REPORT.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT,

MY LORD MARQUIS, 7th September, 1883.

I have the honour to submit to Your Excellency the Report of the Education Department for the year 1882, together with such additional information as can be furnished relative to the first half of the current year.

The last Report of the Department shews that on the 31st December, 1881, there were in operation 1,716 day schools, of which 1,660 were conducted as full time, and 56 as half time; the number of localities for which school provision was made being thus 1,772.

During the year 1882, 44 schools were struck off the roll, and 55 new schools were opened. The number of schools in operation on the 31st December, 1882, was therefore 1,727.

Of the 44 schools struck off, 17 were closed in consequence of the paucity of attendance, 14 were attached to other schools and worked half-time with them, 10 were replaced by new schools, and 3 were amalgamated with neighbouring schools.

Of the 55 schools opened, 45 were provided for localities previously unsupplied with means of education, 1 was an old school re-opened, and 9 took the place of schools which were closed.

The 1,727 schools in operation at the end of the year comprised 1,660 full-time schools, and 67 half-time. The number of localities provided with schools was therefore 1,794, which shews a net increase of 22 for the year.

The number of night schools in operation during 1881 was 41, but only 35 of these were carried on in 1882. Of these, 12 were open to boys only, 4 to girls only, and 19 were attended by both boys and girls. No new schools were opened during the year.

The following table shews the number of schools in operation and the number of children enrolled and in average attendance during the year :— Schools and attendance.

General return for the year ...	1,762	114,520	108,425	222,945	61,129	57,150	118,279

The corresponding return for the previous year shewed a total of 224,626 children enrolled in day schools, and an average attendance of 119,084. There has thus been a decrease of 7,332 in the gross enrolment, and of 2,672 in average attendance.

Of this decrease it is not easy to put forward any very satisfactory explanation. It is not confined to any particular district or class of schools, but is distributed indifferently over town and country, and mining and agricultural districts have alike contributed towards it. After a careful investigation of the matter, it is believed that the falling off is due in varying degrees to the operation of the following causes :—

(a.) The excessive amount of sickness during the year.—That the schools were more than ordinarily affected by this cause will appear from the fact that, in forwarding their monthly returns, teachers on 2,553 occasions reported the prevalence of sickness as having greatly reduced the attendance, whereas similar representations were made in only 1,851 cases during 1881. No doubt the average attendance rather than the gross enrolment would suffer on this account, but, nevertheless, the latter would be in some measure diminished, as the younger children and even those arriving at school age would be likely during a period of sickness to have their entrance into school postponed.

(b.) The discussion that was carried on in the press and elsewhere during the early part of the year as to the propriety of not admitting to the schools children under school age, or at least of fixing the minimum age for admission higher than that hitherto adopted.—There is no doubt that this had the effect of preventing the attendance of many young children ; and, as a matter of fact, more than half the decrease that has occurred is owing to the defection of children under six years of age.

(c.) The greater restriction of Roman Catholic children to schools connected with their own denomination.—In former years it has been the practice for such children, while attending their own school for a portion of the year, to attend also occasionally at State schools. These intermittent attendances have in some districts been to a great extent discontinued during the past year.

(d.) The more general withdrawal of children from school on their passing the Standard of Education.—The returns shew that year by year a larger number of children obtain certificates, and the demand for labour has latterly so much increased that the services of children are now more frequently turned to profitable account immediately on their being relieved from the obligation to attend school.

(e.) Truancy.—In consequence of the great demand for labour referred to above, it is believed that many children are now sent to remunerative employment before obtaining their certificates or passing beyond the school age. It is hoped that the addition which has recently been made to the number of truant officers will afford the means of checking this evil.

Number of distinct individual children attending.

The usual steps were taken to determine how far the true attendance had been unduly increased by the enrolment of the same children at more than one school, and the inquiries instituted shewed that of 121,256 present in State schools on the 29th November, 1882, 14,270, or 11·76 per cent., had attended one other State school during the year, 1,666, or 1·37 per cent., had attended two other State schools, and 251, or ·20 per cent., had attended three or more.

The effect of these repeated enrolments would be the same as if 18,355, or 15·1 per cent., of the 121,256 children had been entered on the roll twice. If the total enrolment for the year—viz., 217,294—be reduced in the same proportion, we obtain 184,402 as the number of distinct individual children that attended State day schools during the year.

The corresponding number for 1881 was 192,089, shewing a decrease of 7,687 for the year.

The return of night schools shews a gross enrolment of 5,651 scholars with an average attendance of 1,865. The corresponding figures for 1881 are 6,797 and 2,166 respectively. There has thus been a decrease of 1,146 in the number enrolled, and of 301 in the average attendance.

