INSPECTORS' REPORTS FOR THE YEAR 1884.

REPORT OF ROBERT CRAIG, ESQUIRE, M.A., LL.B., METROPOLITAN SOUTH DISTRICT.

Sir,

Brighton, 20th April, 1885.

I have the honour to submit my general report for the year 1884.

The district under my charge this year was the Metropolitan South. It embraced the schools lying along the eastern shore of Port Phillip Bay, and those around Western Port Bay, together with that portion of Gippsland of which Poowong is the centre. The suburbs of Melbourne included in it were Port Melbourne, South Melbourne, St. Kilda, and Brighton.

The district was, on the whole, well provided with school accommodation. Only three new schools were granted during the year. One of them was opened in a leased building near the Caulfield Railway Station; the second in a leased building at Rosebud, about three miles from Dromana; the third in a State building at Yallock, between Western Port Bay and the Kooweerup.

All the schools in the district, excepting these new ones, were examined for results in the course of the year, and about two-thirds of them also received a second visit. Valuable assistance in the inspection of the district was rendered, towards the close of the year, by Mr. Inspector Stewart and Mr. Inspector Shelton, after they had completed the inspection of their own districts.

The great majority of the schools were found to be in a satisfactory state of efficiency; and those which failed to show fair proficiency were happily less numerous than those which attained excellence.

In nearly all the schools the discipline was good, and order appeared to be secured without undue harshness. In one case, however, a female teacher had to be reprimanded for cruelly ill-treating a little boy.

As a rule, the neatness with which the pupils were required to do their work on paper was gratifying to witness, but it was noticed that slovenly work on slates was too often permitted. A few teachers were met with who were not sufficiently careful that their own desks and the general appearance of the school-room and play-ground should be patterns of tidiness to their scholars.

The pupil-teachers examined in the Art of Teaching for promotion showed that pains had been bestowed upon their training. Some of them gave excellent lessons in grammar and arithmetic. In the former subject they generally used the inductive method, engaged the co-operation of their pupils in arriving at the definitions, and imparted interest to their lessons. In their explanation of subtraction they universally adopted the method of decomposition of the minuend. They appeared to think that the other method, that of equal additions, would not be so acceptable to the Inspector. For my part, however, this is the method which appears to be the more convenient. It is equally easy in practice, and it is more easily explained in the case where the minuend contains a great number of noughts. In using this method young teachers need to be warned against employing the fallacious terms, "borrowing" and "paying back."

The new scheme of instruction which the Conference of Inspectors last year recommended has met with the approval of some of our ablest and most intelligent teachers. This augurs well for its success.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

ROBERT CRAIG,

Inspector of Schools.

The Secretary, Education Department.

REPORT OF CHARLES TYNAN, ESQUIRE, M.A., LL.M., METROPOLITAN NORTH DISTRICT.

Sir,

St. Kilda, 24th February, 1885.

I have the honour to forward my report on the Metropolitan North District for the year 1884. In the district there are 64 day schools (including the Coburg Reformatory) and eight night schools. My duties as a member of the Board of Examiners engrossed my attention for more than four months of the year, and the inspection and examination of the schools on my programme would not nearly have been completed but for the valuable assistance of Inspectors Gamble and Ware. By the timely help of these gentlemen, all the schools in the district were inspected and examined during the year, those only excepted in which the prevalence of some wide-spread epidemic, or other equally strong reason, rendered advisable the postponement of the examination. To the former of these causes is owing the postponement of the examination of all the Fitzroy schools. As the district is an old settled one, it is well provided with schools, and during the year there was but one application for increased school accommodation. This application was from the residents of North Brunswick, and was justified by the rapidly increasing population in that suburb, consequent upon the opening of the Coburg Railway. New schools have been erected at Carlton (Rathdowne-street) and at Tullamarine, the latter amalgamating the schools previously in existence at Tullamarine and Scafield. To meet the increasing demand for school accommodation, the buildings at Coburg and Broadmeadows have received considerable extension, and that at Lygon-street (1073) is in process of enlargement. Sites for new schools are being obtained at Campbellfield and Merriang, and on these will be erected State schools in the place of the present rented buildings. The school at Upper Sunday Creek has been re-opened and transferred from the Goulburn Valley District to the Metropolitan North District, in exchange for Glenaroua (1131), which now finds a place on Mr. Eddy's programme, while East Baynton (2038) has been transferred from the Castlemaine District to the Metropolitan North.

FURNITURE, APPARATUS, ETC.

The schools in the district, having been nearly all in existence for some considerable time, are generally well provided with the requisite furniture and apparatus. Applications for free stock are diminishing in number and are for smaller quantities. It is still my opinion that the free grant is an evil, in that it appreciably affects the morale and discipline of the school, and that it might advantageously be discontinued. The walls of our school-rooms are still conspicuous by the absence of charts, diagrams, pictures of the more familiar animals, and maps of the separate colonies. The absence of those maps is particularly to be regretted, and is no doubt, to a great extent, the cause of the imperfect knowledge of Australian geography so marked in many of our schools.

ORGANIZATION.

The organization of the schools generally may be said to be of a steadily improving character. A carefully constructed time-table, with fidelity in carrying out the arrangements specified therein, and a judicious distribution of the staffs provided, with a view to the adequate supervision of the classes under control, are marked features of the majority of the schools in the district. There has been, too, but little cause to complain of the classification, which, as a rule, is based upon the attainments and not on the ages of the pupils.

The regulation under which marks are deducted in the case of a class being over programme age affects injuriously but few of the schools, and in these the loss is by no means serious. In most of the cases, too, in which loss is incurred, there is but little doubt that it is to inefficient teaching or unsound classification that the loss is to be attributed. The liberal concessions made during the year by the Department, on the recommendation of the Conference of Inspectors, in regard to the exceptionally low attendance at examinations, and to absences caused by contagious and infectious diseases, removal from the district, sickness of pupil, death of near relative, flooded state of roads, have rendered the cases in which hardship arises from the regulation in question extremely rare.

INSTRUCTION.

This being my first year in charge of the district, I can only speak absolutely, not relatively, of the state of instruction in the schools. Classifying roughly the schools visited during the year, I should say that about 12 of them are excellent, 30 are good, 19 fair, 3 weak, and none positively bad. Should the recommendations that I have made during the year be carried into effect, I shall expect to see all the weak schools in the category fair, with many of the fair ones rising to the class above. The percentages throughout the district are comparatively high; from which may be inferred that, as regards management, the schools are in a high state of efficiency.

EXTRA SUBJECTS.

In ten schools in the district are extras taught; Latin, French, Euclid, algebra, mensuration, and bookkeeping being the subjects generally chosen. These subjects are taught with but moderate success, and in only one of the schools is anything like marked proficiency attained. This school—391 Central—provided four of the successful candidates for exhibitions during the year. I am glad to see that the Department has adopted the recommendation of the Conference of Inspectors with regard to exhibitions, and that the examinations will in future be confined to the subjects of the free course. This will remove the most serious objection that has hitherto been made against our system of examination for exhibitions—that it was too exclusive, and debarred from competition many worthy students who from want of means or opportunity were unable to obtain satisfactory instruction in the subjects requisite to ensure a successful position in the honour list.

DISCIPLINE.

One of the most pleasing features in connexion with the Metropolitan North District is the general good order that prevails in the schools. The tone of our schools is undoubtedly rising, and I feel confident that before long it will be very exceptional to find an Inspector report a school as of poor or doubtful morale.

Military Drill is well taught in most of the town schools. The instruction in this subject will no doubt receive additional impetus by the formation of the cadet corps at the schools, in connexion with our present defence scheme.

RECORDS.

The records are, as a rule, carefully and faithfully kept.

