of female teachers, the supply of those who have already qualified themselves and of pupil-teachers at present in the service being sufficient to meet all requirements for some time to come. Under these circumstances, appointments in training have during the current term been restricted, except in the case of pupil-teachers, to male candidates only, and it is intended that the same policy shall be adhered to in future.

The number of teachers in training during the latter half of 1881 was 138, of whom 85 were employed in the associated schools, and 53 in the central institution. Five others who had previously completed the full term of training, but had failed to obtain the trained teacher's certificate, were allowed to attend the classes at the central institution and to present themselves again for examination, but received no allowance from the Department.

The usual examinations of pupil-teachers for promotion, and of candidates for certificates of competency and admission to the second year's course of training, were held in December. The following tabular statement shews the results of these examinations :—

Candidates for—	Number Passed.	Number Failed.	Total Number Examined.	Percentage Passed in—
				1881.	1880.	1879.
I.—Pupil-teachers—
(a.) Class I.	115	158	273	42·1	52·4	43·4
(b.) Class II.	154	97	251	61·3	55·5	38·3
(c.) Class III.	150	123	273	54·9	40·9	56·4
II.—Certificate of competency ...	179	474	653	27·4	19·7	25·9
III.—Admission to second year's course of training	27	25	52	51·9	50·9	58·9

The improvement noticed in my last Report in the work done at the pupil-teacher examination has been maintained, the percentage of passes being 2·5 higher than in 1880. It cannot, however, be considered satisfactory that only 52·5 per cent. of the examinees should be successful, and still further improvement may reasonably be looked for in this direction.

The examination for certificates of competency compares favourably with that held in the previous year. One-half of the successful candidates were teachers who had possessed previously merely a license to teach. Of the remainder, the majority were pupil-teachers, who shewed themselves to have attained thus early to the literary standard required for a teacher's certificate.

Examinations in music were held during the year at the principal centres throughout the colony—Melbourne, Geelong, Ballarat, Castlemaine, Sandhurst, Stawell, Beechworth, Sale, Warrnambool, Benalla, and Maryborough—and were attended by 253 candidates for license to teach, and 3 for certificate of competency. Eleven candidates passed fully for the license; while 19 candidates for license, and 2 for certificate were so far successful that they will be entitled to classification on passing in the art of teaching. In addition to the above, 17 persons, partially classified previously, obtained the license by passing in the art of teaching.

At the drawing examinations, held at the five chief centres—Melbourne, Geelong, Ballarat, Castlemaine, and Sandhurst—196 candidates were present, 17 of whom passed fully for license, while 10 passed in the paper work for license, and 4 in that for certificate, these 14 having yet to satisfy the examiners as to their skill in teaching a class before obtaining classification. Nine partially classified teachers, not included in the foregoing statement, completed their examinations—viz., 3 for certificate, and 6 for license.

Examinations were also held in military drill, theoretical and practical, and in both an increase in the number of successful candidates, as compared with last year's results, is noticeable. Forty-two out of 73 passed the written examination; while 44, who had previously passed the theoretical part, were successful when subjected to the practical test. The number of teachers who, having passed an examination prescribed by the Victorian Volunteer authorities, similar to that held under the Department, are qualified to impart instruction in military drill has increased to 85.

At the examination in gymnastics, 44 out of 61 candidates succeeded in passing, thus raising the total of teachers qualified to teach gymnastics to 507.

In pursuance of the policy of providing for some elementary instruction in science in State schools, teachers were, in December 1881, again afforded an opportunity of proving themselves qualified to impart such instruction. The subjoined list shews the number of candidates who presented themselves for examination in each of the subjects named, and the number who passed :—

Physiology	83 candidates	27 passed
Chemistry	10 "	6 "
Mechanics and Hydrostatics ...	22 "	8 "
Magnetism and Electricity ...	8 "	4 "
Acoustics, Light and Heat ...	4 "	1 "
Total	127 candidates	46 passed.

A list of the teachers now qualified to teach one or more scientific subjects will be found in Appendix G (5).