For the purpose of checking the duplicate enrolments in night schools, the teachers furnished a return similar to that from the day schools of all scholars present on the 29th November, 1882. From this it appears that of 1,504 scholars present on that day, 518, or 34·4 per cent., had attended one other State school during the year, 76, or 5·0 per cent. had attended two other State schools, and 13, or ·8, had attended three or more. It follows therefore that 47·14 per cent. of the names of these scholars would be entered on the roll a second time ; and applying the corrective thus determined to the gross enrolment—5,651—we obtain a result of 2,988 as the number of distinct individual children that attended night schools during the year.

Combining the returns of day and night schools, we have a net enrolment of 187,390, which, as compared with the number enrolled in 1881, shews a decrease of 8,136.

The following table shews for each year since 1872 the continual increase in the number of schools and the changes that have taken place in regard to the number of children enrolled and in average attendance :— Progress under the Education Act as regards number of schools and attendance.

* The figures marked (*) are an approximation only, the returns of numbers on rolls of night schools for these years being incomplete.

It will be noticed that, although in correspondence with the diminished enrolment during 1882, there has been a considerable reduction in the average attendance, the rate of decrease in the latter particular has been much less than in the former. The one shews a falling off of 3·6 per cent., the other of only 2·4 per cent. A comparison of the average attendance with the number enrolled shews the regularity of attendance in a more favourable light than in any previous year, the percentage of average attendance to number enrolled being 53·05 as against 52·39 in 1881 and 52·35 in 1879, which was the best result previously attained.

Again, the average attendance in day schools—116,414—was the result of the attendance of 184,402 children ; and inasmuch as day schools are open on an average for 230 days in the course of the year, it follows that each child must have attended on an average 145·2 days, or 25·2 days in excess of the number required by the Act, an advance of 2·6 on the similar calculation for 1881.

Means are not to hand for instituting the usual comparison with other Australasian colonies, the reports for the year 1882 not having yet been published, except in one instance. The following table, however, exhibits a statement of the latest returns available :— Comparison with adjacent colonies.

or, grouping them with a view to the school age, 3,012 were within the statutory age, and 1,975 above it. Reducing these numbers so as to correspond with the distinct individual children, we obtain—

Between 6 and 15 years	1,805
Above 15 years	1,183
Total	2,988

The number of distinct children at the different ages that were under instruction during 1882 will be as under :—

—	Under 6 Years of Age.	Between 6 and 15 Years.	Above 15 Years.	Total.
Day schools	24,087	151,367	8,948	184,402

Out of every 100 children attending there were therefore—

Under 6 years of age	13·06	...	12·85
Between 6 and 15 years	82·09	60·41	81·74
Above 15 years	4·85	39·59	5·41
Total	100·	100·	100·

Although the proportion of children between 6 and 15 years of age is much higher than for many years past, this is due, as has already been pointed out, not to any increase in the number of such children attending school, but to the fact that the other two classes, and more especially those under 6 years of age, have attended in much diminished numbers. A decrease is indeed shewn in all three groups. The extent of this will be seen in the following table, which has reference to the distinct individual children enrolled in each year :—

—	Day Schools.			Night Schools.			Day and Night Schools Combined.

Total ...	192,089	184,402	7,687	3,437	2,988	449	195,526	187,390	8,136

It will be noted that more than half the deficiency is accounted for by the falling off in the number of children under school age, and that the decrease in the number of pupils of school age, which alone is of serious moment, is only 3,034, or something less than 2 per cent. It is not possible to state with exactitude the reason of this decrease, but there is little doubt that the cause (d) assigned in page iv of this Report will go far to explain it.

Private schools.

The number of private schools which furnished returns for the year 1882, as required by section X. of The Education Act Amendment Act, was 636. Of this number 82 were boys' schools, 73 girls' schools, and 481 were attended by both boys and girls. In addition to these, it is known that 11 other schools were carried on during the year, having been found in operation in March by the collector for the Government Statist, who has kindly supplied me with the statistics of their attendance. The following is a summary of the complete returns :—

——	Under 6 Years of Age.	Between 6 and 15 Years.	Above 15 Years.	Age not stated.	Total.
From returns of 636 schools furnished to Education Department—
Boys	2,487	14,042	2,094	622	19,245
Girls	2,710	15,532	2,226	496	20,964
Total	5,197	29,574	4,320	1,118	40,209
From returns of 11 schools supplied by Government Statist—
Boys	68	383	41	...	492
Girls	90	547	3	138	778
	158	930	44	138	1,270
Total	5,355	30,504	4,364	1,256	41,479

The total is 330 in excess of that for the previous year, the increase being in the number of pupils above 15 years of age. There is only a difference of 5 in the number of children of school age, while there is a decrease of 345 in the number under 6 years.

The ages of 1,256 children were not stated. If these be distributed proportionately among the three groups at specified ages, the number of children of school age will appear as 31,456. If, again, it be assumed that the duplicate enrolments were as numerous as in the State schools, and a similar deduction of 15·1 per cent. be made, we obtain a result of 26,706 as the number of distinct pupils of school age attending private schools.

Number of children of school age.