I have the honour to remain, Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

The Secretary, Education Department.

CHARLES TYNAN.

REPORT OF ALFRED CLARIBEUX CURLEWIS, ESQUIRE, M.A., METROPOLITAN WEST DISTRICT.

SIR,

Melbourne, 18th April, 1885.

I have the honour to forward my report on the Metropolitan West District for the year 1884.

Having been on various occasions withdrawn from the work of inspection, to assist the Board of Examiners, and owing to other circumstances, I was unable to pay two visits to all the schools in my district.

I am sorry to say that, speaking generally, the buildings are not as well cared for as they should be. I have frequently had to complain of scribbling and caricatures on the walls, and, at my visits in the early part of the year, of want of attention to cleanliness and neatness. I attribute this in a great measure to the fact that in many cases members of the Boards of Advice do not take very much interest in the work they have undertaken, and also to the fact that the exigencies of the office have often prevented the Inspector for the time being from making the half-yearly visits. (I found that some of the schools had not been examined for two years.) There are, however, some exceptions to this want of care, and among these is Mr. Lascelles' school at Little Hampton, which, by means of pictures, charts, flowers, &c., presents a bright and attractive appearance that is quite refreshing, and offers an example that I wish other teachers would endeavour to imitate.

In the large schools I have been surprised to find so few pupils in the sixth and upper-sixth classes. In very few schools was there an upper-sixth class at all.

I discovered that in some of the town schools, the conditions of the maintenance allowance notwithstanding, pupils were required to bring their own penholders and nibs. As a consequence of this, I had in several cases to condemn as unfit for use a large proportion of the pens which I found the pupils using.

Reading:—In hardly a school in the district have I found proper attention paid to the pronunciation of the aspirate. The children drop their h's without correction, and in some cases the teachers set them the example. From the Cockney and Cornish the disease has spread to the Scotch and Irish. We are in a fair way of becoming a nation without an h in our vocabulary. From the average choir you will be pretty sure to hear "eaven" and "ell," and "'oly, 'oly, 'oly." The average porter shouts out "'Awthorn" and "'Awksburn," and the average cabman "Emerald 'ill." There are other weak points in Victorian pronunciation; but this, I think, is the worst.

The chief reasons why the metropolitan and suburban schools are, as a rule, inferior to those in the country and country towns seem to me to be the following:—(1.) The teachers have not that personal knowledge of and interest in the children and their parents which teachers in other places generally have. Many of them reside out of the school district, and much of their time is occupied in travelling to and fro. (2.) The greater attractions and distractions of Melbourne life naturally divert much of the energy and attention which otherwise would be given to the school. (3.) The exigencies of the office and the work of the Board of Examiners have prevented that amount of inspection and supervision being given to the schools which their condition seems to require.

In this, as in other districts, I find that in nearly all the rural and mining parts, as the youngsters grow out of school age, there are very few to take their places. Hence schools which were once well filled now present "a beggarly array of empty benches." This is more especially noticeable about the Pentland Hills and Blackwood.

I trust that we shall soon be able to afford to every school of over 30 children well-executed charts of animals, &c. Those now issued are given to only a few schools, and represent the rude efforts of the lithography of more than 40 years ago. Their price too, considering their quality, seems to me excessive.

I would recommend that a teacher taking over a school from another should be instructed to place among the school papers a copy of the invoice of the free stock, &c., which he receives from his predecessor. A neglect of this precaution often causes some trouble.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

ALFRED C. CURLEWIS.

The Secretary, Education Department.

REPORT OF JAMES HOLLAND, ESQUIRE, M.A., BALLARAT DISTRICT No. 1.

SIR,

Ballarat, 10th April, 1885.

I have the honour to forward my report on Ballarat No. 1 District for the year ending 31st December, 1884.

DISTRICT.

Since my last report, the schools near Landsborough, always very loosely connected with Ballarat No. 1, have been transferred to Ararat; and the district now, though not so compact as when I first took charge in 1878, is much more so than it has been of late years.

INSTRUCTION.

I believe that a comparison of the percentage of results affords a very fair index of the progress made from year to year. Judged by this test, I am glad to report that the schools of this district keep well up to the high standard attained by them in past years. I believe also that the teachers who have gone from here have been equally successful in other parts of the colony. Of course, in comparing the results obtained in one year with those obtained in previous years, consideration must be had for the facts that more liberal allowances are now made for "excessive" ages and absentees, and also that the head-masters are becoming better acquainted, from year to year, with the requirements of the examination. Still, allowing for all this, there can be no doubt that good and substantial progress is being made.

When the new programme is introduced, concessions to the teachers with regard to average age of classes and other matters must also be made. A suggestion, made by Mr. Topp, in his last report, that a percentage of 90 per cent. should be considered the maximum, would be a very great concession, and would go a great way towards smoothing away the difficulties attending so thorough an alteration in the course of instruction. I should be glad to see that suggestion acted upon. I doubt whether the advantages gained in the attempt to reach a higher percentage compensate for the sacrifices made to attain that object. I would, however, suggest that the remaining 10 per cent. (or a part thereof, according to circumstances) should be granted for neatness and style of work, class drill, discipline, and general tone of school, and for particular excellences; and that such allowance should be made to those schools only which obtained over the average result percentage of the colony, or, say, over 80 per cent.

ORGANIZATION.

The general management of the schools in this district is good. The time-tables, as a rule, show a well-devised scheme of work, and are well carried out. They may at times be more neatly and tastefully constructed.

The Board of Examiners complain, with reason, of the time-tables submitted to them by candidates in their "School Management" papers. A great many of the glaring errors therein exhibited are to be accounted for by the natural hurry and confusion of thought attendant on examination. Such faults are not commonly found in the time-tables seen in the schools. Again, in the allotment of time for each subject, a candidate may possibly have some particular school before his mind's eye when constructing the table. In actual inspection, I make a practice of looking over the reports of former examinations, and if an unusually short time is given to a difficult subject in which the school is always successful, or an exceptionally long time to an easier one in which it fails, to consider the time-table suitable for that particular school. The circumstances of the school, and the teacher's natural aptitude for giving instruction in special branches, have to be considered in estimating the suitability of the time-table.

DISCIPLINE.

The behaviour of the pupils whilst under inspection is excellent. There is still a very great difference between the readiness and smartness of the children in those schools in which class drill is well practised and the inertness of the children in those in which the drill receives insufficient attention.

CERTIFICATE OF BEING SUFFICIENTLY EDUCATED.

I would again call attention to the misleading wording of this certificate. It is somewhat unfair to require an Inspector to sign such a paper when he is perfectly certain that the recipient is very insufficiently educated at the time of its receipt, and will probably in a year or two forget the little he has learnt. It is quite possible that utterly ignorant men may in after years produce these certificates, and give apparent proofs in their own persons of the low standard of education required when they were boys. The fact is the certificate is simply one of "exemption from compulsory attendance," and should, I think, be so designated. The standard has, indeed, been raised during the year; it is now, in my opinion, too high for an exemption ticket, and too low for a certificate of education. I should like to see an exemption ticket given to children who pass satisfactorily in the 4th class, on sufficient proof being produced that their services are urgently required at home, either through the mother being a widow, or the father being incapacitated for work.

NIGHT SCHOOLS.

There are two in this district, both well taught. Whether the results obtained are commensurate with the work expended on them is, however, a very different question. The attendance is so uncertain that scarcely any of the pupils presented at one examination re-appear at the one next ensuing. It is impossible to estimate progress; indeed, the schools as a whole can make no progress. The few children who attend regularly do as well as can be expected, when it is considered that many of them are at work during the day, that they attend not so much from any desire to gain any benefit as to evade the compulsory clause of the Act, and that the time spent in school and in learning their lessons out of school must necessarily be short.