Buildings. The funds at the disposal of the Department were for the greater part of the year so limited as to prevent much progress being made in building operations. Towards the end of the year, however, an advance of £80,000, on account of the £200,000 to be provided for school buildings in the proposed new loan, was authorized by Parliament; but although many urgent works were at once undertaken, they could not be far advanced before the close of the year.

A detailed statement of the works undertaken in 1881 is given in Appendix E (1), whilst Appendix E (2) shews what further works have been proceeded with between 1st January and 30th June 1882.

Seventy-two additional school buildings, with accommodation for 3,448 children, and 71 teachers' residences have been provided during the year. A complete list of school buildings owned by the Department is furnished in Appendix D; the totals, as shewn in the annexed summary, being 1,639 school buildings with accommodation for 155,180 children, and 1,161 teachers' residences.

Amongst new buildings opened during the year were the following:—

No. 755. Gordons,	to accommodate 218 children.
„ 297. Heywood,	„ 140 „
„ 2455. Portarlington,	„ 100 „

Contracts were let for the following large buildings; none of these, however, were completed on 30th June 1882 :—

- No. 2256. Benalla East.
- „ 123. California Gully.
- „ 136. Clunes.
- „ 2462. Collingwood, Vere street.
Fitzroy, Napier street.
- „ 307. Hotham.
- „ 545. Sale.
- „ 2460. St. Kilda.

A sum of £20,000 having been voted for the maintenance of school buildings in the year 1881–2, it became possible to undertake most of the cases in which painting and general repairs had been unduly delayed.

In connection with the question of maintenance and the vote of Parliament for that purpose, it may be pointed out that under this head is included all the miscellaneous expenditure upon school properties that cannot properly be charged to a loan for the erection of new buildings. By referring to the detailed statements in Appendices E (1) and E (2) it will be seen that a large proportion of such expenditure has been for new furniture in existing schools, additional provision for water supply, urgent cases of fencing, new out-offices, gravelling, asphaltting, and general improvements to school properties.

Another considerable charge against the maintenance vote has been the cost of weather-boarding and completing such of the early portable buildings as it has been found necessary to render permanent.

An additional expenditure, which could hardly be foreseen, has been caused in many districts of the colony by the ravages of white ants. From the Education report of Queensland for 1879, it appears that the Government of that colony have had much trouble from the same source. The report states “that a large part of the expenditure on buildings for the year has been due to repairing the injuries caused by white ants.” Special precautions are now always taken in the erection of wooden buildings to prevent, as far as possible, further damage from this cause.

In order to provide all the school buildings at present known to be necessary to meet the requirements of the colony, including the substitution of State buildings for the greater part of those now held under lease, an expenditure of about £125,000 will be required. Towards this amount, a sum of £120,000, being the balance of the £200,000 referred to above, will be derived from the loan; and it is proposed by a Bill now before the Legislature to render this sum immediately available.

When the amount thus obtained has been expended, a sum of from £50,000 to £55,000 for the necessary yearly expenditure on buildings should, as previously pointed out, be placed on the annual estimates. The erection of a new Training Institution, the general fencing of school sites, the supply of bells, and the erection of teachers' residences for country schools now unprovided with them, are works not included in this estimate: for these special provision must be made by the Legislature before they can be undertaken.

The diminished expenditure under the head of school requisites, of which mention was made in the Report for 1879–80, may again be referred to with satisfaction. Although the number of schools on the roll increased from 1,533 in December 1879 to 1,716 in December 1881, the cost of supplying free requisites for the financial year just ended was £438 18s. 6d. less than for the year ended 30th June 1880, while, as compared with that for the year ended 30th June 1878, the expenditure shews a decrease of £3,235 11s. 6d. This is gratifying, not merely on account of the saving effected, but because it indicates that teachers generally experience but little difficulty in inducing most of the parents to supply their children with school books. In not a few schools, indeed, no free grants of books have been applied for or made for years, this being the case with most of the large town schools.

School books and requisites.

The reading books of the Irish National Series were struck off the Department's list at the end of 1880, and are now wholly disused in favour of the Royal Readers. The value and suitability of the latter series appear to be generally and increasingly recognised.

The number of school districts in the colony at the close of 1881 was 318, one of which—Tallangatta, No. 328—was constituted during the year.