From the returns of the general census of 1881 it appears that the number of children then living between the ages of 5 and 14 years was 197,260. The changes caused by immigration and emigration may fairly be supposed to counterbalance each other ; and if therefore the above number be corrected by the number of deaths that occurred between those ages during 1881, the result will very approximately represent the number of children between 6 and 15 years in 1882. From the statistics published on pages 25 and 208 of the Victorian Year-Book for 1881–2, it appears that the necessary deduction to be made for deaths may be estimated at 571, and, this being done, we find the number of children of school age in 1882 to be 196,689.

Number of children of school age not known to be under instruction.

The question remains, what portion of these children are receiving no education. It has been seen that there were—

It is not possible to apportion with any degree of accuracy the balance of 16,294 among the several classes from which it is made up. The first two classes mentioned will undoubtedly comprise a very large proportion of the whole; but the fact that the number thus shewn to be not under instruction is much larger than during the previous year suggests the necessity of increased activity in seeking out defaulters. To this end four additional truant officers have lately been appointed, by whose assistance it is trusted a more efficient oversight of the neglected children may be maintained.

Number of scholars who completed the statutory attendance.

The following table shews what proportion of the children who attended school during each quarter completed at least 30 days' attendance :—

	Total Number who Attended during the Quarter.	Number who Attended at least 30 days during the Quarter.	Percentage who Completed at least 30 days' Attendances.

„ „ 31st Dec., 1882 ...	171,334	122,776	71·65

These percentages are, with one exception, not quite so high as those for the previous year, but the difference is very small, and is sufficiently accounted for by the greater prevalence of sickness. The percentage for the whole year is 73·52 as against 73·79 in 1881 and 72·18 in 1880.

The following table exhibits an analysis of the various causes assigned for deficient attendance :—

The percentage of defaulters continues to shew a slight improvement, being for the whole year 5·3 as compared with 5·6 in 1881 and 6·8 in 1880.

In Appendices A (1) and A (2) is given a statement of the expenditure of the Department for the financial year ended 30th June 1883. As compared with the amount for the previous financial year, the total expenditure, inclusive of the sum spent in the erection and maintenance of school buildings, shows a decrease of £2,438 17s. 9d., and, exclusive of the expenditure on buildings, a decrease of £12,240 9s. 10d. Expenditure.

This will be apparent from the following statement:—

Although, as already stated, the total expenditure for the financial year just ended was less than that for the previous financial year, the cost of instruction (calculated, as heretofore, on the amounts spent under the heads numbered 1 and 4 in the preceding statement) for each child in average attendance during the year 1882 was greater than the corresponding amount for 1881, being £4 1s. 7¼d. in day schools, £1 12s. in night schools, and £4 0s. 9¾d. in both combined.

In explanation of this it may be pointed out that the payments made to teachers during 1882 were to a considerable extent based upon the attendance secured in 1881, the effect of the smaller attendance in 1882 in reducing both the number of teachers employed and the salaries payable not being experienced till the latter part of that year and the first half of the current year. On the 31st December, 1882, the number of assistants, pupil-teachers, and workmistresses was indeed considerably less than at the corresponding period in 1881; but the reduction could only be effected gradually in the case of the first two of these classes of teachers.

Inspectors.

The inspectoral staff having sustained a loss through the death of Assistant-Inspector Campbell, Mr. Francis H. Rennick, M.A., was in January last appointed to fill the vacancy. In consequence also of the large increase that has taken place in the number of schools during the last five years, without any corresponding increase in the inspecting staff, it has at length been found absolutely necessary to make three additional appointments to the ranks of the Assistant-Inspectors. For this office, out of a large number of candidates, Messrs. Colin H. Campbell, LL.B., Frederick C. Eddy, M.A., and Henry F. Rix, B.A. have been recently selected. It is hoped that with their assistance the inspection and examination of schools will proceed with due regularity, and that there will be no occasion for the recurrence of arrears which have latterly to some extent been unavoidable.

Instruction.

The annual reports of the Inspectors, which are given in Appendix H, indicate steady improvement in the teaching, discipline, and tone of the schools.

In the report for 1881 it was stated that the percentage of passes gained at the result examinations showed a decided advance on that of previous years. A still further advance may now be recorded. The percentage during last year was 81·47 ; in 1881 it was 79·98.

The following tables furnish a comparative statement of the results of the examinations for the last three years :—

Table I. indicates that substantial improvement has been made in all the subjects included in the programme of instruction; and from Table II. it will be seen that, except as regards Reading II. in Class V., this improvement is to be found in every class in every subject.

Pupils who have passed the standard examination.

The number of pupils who passed the standard of education was not much greater than in 1881, but exceeded that for 1880 by 1,042. As may be observed from the list below, the number of children who during the past two years have obtained certificates exempting them from compulsory attendance at school is 19,221, that is, about one-third of the total number that have obtained such certificates during the ten years the Education Act has been in operation: and this, as has been remarked above, doubtless serves to account to no small extent for the decrease in the enrolment and in the average attendance last year :—

NUMBER OF PUPILS WHO HAVE OBTAINED CERTIFICATES OF BEING EDUCATED UP TO THE STANDARD.