If exemption tickets were issued, I should like to see the night school attendance confined to those who possessed the tickets, or who, on account of age, were exempt from attendance at day schools. A greater number of the pupils would then probably attend with a view to get some good from the instruction they received.

EXAMINATION OF TEACHERS IN WRITING.

In the examination of teachers, I would gladly see some change made in the writing test. At present a second failure in writing involves failure in all subjects. I have known of candidates who taught writing well, and, in one case, of an excellent penman, failing in an examination-room through nervousness, arising from the knowledge that so much depended on success or failure in the subject. If the composition is written in a clear and legible hand, and the general character of the papers is good, I think it should be optional with the candidate, after one failure, either to submit again to the same test, or to give satisfactory proof of ability to teach the subject.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

J. HOLLAND.

The Secretary, Education Department.

I was "on leave" four days, and there were fourteen and a half public holidays during the year.

The duties devolving on me as an Examiner in Music have been materially lightened. In former years the examination occupied the greater part of three weeks; the new arrangements permit of the work being accomplished quite as efficiently in a week. The most important point—the lowering of the standard of requirements for the "licence to teach singing"—still remains to be dealt with. In every other departmental examination a fair percentage of the candidates are successful, while in music the number of successful candidates is absurdly small. And the explanation is not hard to find. The requirements are, in my opinion, much too high, especially in the sight singing and the dictation tests. I am fully persuaded that many teachers would be prepared to study the theory and practice of music in order to obtain the "licence to teach," if a fair percentage of candidates at the examinations were successful. What a boon it would be to country schools to have a teacher who could and would train the children in vocal music! I would even go so far as to bar the entrance to the profession of teacher to all who were incapable of passing a reasonable examination in music.

During the year I have omitted no opportunity of urging the teachers in the district to undertake the planting and rearing of suitable shade-trees, &c. I am pleased to report that they have shown a cheerful compliance with this request. If they will only persevere until the plants secure a firm root-hold, I am sure they will be amply rewarded for all their trouble and care.

My experiences during the summers of the six years I have spent in this northern district make me feel very strongly that a plentiful supply of wholesome drinking water at the schools is as essential for the pupils as "book-knowledge." In the northern parts of Victoria a 400-gallon tank is utterly inadequate to hold a supply of rain-water for the summer months for even the smallest schools. I have frequently gone parched and dry for hours, rather than taste the water available at a school, when I learnt that it had been obtained from a neighbouring dam, which received the drainage from paddocks where cattle and sheep pastured.

The teacher at Tongala school has at last succeeded in obtaining an underground tank of about 5,000 gallons capacity. A part of the expense was defrayed by the proceeds from entertainments held in the school, and the Department permitted the teacher to sell the iron tanks originally supplied to the school, and to appropriate the money towards the cost of the underground tank, which had to be constructed under the supervision of an officer of the Public Works Department. Other teachers should follow so laudable an example.

Many teachers have bestirred themselves and obtained subscriptions—sometimes by concerts, sometimes by canvassing—towards the expense of fencing in the school grounds. I believe the Department is generally prepared to contribute a moiety of the sum required. It should be to the teacher's interest to have the school site fenced. The boldest vagabonds have some dread of the law of trespass, and generally keep on the right side of a fence.

During January and February I rendered the usual assistance to the Board of Examiners. The examinees' papers that passed through my hands showed, as a rule, considerable intelligence and care; but there was an appreciable minority of candidates who did unsatisfactory work; there was an absence of care in their ordinary writing; their answers to the questions in grammar and geography were irrelevant; and their attempted solutions of the tests in arithmetic were perplexing and often unintelligible.

While exception may fairly be taken to some of the work done by candidates for certificates of competency at the general examination, it is most unusual to have to find fault with the work done by children at result examinations, so far as neatness and intelligent answering are concerned. In fact, there is little room for any improvement in these respects, and it is very gratifying to be able to say so. I am satisfied that in a very large majority of the schools in my district the best possible results are secured—schools of which all interested in them, and that includes the District Inspector, may well feel proud. Many of the remainder are honestly pressing to be, "If not the first, in the very first line;" and when a few of the "State's bad bargains" have found "fresh woods and pastures new," there will be but two grades of schools, the good and the excellent.

Frequently during the year I have drawn the attention of teachers to the fact that insufficient oral instruction had been observed during the inspection; that the pupils had been kept constantly employed at slate work for a time, at the end of which the teacher had hastily corrected or revised the work done. Some were surprised when told that this was examining, not teaching. Capable teachers never lose sight of the fact that oral teaching is their chief duty, and the most effective means to secure the progress of their pupils; they examine only at certain periods to ascertain the progress their pupils have made. The "examining" mania is carried to extremes in schools where herculean home lessons are prescribed.* The time required to thoroughly revise such work must be equally great; and, if the revision be not thoroughly done, the only result secured will be incorrect conceptions, muddled brains, and ruined handwriting. The intelligent and thoughtful teacher knows full well that in most subjects he can, in half-an-hour, impress indelibly more of real knowledge on his pupils than they could acquire for themselves by a week's home work: he prescribes home work merely to deepen, by the aid of text-books or otherwise, the knowledge already implanted by his oral teaching.

My experience is that, given equal attainments, female teachers are in no way inferior to male teachers. On the contrary, they have superior natural qualifications for teaching and training children. A teacher's duty does not begin and end with literary instruction. The general training of the child is, to a large extent, in the teacher's hands; and the effect which a good teacher has upon the conduct and manners of the pupils is no less noticeable, and certainly no less important, than the extent and quality of the learning which is imparted. Some of the best schools in my district are conducted by female teachers. Nothing can be more certain than the fact that it is the teacher that makes the school, and that with fairly regular attendance on the part of the pupils—a circumstance largely within the teacher's control—and with hearty devotion to duty on the part of the teacher, excellent work can be got from the least promising of schools.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your most obedient servant,
WALTER M. GAMBLE.

The Secretary, Education Department.

Smith's difficult problems in arithmetic; solve eight simple equations, four being problems.

REPORT OF ALEXANDER STEWART, ESQUIRE, GEELONG DISTRICT.

SIR,

Geelong, 3rd March, 1885.

I have the honour to forward my annual report for 1884. The inspection of this district was commenced on the 3rd of March and completed on the 25th of October. There were 91 full-time schools in operation and two half-time ones.

Each of them was visited at least twice, except Meredith, No. 420, closed at my visit on account of measles, and Apollo Bay, No. 2149, and Cape Otway, No. 2352, which, owing to the dangerous nature of the roads, are only visited once a year. From the 27th of October to the 12th of December, I was engaged inspecting schools in the Metropolitan districts.

The summary of the work for the year is as follows:—

Number of miles travelled	3,507
Number of hours spent in travelling	518·9
" " schools	914·1
" " writing reports, inquiries, &c. ...	189·0
" " examinations	252·2
" " other work not specified above...	157·5
	2,031·7
Number of children present at inspection during the first half-year	6,145
Number of children present at inspection during the second half-year	6,077
Number of children present at inspection in the Metropolitan districts during the second half-year ...	1,515
	13,737

During the first half of the year the health of the district was good, but towards the close measles and whooping-cough were very prevalent, reducing considerably the attendance at some schools, and causing others to be temporarily closed.

BUILDINGS.

The school accommodation is, almost without exception, of excellent character. At Modewarre, No. 2628, and at Pettavel, No. 2630, new schools have been erected. A new building is required for Belmont, No. 26, while those at Boonah, No. 2521, Barunah Plains, No. 1376, and East Bellarine, No. 231, all having few scholars in attendance, compare unfavorably with the other buildings. It gives me pleasure to note that not only are there many teachers who keep their schools neat and clean, but there are also some who, as at Jan Juc and St. Albans, cultivate a taste for the beautiful, by making their school-rooms bright with a display of flowers.