School districts.

Slight alterations have been made in the boundaries of four districts, viz., St. Kilda, Prahran, Yallock, and the Bass.

The following districts, which were mentioned in last year's Report as being unrepresented by Boards of Advice, are, from the same causes as were then stated, still unrepresented:—

- No. 137.—West Riding, shire of Dundas.
 „ 192.—North-East Riding, shire of Minhamite.
 „ 199.—East Riding, shire of Mortlake.
 „ 211.—Dunkeld Riding, shire of Mount Rouse.
 „ 301.—Balmoral Riding, shire of Wannon.

As no election had been held for the newly constituted district of Tallangatta up to the end of the year, it must be added to the list. During the year 347 vacancies occurred on the Boards, occasioned as follows:—236 members retired by effluxion of time, 91 resigned, 15 died, and 5 forfeited their seats through non-attendance. 252 elections were held, resulting in the return of 253 members. In 65 cases, no candidates being nominated, appointments were made by the Governor in Council. The appointments so made numbered 112, besides 15 others made in districts where there were no ratepayers.

The arrangements under which the enforcement of the compulsory clause was carried out during 1881 will be seen from the following statement:—

	Districts in which Prosecutions were authorized by—				Total Number of School Districts in existence. during the period..

„ 30th September ...	13	202	215	102	317
„ 31st December ...	11	209	220	98	318

It will be observed that, during the last quarter of 1881, 220 Boards enforced the compulsory clause, whereas the greatest number that undertook to do so in any quarter in the previous year was 199. This fact indicates that, year by year, the Department is, to a greater extent, being relieved by the Boards of the onerous duty of considering the returns of irregular attendants and of absentees, and deciding whether the parents or guardians shall be prosecuted.

The number of cases in which it was deemed advisable to institute proceedings was 5,138, which exceeds by 412 the number of such cases in 1880. In four-fifths of these cases the prosecutions were undertaken by direction of the Boards of Advice. Convictions were obtained in 4,373 instances, and the fines imposed amounted, with the costs, to £1,191 14s. Of the remaining cases, 419 were dismissed, 140 withdrawn, and 206, from various causes, not proceeded with. As there would seem to be an impression that children who are not in attendance at any school escape the notice of the truant officers, it may be well to mention that during the year prosecutions were instituted in 115 such cases, and that the fines inflicted on the parents or guardians of such children, amounting with the costs to £47 9s., were, for the most part, severe. Although the maximum penalty of £1 was imposed in no less than 119 instances last year, many of the Boards of Advice would appear to consider that the fines inflicted by the Bench are frequently quite inadequate.

The assistance rendered by various Boards of Advice, not merely in undertaking the duty of enforcing attendance at school, but in advising the Department on many other questions, as well as in exercising local supervision by visiting the schools and furnishing reports as to the state of the premises, the attendance, and other matters of interest and importance, must be gratefully acknowledged.

Briefly stated, the salient points in the results of the operation of the Education Act last year are:—

- (1.) The number of children under instruction in day schools increased by 4,879, and the average attendance by 3,924.
- (2.) Seventy-two new buildings were erected, and additional accommodation provided for 3,448 children.

- (3.) The cost of instruction per child decreased slightly, both in day and in night schools.
- (4.) The number of certificated teachers increased by 102, while that of merely licensed teachers decreased by 3.
- (5.) The percentage of marks obtained at the result examinations rose from 77·76 to 79·98.
- (6.) Out of a population ascertained by the census to number 862,346 persons in April 1881, 230,503 children, or 26·7 per cent. of the whole, were under instruction in that year either in State or in private schools.
- (7.) Out of a school population of 194,410, as shewn by the census, 182,130, or 93·6 per cent., were on the rolls of State or of private schools—the balance of 6·4 per cent. representing not merely children who were under no instruction, but also those who were taught at their own homes, and others who had finally left school on being educated up to the standard.

I have the honor to be,

My Lord Marquis,

Your Lordship's most obedient servant,

JAMES MACPHERSON GRANT,

Minister of Public Instruction.

To His Excellency

The Most Noble the Marquis of Normanby, G.C.M.G.,

Governor of Victoria.