1873	2,334
1874	3,879
1875	4,508
1876	3,410
1877	5,039
1878	2,919
1879	8,312
1880	8,604
1881	9,575
1882	9,646
Total	58,226

Extra subjects.

The number of schools in which extra subjects were taught increased from 187 to 218, but there was no great change in the number of pupils under instruction or in the total of the fees received. The latter amounted to £4,469 6s. 2d. in 1881, and to £4,481 12s. 11d. last year. The following is a list of the subjects and the number of pupils instructed in each :—

Advanced English	25	Bookkeeping	2,267
French	876	History	210
German	63	Chemistry	2
Latin	1,202	Mechanics	9
Greek	2	Physiology	33
Euclid	1,022	Physics	106
Algebra	1,391	Physical Geography	112
Trigonometry	3	Shorthand	19
Mensuration	82	Fancy Needlework	113

Bookkeeping, algebra, geometry, Latin, and French continue to attract by far the greatest number of pupils, but in the other subjects as well as in these the reports of the inspectors indicate that the instruction has been efficiently given. Whenever the teaching is not of a satisfactory character, a portion of the fees is withheld from the teachers, as directed in section 17 of the Education Act; but it has seldom been found necessary to inflict this penalty, and in no case was it done last year. Further evidence that the instruction in these branches is effectively given may be found in the number of State school pupils who pass the matriculation and civil service examinations, 39 being successful at the former, and 67 at the latter, in the October term of 1882. In the previous year the numbers were 38 and 47 respectively.

Military drill and gymnastics.

Military drill was taught in 188 and gymnastics in 4 schools, the attendance at the classes for instruction in drill, 11,360, being about the same as in 1881.

Singing and drawing.

Instruction in singing and drawing as free subjects continues to be given partly by visiting teachers and partly by qualified members of the ordinary staff. Of the former there were 39 last year—namely, 24 teachers of singing and 15 teachers of drawing; and of the latter, 159—namely, 86 teaching singing and 73 teaching drawing. The visiting teachers numbered only one more than in 1881, but the qualified members of the ordinary staff increased by 22. As a greater number of the ordinary teachers qualify themselves to give instruction in singing and drawing, it is hoped that it will be found possible to extend the teaching of these subjects to nearly all schools with an attendance of fifty and upwards; and this, it is thought, may be done without greatly increasing the expenditure under this head if vacancies in the ranks of visiting teachers be not filled up whenever that course can be adopted without impairing the efficiency of the instruction.

Last year singing was taught in 218 schools, to an average attendance of 34,006 children, and drawing in 153 schools, to an average attendance of 20,503 children. This shews a decrease of 860 in the average attendance at the classes in the former subject, but an increase of 1,686 at the classes in the latter. The expenditure for singing, including the cost of inspection, was £7,200 16s. 5d., and for drawing £3,858 11s. 9d.

The arrangements for teaching these subjects provide, as heretofore, for two lessons per week (each lesson being three-quarters an hour in duration) to all children in classes above the second in the case of singing, and to all in classes above the third in the case of drawing. But though these are free subjects, it is still the practice to require that the time devoted to them shall be given in addition to the four hours daily to be allotted to the other subjects named in the programme of free instruction.

Exhibitions

The number of candidates for exhibitions in December last was 72, as against 63 in the previous year ; and the eleven successful competitors were presented from the following schools :—

The number of State school exhibitioners at present attending the Melbourne University and the public grammar schools and colleges is 51, distributed as under :—

	Total	51

During the past year one exhibitioner completed his tenure, one forfeited his exhibition through failure at examination, two resigned, and two, in consequence of illness, were allowed to discontinue their course for twelve months.

Of the 19 students attending the University during 1882, 12 passed an examination in the Arts course, and 5 in the Medical course. As instancing the rapid progress made by some of the exhibitioners, it may be stated that at the end of their third year—or one year earlier than required by the regulations—three passed the first ordinary examination for a degree ; while one, at the end of his fourth year, passed the first ordinary examination for both Arts and Medicine.

The total number of exhibitions granted up to the present time is 105, and of the persons to whom these were awarded—

The following is a list of exhibitioners who, during the year 1882, passed advanced examinations at the University :—

1. Roderick Aitchison, who completed his course as exhibitioner in 1879, graduated M.A.
2. William Armstrong, who completed his course in 1878, graduated M.D.
3. Frederick Eddy, completed 1877, graduated M.A.
4. Robert E. Hayes, completed 1879, graduated LL.B.
5. Thomas Murray, completed 1880, passed 3rd year Engineering with Honours.
6. Thomas Henry Newing, completed 1881, graduated B.A.
7. Frederick J. Owen, completed 1881, graduated M.B.
8. George Palmer, completed 1880, graduated M.B. and Ch.B.
9. George Wilson, completed 1881, graduated B.A.
10. Fred. W. M. Woodward, completed 1881, graduated B.A. with Honours.