FURNITURE AND APPARATUS.

All the schools are fully equipped with the furniture and apparatus necessary for the successful carrying on of school work, but I have too often to report that the infant classes do not use the desks for their writing lesson, and that the ball-frame is forgotten when their lesson on tables is given.

ORGANIZATION.

The arrangement of work and the distribution of time are as a rule satisfactory. The time-table shows the daily work of the school, and with but few exceptions is faithfully carried out. Except class-drill in some of the smaller schools, the subjects of the programme are duly provided for, but the circulars regarding instruction in sanitary science and in morals have not in several instances been attended to.

INSTRUCTION.

As a rule the work is carried on diligently, and with a satisfactory amount of success, both teachers and scholars in most schools being interested in it. Sound progress is shown by the scholars, and the teachers are manifesting increased anxiety to make their schools popular. One of the best means that I am acquainted with of making a school popular is to curtail as much as possible the amount of home work, and to make it principally the application of what has been taught during the day, in order that it may be accomplished without any assistance. Parents interested in, as well as those indifferent to, the progress of their children often complain of the inordinate amount of time taken up in the preparation of evening tasks. It should never be forgotten that quality and not quantity is required, and that bad writing is frequently to be traced to hurried home work. Too often work is set without giving due consideration as to the amount of time and labour needed for its accomplishment. Remembering that children in most schools have five hours' teaching daily, it would appear that an hour's work in the evening such as I have described should be quite sufficient for scholars up to the 4th class inclusive. By examining the home exercises, Inspectors, and frequently parents also, are able to gauge pretty accurately the quality of the teaching. Every teacher, who while keeping home tasks strictly within due limits carries on his school successfully, will inevitably reap the good-will and gratitude of the parents. Judging from the numerous failures in comprehension that occur, it would seem either that sufficient pains are not yet taken in many schools to make the children understand the meaning of what they read, or that the efforts put forth are misdirected. To teach any subject successfully, it is absolutely necessary that the meanings of the terms used are thoroughly understood. Neglect in this direction has been prominently brought under my notice with respect to the teaching of grammar and geography. To secure an intelligent knowledge of these subjects, class teaching is of chief importance, and I would strongly recommend that text-books for grammar and geography be not placed in the hands of scholars until they have reached the 5th class. The scholars generally are taught in accordance with the programme of instruction. At the result examinations seven of the schools have obtained over 90 per cent., and I propose to enter in my next report a detailed list of the schools which gain a similar percentage. During the year enlarged powers regarding the exemption of scholars from result examinations have been granted to Inspectors, thus providing due allowance for every case of unavoidable absence. As the requirements to obtain certificates of being educated up to the standard, as set forth under Regulation VIII., are now more rigidly interpreted, there has been a marked falling off in the number of certificates issued. Nor is this a matter for regret. For scholars will now require to remain at school until they can read the fifth book fluently, and can write from dictation in small hand with correct spelling a short passage containing no words of exceptional difficulty.

MILITARY DRILL.

As a result of the efficient instruction they receive, the youths of this district acquit themselves creditably in this subject.

EXTRA SUBJECTS.

It is gratifying to record that Flinders State School, Geelong, No. 260, has again carried off more than its share of exhibitions. In the other schools these subjects are satisfactorily taught.

DISCIPLINE.

As far as I have an opportunity of judging, the behaviour of the scholars is good. There is very little corporal punishment administered, and not a complaint of any misconduct has come under my notice. Drysdale and West Geelong deserve credit for the exceptionally good behaviour—I may say politeness—that the scholars exhibit.

TEACHERS.

Taken as a body, they worthily discharge the duties of their office. Their conduct and work has not, in a single instance during the year, been called in question. I should like to be able to report a more successful result regarding the annual examination of pupil-teachers.

I cannot close this report without adding my tribute to the value of the work done by the late Superintendent of the Training Institution. Mr. Gladman ever set before his students a high standard of excellence, and spared no effort to fully furnish them for their future work. He loved his work, and succeeded in imbuing many of his students with the same spirit. The educational interests of Victoria have, by his death, sustained a serious loss. In his last report, when reviewing the scheme of instruction proposed by the Conference of Inspectors, he wrote the following pathetic words, which all feel have, in his case, too soon proved themselves true:—"Probably many of us will have laid the work down before the unavoidable difficulties, or evils, connected with the proposed scheme are fully overcome, but we can do something towards clearing the road for those who come after us."

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

ALEXANDER STEWART.

The Secretary, Education Department, Melbourne.

REPORT OF ROSS COX, ESQUIRE, CASTLEMAINE DISTRICT.

SIR,

Castlemaine, 4th February, 1885.

I have the honour to furnish my report on the Castlemaine District for the year 1884.

The schools in my district were reduced to 99 through the following causes, viz.:—East Baynton, No. 2038; Campbelltown, No. 1139; Woodstock on Loddon, No. 1599; and East Shelbourne, No. 1012, were transferred respectively to the Metropolitan, Ballarat, and Sandhurst districts; Rae's Hill, No. 1294, and Shepherd's Creek, No. 2447, were closed in consequence of the reduced attendance; and for the same reason, Edgecombe, No. 277, was joined on the half-time principle with Emberton, No. 1450.

I met with a severe accident in the performance of my duties in the month of May, which threw me off work for about two months, and I was, therefore, unable to pay a second visit to several of my schools. By extra exertions, however, I was enabled to examine all for results with the exception of Daylesford, No. 1609, and Burke, No. 1677, both of which had their examinations postponed owing to the prevalence of measles in the district, and Edgecombe, No. 277, which was closed when I visited it for the purpose of examination. The average number, in each school examined for results, was 76, and counting the three unexamined schools a little over 80.

BUILDINGS.

With few exceptions the buildings are substantial and in good order. Captain's Gully, No. 1257, is an exception, but the attendance is so small that I would hesitate to recommend the erection of a better building. The cottage, rented for the school in Redesdale township, No. 2571, is hardly fitted for the purpose; but there are only about twelve children attending, and I could not advise the Department to put up a school for such a number. Glenluce, No. 771, and Winter's Flat, No. 652, both need renewal. I would urge strongly the necessity of removing Bullarto, No. 1288, to a more central site between the old and new townships. The children in the new township are almost cut off from school attendance in wet weather, and the present site does not accommodate those in the old township better than one midway between the two townships would. I regard this matter as very urgent. When removed, the school should be enlarged to provide for the increased attendance that might be expected. I still consider that Sandy Creek, No. 704, should be amalgamated with Welshman's Reef, No. 1830, and Yandoit, No. 691, with Yandoit Bald Hills, No. 2052. In both cases the schools are only about a mile and a quarter apart, and all the children attending one could attend a combined one midway between the two.

FURNITURE, APPARATUS, BOOKS, ETC.

The schools are as a rule well furnished, and the apparatus and books are kept in good order. Most teachers endeavour to get the children to procure their own books, and generally with success. Free reading and copy books are now becoming the exception, and I trust that, in a short time, they will disappear from our schools. In view of the important issues involved in the recent acquisitions of territory by foreign powers in the Pacific, I think that every school in the country should be furnished with a map of the Western Pacific showing plainly the power that claims each group of islands in our neighbourhood. This information would be of more importance to Australian children than much of the geography they have now to make themselves acquainted with; and as every fresh claimant to colonial empire was year by year entered upon the maps, the necessity for keeping up a strong militia force would be indelibly impressed on the minds of the children.

ORGANIZATION.