It may be added that Wm. R. Fox, who had passed the 4th year Medicine in Melbourne University in 1881, proceeded to Edinburgh, and in 1882 obtained the diplomas of L.R.C.S. and L.R.C.P.

I am also glad to be able to state that numerous distinctions have been obtained during the year by State school exhibitioners attending grammar schools and colleges, and that gratifying reports have been received from the principals of these establishments as regards their conduct and progress. Thus the head master of Wesley College, in his report for the year 1882, read before Your Excellency at the distribution of prizes in December last, remarks :—

"The State school exhibitioners whom we have in our ranks have this year brilliantly maintained the high reputation of this class of boys. The highest honours Wesley College has to bestow, the captaincy of the school and the Walter Powell Scholarship, have this year been won by a State school exhibitioner—Freeman. The same boy is dux in languages and in history. Another State school exhibitioner is dux in mathematics ; and the third has won the school English essay prize. All these have just been candidates for honours at the recent University examinations, and I am sure you will join with me in wishing them all success."

The three exhibitioners referred to passed in Honours, as also one other from Wesley College ; Robert Chapman passing in Honours in mathematics, and obtaining an exhibition ; Walter J. Craig and George Henry Freeman passing in Honours in Latin and Greek, English and History ; and George W. Thompson in Latin and Greek and Mathematics. Wm. G. Ostermeyer, another exhibitioner, was dux of the Scotch College, and obtained a classical exhibition at the University ; while Frederick H. Rickarby, at St. Patrick's College, obtained the silver medal for mathematics.

Teachers.

The number of teachers employed in State schools on the 31st December, 1882, their classification and the positions held by them are shewn in the subjoined statement :—

The improvement which continues to take place in the classification of the head teachers and assistants is shewn in the following table :—

Increase during the twelve months	30	...	...	...
Decrease during the twelve months	...	30	48	48

As compared with 1881, the number of certificated teachers increased by 30, while that of merely licensed and of only partially classified teachers decreased by 78. The larger proportion of teachers now holding the certificate implies an advance not only in literary attainments but in practical skill, the examination for the certificate being, especially as regards the art of teaching, of a much more searching and comprehensive character than that for the licence. At the present rate of improvement, the hope may not unreasonably be indulged that before many years have elapsed all but the very smallest schools will be in the hands of teachers who have passed the higher test.

If the comparison be extended to the year 1871—one year before the present Act came into force—it will be seen, as in the table below, that in that year the unclassified teachers, i.e., teachers who had passed no examination at all, formed 9·1 per cent., and the partially classified 3·5 per cent., of the whole number of head teachers and assistants, whereas at the end of 1882 all but 1·5 per cent. of such teachers were fully classified, and none were unclassified :—

Candidates for employment.

For a considerable time past it has been found possible, and it has been the rule, to fill up all vacancies in the positions of assistants and of head teachers of small schools from the ranks of the trainees and pupil-teachers who have completed their course, and thus no one without previous experience and training has of late been appointed to these positions. On the 31st December, 1882, the teachers available for employment in these capacities were as given below ; and from the number of candidates included in groups 1 and 2 in that statement it is evident that it will continue to be practicable to confine the selection chiefly, if not wholly, to those classes :—

	Males.	Females.	Total.
1. Trainees who had completed their course ...	36	35	71
2. Pupil-teachers eligible for promotion	47	171	218
3. Other qualified candidates for employment ...	20	114	134
Total	103	320	423

Training.

The number of candidates for admission to training was smaller than in 1881, but was still considerably in excess of the number that could be admitted. In January there were 65 applicants, of whom 20 were sent to associated schools, and 3, in whose case the first year's course could be dispensed with, to the Central Institution. In July there were 73 candidates, of whom 20 were admitted to associated schools. In all only 43 were admitted to training during the year, the large number of trainees and pupil-teachers who have completed their course and who are awaiting appointment as head teachers and assistants rendering it unnecessary and unadvisable to provide training for as many persons as in former years. The competition resulting from the smaller number of vacancies allowed of the selection of eligible candidates wholly from amongst those who were either first-class pupil-teachers or matriculated students, and, as intimated in last year's Report, the preference was given to males. This will be apparent from the following table, which shews the number of persons admitted in each term to the first year's course, their qualifications, and the positions to which they were appointed :—

	First-class Pupil-teachers who had completed their Course.				Matriculated Students.			Total.
	Males.		Females.		Males.		Females.
	Paid Students.	Paid Pupils.	Paid Students.	Paid Pupils.	Unpaid Students.	Unpaid Pupil.	Unpaid Student.
January, 1882 ...	3	3	3	1	8	1	1	20
July, 1882	7	1	1	1	10	0	0	20
	10	4	4	2	18	1	1	40

The number of teachers in training during the second half of 1882 was 109 ; of these, 53 were engaged in associated schools, and 56 in the Central Institution. Of the latter, one was relieved from duty in August and one in November, in consequence of illness. One other, who had previously completed the full term of training, but had failed to obtain the trained teacher's certificate, was allowed to attend the classes at the Central Institution and to present himself again for examination.

The teachers trained under the present system now form no inconsiderable portion of the whole number of teachers employed, and it is gratifying to find that the inspectors speak of their work, whether they are engaged as head teachers or as assistants, in almost uniformly favourable terms. As with the improvement noted above in the class of candidates from which trainees are selected, the Department becomes enabled to admit none but those whose natural aptitude for teaching and previous acquirements qualify them to derive all the benefits obtainable from the course, this satisfactory result will, there is every reason to believe, be still more assured.

Examinations.

The usual examinations of pupil-teachers for promotion, and of candidates for certificates of competency and admission to the second year's course of training, were held in December. The following tabular statement shews the results of these examinations :—

Candidates for—	Number Passed.	Number Failed.	Total Number Examined.	Percentage Passed in—
				1882.	1881.	1880.
I.—Pupil-teachers—
(a.) Class I.	126	134	260	48·4	42·1	52·4
(b.) Class II.	129	101	230	56·0	61·3	55·5
(c.) Class III.	123	135	258	47·6	54·9	40·9
II.—Certificate of competency ...	133	349	482	27·5	27·4	19·7
III.—Admission to second year's course of training	24	12	36	66·6	51·9	50·9

The percentage of passes of the three classes of pupil-teachers combined was 50·5, being 2 per cent. below that of 1881, though slightly above the average percentage for the last three years. A larger proportion of candidates for the highest class passed than in the previous year ; but the returns, as a whole, would seem to indicate the necessity for increased diligence and care in the training of junior pupil-teachers ; and, perhaps, also in a few instances, for greater judgment on the part of head teachers in the selection of candidates for the position. The services of 18 pupil-teachers have been dispensed with for repeated failure at examinations.

The candidates for certificate of competency were fewer by 171 than in 1882, the decrease being due probably to the increased difficulty of obtaining employment as teachers under the Department by persons outside the service. As most of the vacancies in the ranks of head teachers and assistants are filled by ex-trainees and pupil-teachers who have completed their course, the demand for additional teachers from without is reduced to a minimum. It is only fair to state that a higher percentage of passes was secured among the candidates at the last examination than at any similar examination during the three years preceding.

Examinations in music were held during the year at Melbourne, Geelong, Ballarat, Castlemaine, Sandhurst, Echuca, Stawell, and Wangaratta. For the licence to teach, 156 candidates presented themselves, and of this number 9 passed fully and 13 partially, 5 of the latter subsequently completing their examinations by passing in the art of teaching. In addition to the above, 7 persons, partially classified previously, obtained the licence by passing in the art of teaching. Four candidates were examined for certificates of competency in music, 2 of whom passed so far as examined, but before they can obtain their certificates they must comply with the Departmental regulations by producing a class taught by them for a period of twelve months which shall pass a satisfactory examination.

In view of the small number of candidates who have hitherto presented themselves at Beechworth, Sale, Warrnambool, Benalla, and Maryborough, it was found desirable to discontinue for the present the holding of examinations at those centres.

As in previous years, examinations in drawing were held in Melbourne, Geelong, Ballarat, Castlemaine, and Sandhurst. Of the 129 candidates who submitted themselves for licence to teach, 26 passed fully and 10 partially—a result comparing favourably with that of the examinations of the previous year, when, out of 196 candidates, 17 passed fully and 10 partially. Ten others completed their classification for licence by passing in the art of teaching.

For the higher classification in drawing—certificate of competency—6 candidates attended, 2 of whom passed so far as examined; but these, before obtaining full classification, have yet to comply with the regulations by furnishing evidence of their ability to teach a class. One other candidate, previously partially classified, completed his examination, and gained the Department's certificate.

The examinations of teachers for science certificates, inaugurated in 1880, have been maintained; and though at the examination held in December last the number of candidates was much smaller than on the two former occasions, the percentage of passes was unusually high, being 62·5, as against 36·2 in 1881 and 32·4 in 1880—a result very creditable in view of the comparative difficulty of these examinations. The subjoined list shews the number of candidates who presented themselves for examination in each of the subjects named, and the number who passed:—

Total ...	...	88 candidates		...	51 passed.

There are now 167 teachers registered as qualified to impart instruction in one or more scientific subjects; a list of these will be found in Appendix G (5).

In the theory of military drill 29 candidates passed out of a total of 76 examined. In the practical test 5 were successful.

Fifty-four teachers and trainees were examined in gymnastics, theoretical and practical; of these 34 fully qualified themselves for imparting instruction in this subject.

Buildings.

The amount available for undertaking new school buildings during the year was not large. A portion only of the £80,000 provided in 1881–2 remained unappropriated; and it was not until the year was well advanced that a further sum of £25,000 was authorized by the "Temporary Advances Act," No. 737. With the moneys so provided some of the most urgent works, principally in the country districts, were proceeded with.