The organization of the schools is usually of a satisfactory character. Teachers keep their children well employed, and observe an active supervision over their work. The infants receive less attention, in many cases, than is desirable. There is a disposition to leave them in charge of monitors or pupil-teachers for the greater part of the day, which I always protest against. The time-tables are usually well drawn up and observed. There is now, I am pleased to say, not one school in the district where the time of instruction is limited to four hours a day. Several teachers give two bare hours' instruction in the afternoon, closing their schools punctually at three o'clock. This is always done "in the interests of the children." The teachers who close at three "find it impossible to get the children to attend longer," and I have frequently been told that "parents would resent school hours being extended to 3.30 or 4 in the afternoon." But, as a matter of fact, parents have frequently complained to me of the short hours observed in State schools, and I have found that the work done by children who are kept under instruction for only four hours or four hours and a half is much inferior to those who are taught longer. One explanation of this is that it is the lazy and incompetent teacher who loves the short hours. I think that the Department should require at least five hours' work a day in State schools, not less than two hours and a half at either forenoon or afternoon meeting.

INSTRUCTION.

I am glad to be able to report that, with few exceptions, the teachers in the Castlemaine District work honestly and well, and that in the great majority of cases the schools are in a state of very good efficiency. It is impossible for an Inspector who has an opportunity of comparing the work done in a number of schools to avoid the conclusion that good, honest, and careful teaching produces good results. The natural capacity of the average pupil is about the same, and though an incompetent, a lazy, or a careless teacher may attempt to account for the backward condition of his school by laying the blame on the stupidity of his children, the Inspector, with a knowledge of what is done in other schools in the neighbourhood, is inclined to hold the teacher responsible. The results for the past year were highly satisfactory. Out of 96 schools examined, the actual results obtained were 84.698 per cent. as against 81.186 per cent. in 1883.

The undermentioned schools obtained over 90 per cent. of results:—

The teachers marked thus * obtained over 90 per cent. in 1883.

Twenty-one schools obtained between 85 and 90 per cent.

The new rule empowering Inspectors to exempt children from examination when they were absent from various unavoidable causes came into operation in July, and it was felt as a great relief by the teachers, and, I may add, by the Inspectors. In 1883, in my district, 76 schools lost an average of 3.6 per cent. through the absence of children, and the over age of their classes, while in 1884 only 44 schools suffered from these causes, and the average loss was only 1.7 per cent. These two standing grievances against the result system are thus reduced to a minimum, and it is to be hoped that they will soon wholly disappear.

The average progress is about the same as given in my report for 1884 and 1883. In the 96 schools examined there were 95 which were examined in the preceding year with the following results :—

		Average passes obtained in the years—
		1883.		1884.
Number of children presented in the same class as in 1883	2,127 ...	5.3	...	6.1
Number presented in a higher class ...	2,685 ...	5.5	...	5.9
Number who were present in 1883 and whose progress cannot be compared ...	1,004 ...	—	...	5.7

This statement of course includes schools of every kind, good, middling, and bad; but in a well taught and managed school where good progress has been made, I expect to find at least half of the children presented in a higher class. Those presented in the same class should obtain about a pass and a half more than in the preceding year, and those in a higher class a pass more as there is an average of about a pass more obtainable. In the best schools in my district I am seldom disappointed in having these expectations realized.

I do not expect to find a sixth class in every school I visit. It frequently happens that the formation of a sixth class is made impossible to a teacher who teaches his fifth class in a satisfactory manner, for as soon as his pupils obtain the certificate of being "sufficiently educated," that is, passing in reading, writing, and arithmetic in the fifth class, they leave school. But a teacher should work for a sixth class, and I regretted to find that a fourth of the schools I examined through the year were without one. The schools without a sixth class were of the following sizes:—

Under 20	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	10
From 20—30	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	5
„ 30—50	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	5
„ 50—75	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	4
„ 75—100	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	1

I think that the results obtained by schools where the fifth is the highest class should be reduced by about 5 per cent., in order to encourage the formation of a sixth class. This rule might fairly be made to apply to schools where the attendance is over 30, and where the head teacher would have assistance. In sixteen schools I had children presented for examination in the upper sixth class, and in many cases where there was no necessity for it on the score of age. A teacher who obtains high results with a sixth and upper-sixth class in his school certainly deserves a higher reward than one who has only a fifth class.

The paper-work, on the whole, is very creditable. The children do their work neatly and accurately, and the writing shows that it is taught with care and intelligence. I have frequently shown the examination-papers of schools where the work is particularly neat to the teachers of others where less attention is bestowed on writing, and usually with very good results. In the same way, I have brought copy-books and needlework about from one school to another, as samples of what is possible with careful teaching. I could name several schools where the copy-books of any children, from II. to VI. classes, might be taken at random with an absolute certainty that they might be shown as models of what could be achieved by strict attention and intelligent teaching.

The practice of working in school exercise books is increasing, and exercising a beneficial influence on the writing of the children. For many reasons I think that slate-writing should be discountenanced with the senior classes. Paper-work certainly produces better writing, and fosters more careful habits, than when children are merely exercised on slates.

Arithmetic, according to the present programme, is well taught; but the teaching of this subject is too mechanical. Mental arithmetic is hardly ever taught in our schools, and nothing but the introduction of a revised programme will produce an improvement in this respect. A teacher cannot be blamed who teaches strictly according to his instructions, and does not go beyond them. I look forward with confidence to the good that will be effected by making mental arithmetic part of the programme upon which schools will be examined for results.

Grammar and geography are both well taught, as far as the requirements of programme go; but there can be little doubt that grammar will be of greater practical advantage to children when the proposals that have been made at the late Conference of Inspectors are carried into effect.

DISCIPLINE.

The order observed in our schools is excellent. The children are orderly and attentive, and cases of talking or copying when at work are very rare. I would like to see more attention paid to manners than teachers usually bestow upon this subject. In some schools no doubt the children are as polite and well-mannered as one could desire, and I invariably mention this pleasing fact when I find it. But in most schools there is considerable room for improvement, and, as far as my experience goes, in the larger more than the smaller schools. In the smaller schools the teacher is able to put the stamp of his own individuality upon the children. He knows and teaches every child and influences him in every class he is in, while in the larger schools the child changes from class to class, and with every class changes his teacher. I am afraid we have not yet got a large school where, throughout the staff, we can depend on "manners" receiving proper attention. Class drill is fairly taught.

EXTRAS.

Extras are taught in a few schools, and usually with care.

TEACHERS.

I am happy to report that I have not a single case of misconduct on the part of a teacher to report upon during the year. The teachers in my district who have given the greatest trouble to the Department in previous years have been dismissed or removed, and I sincerely trust that the peace of 1884 will be of long continuance.

NIGHT SCHOOLS.

None in the Castlemaine district.

REPORT OF HENRY SHELTON, ESQUIRE, B.A., WARRNAMBOOL DISTRICT.

SIR,

Warrnambool, 25th June, 1885.

I have the honour to present my general report on the Warrnambool District for the year 1884. The district now contains 95 schools, of which 7 are conducted on the half-time system.

I completed my programme of inspection for each half-year, and devoted about a fortnight to visiting the schools in the Gippsland portion of the Metropolitan districts. The changes that have occurred in my district during the year have been but slight, consisting of the establishment of half-time schools at Boram Boram and Lake Linlithgow, Princetown and Peterborough, and the conversion into half-time schools of those at Cressy and Foxhowe, and Yeo and Barongarook Forest. The school at South Purrumbete has been closed. Applications for schools at South Terang and Port Campbell have been favorably reported on.

Buildings.—These are of a generally suitable character, being more substantial than those in my last district. There are still a few of the old portable buildings to be found, much to the inconvenience of those who have to use them. It is to be hoped that these will soon either disappear or be made weatherproof. There are a few buildings which provide much greater accommodation than is required by the present attendance at them, notably those at Belfast, Woodford, and Crossley, in each of which is a large room quite unoccupied. This has arisen from the establishment of Roman Catholic schools in the places named, and the consequent withdrawal of large numbers of children from those of the State. At Camperdown extra rooms have been erected to meet the increased attendance. Further accommodation will also be required at Colac Town Common. There is need of a new building at Ellerslie.

Organization.—This is, as a whole, good. As pointed out in my last report, however, the monitorial system is sometimes overdone, and a want of judgment shown as to the nature of the work in which a monitor should be employed. I have carefully watched the work of monitors, and am quite satisfied that in small country schools it is often of purely imaginary value. In some cases it is injurious; for instance, in a reading lesson, where errors of pronunciation are repeated time after time without correction. An indolent or inefficient teacher will employ several monitors where one will suffice, and his whole attention will thus be devoted to the class in hand. It is only in the case of a teacher of more than average skill and energy, however, that monitors can be wholly dispensed with. Where they are employed, their work should in all cases be subjected to the scrutiny of the head teacher.

Instruction.—Of the 95 schools in operation, all, with the exception of 11, are doing efficient or fairly efficient work. Fifteen may be said to be in excellent condition. I am not very sanguine of being able to effect much improvement in the eleven cases alluded to, as I find that, though year after year full suggestions for the amelioration of the management and instruction were made in the register by my predecessor, the teachers seem still to go on in their own old way.

In two cases I had to report that the work was so far below requirements that no other course lay open to the Department than to remove the teachers to smaller schools.

Appended are some remarks on the several subjects of the programme:—

Reading.—The reading generally is fair. It would be better if more alertness were shown in detecting errors, and more care and patience in correcting them. Children are often “heard” reading as if the lesson were a mere examination.

The reading of poetry is below the standard which I should like to see attained to. It is generally lifeless, and the sound does not always “seem an echo of the sense.” In comprehension there is no improvement, nor do I think there ever will be till the subject is taken in hand in the youngest classes. During the year I varied the style of questions considerably, making them simpler and less comprehensive, but was not rewarded by any perceptible increase in the number of passes.

Writing is very creditably taught in the great majority of the schools. I find neat penmanship even in schools which are not conspicuous for the excellence of the instruction in other respects, and it affords some indication of care in the teaching. When carelessness exists in teaching writing, I generally expect to find the same fault in other branches, and am not often disappointed.

Arithmetic continues to be well taught, and good results are consequently obtained at the examinations. Accuracy is secured, but this often at the expense of time. Rapidity of calculation, which is indispensable in business, does not seem to be aimed at in the schools, and mental work is not cultivated. At the examinations, I often find children working their sums on slips of paper, afterwards transferring the work to another sheet. The practice is objectionable and is not likely to produce readiness and self-confidence in the children. The time taken in working the exercises in the 5th and upper classes varies to a surprising extent in different schools. In some the work does not occupy more than half-an-hour, while in others twice that time is required. This slowness, of course, arises, to some extent, from the fact of children being placed in classes for which their attainments do not fit them, and hesitancy and uncertainty naturally follow. In this, as in other subjects, briskness of work can be secured by frequent class teaching. Silent slate work is necessary, but too much of it is fatal to soundness and rapidity.

Grammar.—Good results are obtained in this subject, but, as I pointed out in my last report, the work consists almost wholly of parsing, and little is seen of the application of the subject. In the 6th class especially, much of the superabundant parsing might fairly give way to exercises in composition. Analysis and the structure of words hardly receive sufficient attention.

Geography.—In this subject I seldom find an interesting class-lesson given. Too often the work consists of a slate exercise; yet there is no subject, if properly handled, better calculated to arouse and sustain the attention of the children. In the upper classes especially it may be made interesting in connexion with momentous questions that are daily arising in various quarters of the globe; current history and geography thus being taught together in the same lesson. The subject otherwise is the reverse of an attractive one, though the mere topography is generally successfully grasped. The geographical definitions might be better taught. It is a common occurrence to find children well posted up in the positions of capes, peninsulas, gulfs, &c., who have very vague notions of what these terms mean.

Home Exercises.—In my last report it was stated that there was a good deal of negligence displayed in the correction of the home work. This complaint must be repeated on the present occasion. The books are sometimes examined in a very slipshod manner, which seems to show that some teachers attach but little importance to this work. The effect on parents is not very re-assuring, and carelessness like this is certain to be reproduced in the children. On one occasion a parent complained to me of the loose style in which his child's book had been examined, and he certainly produced abundant evidence to prove his case.

Needlework.—Sewing is very efficiently taught, and the specimens shown at the examinations prove that, as a whole, workmistresses and female teachers bestow much care and patience on this branch of instruction. One complaint of inefficiency against a workmistress was inquired into, but, though there was some ground for the parents' murmurings, it was not fully borne out.

Moral Lessons.—I have not seen many of these given, and there is reason to fear that a few teachers believe that their responsibility with regard to them ceased on placing the subject on the timetable.

Discipline.—The children are under good control, and it is rare to find cases in which they give more than ordinary trouble.

The drill, though fair, might be marked by greater precision, and the extension exercises are not always correctly gone through.

Records.—I cannot speak too highly of the faithful manner in which the school records are, on the whole, kept. The rolls are marked with rigid correctness, and the register is likewise correctly kept.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

H. SHELTON.

The Secretary, Education Department.

REPORT OF SAMUEL SUMMONS, ESQUIRE, M.A., LL.B., BALLARAT No. 2 DISTRICT.

SIR,

Ballarat, April, 1885.

I have the honour to submit a general report on the Ballarat No. 2 District for the year ended 31st December, 1884.

The limits of the district remained the same as in the previous year, and contained 91 day schools, including 4 worked on the half-time principle; also 1 night school. At the beginning of the year East Campbelltown (Werona), 1139, was transferred from the Castlemaine District, and Mount Pleasant, 1436, to the Ballarat No. 1 District. Since last report a new school was opened in a rented chapel at Hollinwood, and Ingliston, 1690, closed owing to the small attendance, re-opened as a full-time school.

The following schools are held in leased buildings:—Mile Creek, 1110; Ballarat Orphanage, 1256; Green Hill, 1170; Smeaton, 610; Happy Valley, 987, and Hollinwood, 2576. The junior classes of North Creswick, 2041, are taught in a rented school-room.

Ample provision has been made for the educational wants of this district, and no additional school is required except, perhaps, at Wheeler's Bridge, near Smeaton, where the purchase of a site has been recommended. There are very few children who cannot conveniently attend some existing State school.

A new building, much needed, is shortly to be erected at Happy Valley. Something is required to make 730, Wombat Hill, more comfortable. The buildings, of hardwood, are old, and placed in an exposed position. The site, I understand, is not central as regards the children attending. Since last report a wooden building has been provided to accommodate Leigh Creek, 713. Thirteen teachers' dwellings are unoccupied.

All the schools were inspected twice save Barkstead, 985, closed at the time of examination owing to the prevalence of sickness, and Ingliston, 1690, re-opened towards the close of the year. The night school held in 34, Ballarat, and not long in operation, was visited once without notice. The greater number of the scholars attending this school are under fifteen.

The school premises are, as a rule, in good order, and tidily kept; in some instances the walls should be swept and the floors scrubbed more regularly. Other matters not less important as pertaining to health and cleanliness should receive more frequent attention. Some of the buildings require repainting.

As pointed out in previous report, there can be further restrictions on the granting of free stock, certainly in respect to copy-books. With few exceptions, I feel sure that, even by a slight effort on the part of the head teacher, they would be supplied by the parents.

Nearly all the schools are satisfactorily conducted, and in some the organization is of exceptional merit. Some head teachers can, however, make their presence felt more throughout the school.