The works thus undertaken and the expenditure under the Maintenance Vote are shewn in detail in Appendices E (1) and E (2), the former giving the works commenced or authorized in 1882, and the latter furnishing a similar statement up to the 30th June, 1883.

The additional school buildings provided during the year have been forty-five, giving accommodation for 6,742 children, together with residences for the teachers in thirty-seven cases.

A complete list of the school buildings owned by the Department, brought up to the 30th June, 1883, is furnished in Appendix D, of which a summary is given below. The totals, as shewn, comprise 1,684 school buildings with accommodation for 161,922 children, and 1,198 teachers' residences :—

The amount voted for the maintenance of buildings during 1882–3 was £20,000, which has been employed with great care in meeting as far as possible the many calls for incidental expenditure connected with the various school properties as well as in their actual maintenance and repair. The details of this expenditure are shewn in Appendices E (1) and E (2), from which the character of the claims upon this vote will be readily seen. Amongst the demands thus made upon the Department are those for the fencing of school sites, the erection of shelter sheds, the planting of shade trees, and the provision of means for the storage of water in addition to the iron tanks usually supplied. That, in many cases, such works are very desirable, and often almost a necessity, cannot be denied ; but, with the funds that can be placed at its disposal, the Department, except in very special cases, is reluctantly compelled to postpone them in favour of works that cannot be deferred.

It will in all probability be many years before the bulk of these claims can be met, and the question suggests itself whether, in view of the very large and absolutely necessary expenditure in connexion with the school buildings and teaching staff, the Department may not fairly look for local assistance in meeting the expense of such matters as the improvement of the school grounds, and increased appliances for the comfort of the children. The strong interest taken throughout the colony in the establishment of prize funds for the schools seems to give reasonable ground for the expectation that such a means of expressing interest in, and appreciation of, our school system would be readily taken advantage of. Special consideration will certainly be given by the Department in cases where such practical co-operation is evinced.

A large number of the original portable school buildings have, in localities where settlement has proved to be of a fixed character, been weather-boarded and made permanent, as is shewn in Appendix D. Since it was found that only a comparatively small number of these portable schools had to be removed, structures of an inexpensive but more permanent character have been substituted, which, though not so specially designed for easy removal, give almost equal facilities for rapid erection and the early establishment of schools. These have been found to answer satisfactorily.

The special precautions taken in all new wooden buildings to repel the attacks of white ants have, it is thought, been attended with success, since the complaints of damage from that cause, though still occurring, are far less frequent than formerly. Time alone, however, will shew whether the means adopted will permanently secure the buildings from their ravages.

The estimate of the sum necessary to meet the further requirements of the colony in regard to school buildings has been revised to date ; and, including the provision of State school properties for the present leased premises, amounts to £102,000. To meet this estimated expenditure, £95,000 will be made available from the balance of Loan 717, to be floated early in 1884. Parliamentary authority for the application of this amount has lately been obtained, and it is probable that advances for some of the more urgent cases may be made, although the erection of most of the new buildings proposed must still be held over until the loan has been actually floated.

It will be remembered that the Education Commission in its first progress report recommended that the Architect's branch of the Department should, for purposes of economy—specially in the matter of inspection—be amalgamated with the Public Works Department. Arrangements to effect this object are now being made, by which it is hoped that the various works in connexion with school buildings will be undertaken and carried out with no less promptitude than under the present system.

As it is not improbable that no further provision for school buildings and properties may be made by loans, it must once more be pointed out that the estimated annual cost of providing for the new works which will become necessary through the increase and changes of population and other causes, and for the maintenance of buildings, is from £50,000 to £55,000.

School requisites

No important alteration has been made in the Department's list of books, maps, &c., granted as free-stock. The issue of small maps of the World, Asia, Africa, and America has, however, been discontinued, and in lieu thereof an improved edition of the large map of the World is now supplied as occasion requires to all, even the smallest, schools. Arrangements are also in contemplation for providing a new and improved map of Victoria ; and through the kindness of the Lands Department all the larger schools have lately been furnished at a very moderate expense with the map of "Continental Australia," which contains the results of recent explorations and surveys.

Notwithstanding that the free grants of requisites have been made subject to no greater restrictions than heretofore, the expenditure under this head continues to shew a satisfactory decrease, being £827 12s. 2d. less than that for the financial year ended 30th June, 1882.

School districts.

The number of school districts in the colony at the commencement of 1882 was, as stated in my last Report, 318; and in the course of the year four additional ones were constituted, viz.:—

No. 329.—Borough of Geelong West.
„ 330.—Warragul } in place of No. 303, Buln Buln.
„ 331.—Drouin }
„ 332.—Charlton.

thus bringing up the total number of districts existing on 31st December to 321. The new districts do not include any new area, but were formed, with the view of meeting local requirements more completely, by separation from old districts which had become too large or unwieldy.