Seldom has there been any occasion to find fault with the classification, and then only in the case of individual children. The ages have been for the most part well within programme requirements.

Of the majority of schools I have reported that the classes were kept actively employed, and that the supervision was complete and effective. In the smaller schools two classes have been united in some subjects to lessen the number of classes taught, and thereby add to the efficiency of the teaching. Due regard at the same time has been paid to the programme. The time-tables make suitable provision for the subjects of instruction.

Of the instruction imparted, and the progress made by the children, I have reported favorably. The work done in many schools merits, and has received, special praise. The percentages obtained at the result examinations continue high.

Though affording a fair guide to the efficiency of a school, the percentage is not always a sure criterion of the work done during the year. Sometimes, moreover, schools obtain nearly the same percentage while they differ materially as to the quality and extent of the instruction imparted. Teachers occasionally complain that in some respects the result examination is of too exacting a character. Some would even prefer the examination on the class work, provided the Department would be satisfied with a lower standard of accuracy. Such an examination would tend to raise the instruction given, and would certainly secure a stricter observance of the programme. I have been pleased to note that the result examination questions have not influenced the character and extent of the instruction so much as in former years.

Improvement has been observed in the methods of instruction. In the class lessons, however, I have repeatedly had to recommend more individual vivâ voce work, and that the simultaneous answering be kept within narrow limits, considering as I do that it fails to maintain the active attention of all the children and to secure individual mental effort.

"Simultaneous answering should be discouraged, as it not only causes confusion in the class but is deceiving." In addition to checking simultaneous answering the teacher must be careful to distribute the work over the whole class and not allow the idle and lazy to escape. It is scarcely necessary to remind the teachers of this district that methods, however good, will not avail unless the teaching itself be animated and interesting, and that, while hard work is essential, it is only valuable when it produces good results.

Reading.—This is perhaps the most important subject taught, and though it obtains a high percentage of passes, its instruction, as a rule, can be more thorough. With a view to securing this thorough teaching it appears to me advisable that the examination should be out of a book of equivalent difficulty but with the contents of which the children are not acquainted. This would certainly tend to discourage the learning of the reading books by rote. The lesson requires more preparation on the part of the teacher than it receives, and more attention given to explanation and questioning, that the children may be able to comprehend what they read. As a means of mastering the mechanical difficulties and making the children familiar with the difficult words, a free use of the black-board has been suggested.

Geography.—Some, but not much, improvement is observed in the manner of teaching this subject. Even with the present programme the lesson in all classes might be made more interesting and profitable. At present it consists mainly of an attempt to imprint upon the memory of the scholar a number of bare facts. The instruction in the other subjects remains about the same as last year. In the grammar lessons analysis is receiving more attention.

I have rarely had occasion to find fault with the discipline. Order, as a rule, was well maintained, the children manifesting interest in their work. Class drill, though receiving more attention, is not yet sufficiently appreciated as a means of promoting prompt and ready obedience. In some schools the instruction was given for the most part with the children seated in the desks without any change of position. Military drill is taught in seventeen schools with a fair measure of success.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

SAMUEL SUMMONS.

The Secretary, Education Department, Melbourne.

REPORT OF RICHARD PHILP, ESQUIRE, M.A., LL.D., MARYBOROUGH DISTRICT.

SIR,

Maryborough, 10th March, 1885.

I have the honour to forward my general report on this district for last year.

At the beginning of the year some alterations were made in the limits of the district, the schools on the west side of the river Avoca being taken from it and put into the newly-formed district of St. Arnaud, while some schools on the east side of the river Loddon were added, the result of the alterations being that the total number of schools in the district was reduced by fourteen. There are, however, still too many schools in the district, more than can be properly attended to by one Inspector. Not only is the district a very extended one, involving long journeys and rough travelling, but there are a large number of schools of very considerable size in it. The mere examination of each of these schools occupies from two to five days; and, when they and all the others on the list are done with, the time available for inspections, without examination, is very limited indeed. During the past year I find there were examined at Dunolly, 298 children; at Tarnagulla, 175; at Newbridge, 115; at Goldsbrough, 183; at Craigie, 118; at Majorca, 165; at Maryborough, 523; at Carisbrook, 204; at Chinamans, 152; at Timor, 341; at Charlton, 134; at Bealiba, 134; at Avoca, 282; at Homebush, 194; at Wedderburn, 162; at Inglewood, 256. Besides these there were fifteen other schools examined, at which the attendance was from 50 to 100. The remainder of the schools had from 50 down to 12—the smallest number of children present at any examination. The total number of schools examined during the year was 94. Visits of inspection, without examination, were also paid, but I find that that list has not been completed. These visits are almost of more importance than those for examination. The latter certainly ascertain the state of a school, but it is when an Inspector sees the ordinary every-day work going on that he is best able to advise a teacher and point out in what respects it may be improved. There is little doubt that this is one of the most useful parts of his duty; and when he is so placed that he cannot fully perform it the schools suffer. The best of them are benefited by his visits, while, to the great majority of them, the want of his supervision is a positive loss. For other purposes, too, the necessity for frequent visits by the Inspector is apparent in a country district, with a scattered population, with the schools far removed from any centre, and no local control over them. I am glad the Conference of Inspectors took up this subject at their recent meeting, and placed on record a pretty strong opinion upon it. The condition of the schools continues to be generally good. Here and there are to be found badly taught and carelessly managed ones, but, as a rule, they are well conducted, and their teachers are diligent and attentive to their duty.

It is gratifying to say that during the last year I have not had to hold a single inquiry on any teacher for misconduct. Two cases of gross carelessness in marking the rolls were brought before the notice of the Department. It is not an easy matter sometimes to distinguish between errors which come from stupidity, and wilful false entries. The lenient view of the matter was taken by the Department; but no doubt the warning which the delinquents received will make them more careful in future.

It will be a great advantage when the rules requiring workmistresses to show some aptitude for teaching before they are appointed come into force. A workmistress who can teach is almost as good as an assistant in a school; and there are several of them in the district who are of great use in the general work; but from the loose way in which they are selected, many of them are not only of no use in it, but are rather in the way.

A great deal of work continues to be done by the teachers. The percentage of passes for the whole district last year was 81 nearly. The percentage of promotions was 69; that is, that about two-thirds of the children whom I examined in the year before have been advanced a class, and have been examined in it last year. Taking the two percentages together, it shows that good progress is made, and good work done. That represents the general state of the district. Of course in many schools the percentages are much higher. In one it is 99 per cent. of passes; while in eighteen others it ranges from 97 to 90. These high percentages are not the result of spasmodic efforts; but come from patient and careful work from one end of the year to the other. They are most creditable, I think, to the teacher. But the line need not be drawn at 90 per cent. There are many very good schools which do not reach that amount. Fifty-two of them get from 90 to 75 per cent. The remainder get less than 75 per cent., but only two of these fall below 60 per cent.

The Department in the "Inspector's Notice" of examination to teachers have now inserted a direction to enter in the Inspector's Register the number of the class in which each child was examined in the previous year. This will be found of great use. It has been the practice in this district for many years. The object is to see at a glance what proportion of the school has been advanced during the year. It would be too tedious to ascertain this from the record of transfers in the school register; in fact, it could scarcely be done in that way, and still it is of very great consequence that the information should be got. The estimate is a rough one; but it gives a good general idea of the progress made by the school, just as the percentage of passes exhibits the amount and character of the work. It may be said that such an estimate is unnecessary—that the standard age fixed to each class makes promotions compulsory, and prevents any lagging behind. That may be true as a rule, and especially in large schools; but there are cases in which the keeping of the ages equal to the standard does not indicate real progress made; and the number of promotions for the year being presented to the Inspector draws his attention to them. In a case which occurred not long ago, the percentage gained by a school was 77, and none of the classes were overage. So far there was not much to complain of. But when it is seen that only 40 per cent. of the children have been advanced during the year, and these almost entirely confined to the junior classes; that the senior class children remain as they were, and are only being examined over again in the same work; that the ages of the senior classes have been kept equal to standard by the advancement of one or two pupils, probably the teacher's own children, to whom special attention has been paid; I think it may very fairly be inferred that that teacher, notwithstanding the fair percentage gained, and the ages being kept down to standard, is not working, and his school not making really good progress.