The boundaries of the following districts also were readjusted, viz.:—

No. 248.—West Loddon Riding of Swan Hill.
„ 310. }
„ 312. } Shire of Echuca.
„ 317. }
„ 318. }
„ 159.—Shire of Huntly.
„ 256. }
„ 257. } Shire of Waranga.
„ 258. }

The five districts noticed in the last two Reports as being unrepresented by Boards of Advice still remain in the same position—a result chiefly due to the sparseness of population. These are—

No. 137.—Shire of Dundas, West Riding.
„ 192. „ Minhamite, North-East Riding.
„ 199. „ Mortlake, East Riding.
„ 211. „ Mount Rouse, Dunkeld Riding.
„ 301. „ Wannon, Balmoral Riding.

In a sixth district—No. 143, Shire of Eltham, South Riding—the members having retired through effluxion of time without offering themselves for re-election, the Board lapsed and has not since been re-constituted.

The year 1882 coinciding with the termination of one of the triennial periods for which Boards are elected under the Act, the number of members who retired by effluxion of time was much greater than in the two preceding years, amounting to 793. In addition, 7 members retired on the district which they represented being abolished, 76 resigned, 9 died, and 3 forfeited their seats through non-attendance.

To fill these vacancies, 360 elections were held, which resulted in the return of 681 members. In 86 cases in which preliminary arrangements had been made for holding an election, no candidates being nominated, appointments were made by the Governor in Council, the number of members so appointed being 140; while, in addition, 4 were appointed for districts in which there are no ratepayers, thus making the total number of appointments 144.

The cost of the elections was £761 13s. 3d.

Upon representations being made that the hours fixed for taking the poll, viz., from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., did not afford sufficient facilities to electors for recording their votes, an amendment was made in the regulations, whereby the poll is opened at 8 a.m. and closed at 5 p.m.

Compulsory clause.

The arrangements under which the enforcement of the compulsory clause of the Act was carried out during 1882 will be seen from the following statement:—

—	Districts in which Prosecutions were authorized by—				Total Number of School Districts in existence during the period.
	Boards of Advice—			The Department.
	Unassisted.	Assisted by Truant Officer.	Total.
Quarter ended 31st March	12	213	225	93	318
„ 30th June	11	213	224	94	318
„ 30th September ...	10	214	224	95	319
„ 31st December ...	11	218	229	91	320

The greatest number of Boards which took part in the enforcement of the compulsory clause during any one quarter of the year 1881 was 220 out of a total of 313 in operation, whereas in the last quarter of 1882 the number was 229 out of a total of 315—thus shewing that the number of Boards who voluntarily undertake this duty is still steadily increasing.

The following summary gives particulars of the prosecutions which took place during the year 1882:—

By whom authorized.	Number of Prosecutions.	Convictions obtained.	Dismissed.	Withdrawn.	Not proceeded with.	Fines.	Costs.
						£ s. d.	£ s. d.

Boards of Advice ...	4,490	3,990	260	94	146	909 15 0	340 19 0
Totals	5,818	5,178	332	131	177	1,150 15 0	449 12 6

In 222 cases the full penalty of £1 was inflicted, to which in some instances costs, varying in amount from £1 to £2 2s., were added, while in others imprisonment for terms ranging from four hours to seven days was ordered in default of payment.

On the other hand, numerous complaints have been made by Boards of Advice that the penalties inflicted in their districts—some being as low as 6d.—are altogether insufficient, and have little or no effect in securing compliance with the compulsory clause of the Act. While parents are found who do not value education sufficiently to cause their children to attend school for even the short period per quarter required by law, it is hoped that the bench will give the fullest consideration to cases of prosecution under the Education Act, and will not shrink from inflicting adequate penalties where continued neglect is proved.

Classification of teachers.

Attention has been called by the Royal Commission on Education to the urgent necessity for some change in the method of appointing and promoting teachers, so as to render it impossible for political considerations to enter into such matters. It is proposed in the Public Service Bill now before Parliament to render the appointments and promotions of all members of the teaching staff of schools, as of all other public servants, independent of political influence, and dependent solely on good conduct, ability, and length of service. Advantage has been taken of the opportunity afforded by the changes proposed in this Bill to introduce other long promised and much needed reforms in connexion with the position and emoluments of teachers. Provision is made for arranging the members of this branch of the service in classes according to their certificates and the positions held ; for giving annual increments, as in other departments ; for securing them against fluctuations in income through circumstances beyond their control ; and for readjusting the salaries so that these may correspond more exactly with the responsibilities and duties of the several positions. By these changes it is hoped that, with little or no increase in expenditure, the office of teacher will be substantially benefited, additional inducements will be given to industry and good conduct, as well as to the acquisition of higher certificates, and the public education of the colony will be materially advanced.

I have the honour to be,
My Lord Marquis,
Your Lordship's most obedient servant,

JAMES SERVICE,
Minister of Public Instruction.

The Most Noble the Marquis of Normanby, G.C.M.G.,
Governor of Victoria.