The new regulation as to passing the standard of education is likely to have more than one good effect. Not only does it raise the standard to something like what it should be, and to what the regulations of 1872 intended that it should be, but it will secure for the future a better observance of the programme, in reading at least. Candidates for certificate must now read the fifth book; and no doubt the 5th class will see more of their own class-book than they have hitherto done. The temptation to work below the programme is great, the result examination in the 5th class is held in the fourth book; but still I did not expect to see so many failures in reading the class-book as have been since the new rule came into operation. Anything which can prevent this for the future will be an advantage.

Nothing can be so effective as a systematic examination. Superficial and desultory questioning does no good; indeed rather does harm. It gives no good ground on which to base an opinion, and an Inspector indulging in it may, unwittingly, do a teacher an injustice, or pass over a neglect. It is difficult to see, however, how a regular examination in programme can be brought into practice. The result examinations must, of necessity, remain as they are; and the Inspector is so occupied with them that he has but little time for anything else.

The discipline of the schools continues, on the whole, to be good. It is very rare indeed to find the children not orderly and attentive to their work. They are well trained in habits of order and obedience. If their manners are not so good as they should be, it is because they do not know better. I think the teachers are a good deal to blame in this matter. I frequently hear their pupils answer them in the most boorish way, and no notice whatever is taken of it. The school in this, as in so many other things, should supply what is wanting in the home training; and a teacher is bound to attend to the manners, as much as the morals and intellectual culture of his pupils. "A good address," says Lord Chesterfield, "is a continual letter of recommendation;" and if teachers only knew how much stress is laid upon it in the outside world, they would be more attentive in cultivating it. There is no better index of the tone of a school than the behaviour of the pupils when under examination. The good school keeps steadily at work, no copying nor talking. Of course it is impossible to prevent copying sometimes—the weak and dishonest will do it, in spite of everything; but I see little of it, and when I do see it the worst feature is that the teacher stands looking on and never interferes to stop it.

There has been a great deal of sickness in the schools during the past year, measles, whooping-cough, and other diseases assuming epidemic forms. Several examinations had to be put off on account of it. It is difficult to understand why there should be so much sickness. In the back-slums of a city it is naturally looked for, but in a country district, with the fresh air continually blowing about them, with abundant food, and good clothing, the children ought to be almost exempt from disease. The cause of the mischief, no doubt, is to be looked for where so many other drawbacks exist, that is in the homes of their parents. There must be an inattention to sanitary precautions, a want of cleanliness in their habits, to bring about all this unhealthiness. It is, of course, impossible to reach the present grown-up generation with lectures and lessons on hygiene, but the children can be taught the rules of clean and healthy living, and through them the dwellings and the personal habits of their parents be improved on. So far as I have seen, no instruction on the subject is given in the schools; even the short essays in the reading books about it are not read.

Several applications for new schools have been dealt with during the year. These applications have come from the newly-settled part of the country, where selection has been going on, and the people are attempting to make a livelihood by farming. That occupation in that part of the country is of a most precarious character, and the permanency of the settlement is very uncertain. A few years ago a very good school-house and residence were put up at Barrapoort, to meet the school wants of what then promised to be a thriving and settled population. The expectations then formed have not been realized, the farming has turned out a failure, and the people have gone away. The school-house, however, is still there, and the residence; no one living in it, and some six or seven children attending in the school which is capable of holding thirty. Notwithstanding this state of things, there are two applications for schools in the same neighbourhood. Whatever be the fate of these applications, I would certainly advise the Department not to put up such substantial structures as the Barrapoort school-house. The Department issued instructions with a view to ascertain whether any building of a public character or any rooms in a farmer's house could be obtained and used as a school-house in these sparsely-populated districts. When farmers are only struggling into existence, it is not likely that there will be any public building among them; and in their own houses there is barely room for themselves and their families. In most cases it will be necessary for the Department to erect buildings; but if a bush chapel, or a room in a selector's house, is good enough for a school, the cheapest erection ought to do. I got a bush carpenter and builder to give me an estimate of the cost of a school-house, to be built as he would his own house, and to be of the same dimensions as the usual small country school—the estimate was £27. I suppose Barrapoort cost ten times as much. These cheap buildings, too, can be disposed of if, in the course of time, a more substantial building is required. They can be turned to some use by a farmer; but the present costly structures are too good for any other than their original purpose, and are too substantially built to be taken down and carted away without permanent injury to them.

Your most obedient servant,

RICHARD PHILP.

REPORT OF J. DENNANT, ESQUIRE, SOUTH-WESTERN DISTRICT.

SIR,

Hamilton, 8th April, 1885.

I have the honour to forward my general report for 1884. During the year every school on my list was inspected and examined for results. My time was occupied as follows:—

Travelling	...	...	...	...	734	hours.
Time spent in schools	...	...	...	...	568	"
Inspection work out of school	...	...	...	...	26	"
Writing reports upon schools	...	...	...	...	74	"
Inquiries concerning applications for new schools, and reporting upon the same	...	...	...	...	94	"
Assisting Board of Examiners and holding teachers' examinations	...	...	...	...	247	"
Correspondence and miscellaneous	...	...	...	...	244	"
Total	...	...	...	...	1,987	hours.

Since my last report, new schools have been opened at Bringalbert, Newarpur, Minimay, Meereek, Bowtell's Creek, Tullich, Bessiebell East, and Glenaulin. Schools, once closed, have been re-opened at Grassdale, Buckley's Swamp, and Kentbruck, while the school at Bolwarra has been closed. At Newarpur, Bessiebell East, and Glenaulin, the inhabitants have erected school-rooms at their own expense, the number of children in these localities being insufficient to warrant the Department in building. The total number of schools under my supervision is now 107, including 24 half-time schools, each branch being reckoned as a separate school.

During the year, 21 special references have been dealt with. These were almost all on applications for new schools in the sparsely populated parts of the district, and in many cases the requests made were granted, it being found possible to work the new schools as half-time with previously existing ones. The number of half-time schools is rapidly increasing, from the operation of two causes—settlement in the bush and a falling off in attendance at schools in the old settled parts. By the stoppage of the selection of small areas of land, the first will almost cease to operate, but the latter will cause many once flourishing schools to become half-time ones, or even to be closed altogether. In many cases the heads of families in such neighbourhoods still remain, but their children are beyond school age, or have removed to newer settlements; in other instances, the holdings have been bought up by a neighbouring large estate.

BUILDINGS.

These are, for the most part, in good order. Some old structures have been replaced by new ones during the year.

APPARATUS.

The schools are well supplied with the ordinary apparatus. The black-boards are still, in many instances, almost useless, it being a difficult matter to write on them.

ORGANIZATION.

Improvement is shown in the construction of the time-tables, even in small schools, in which the chief difficulties exist, the plan of combining classes for some subjects becoming more general. The reading lessons give the most trouble, as it is improper to make children read in a book belonging to a class higher than their own, and unnecessary for them to read much in that of a lower one. For these lessons, the teacher must either use monitors or give a reading lesson to one class while the other is engaged in some kind of silent work, as writing or arithmetic. A combination of both methods is most suitable.

INSTRUCTION.

Great efforts are made in most schools to obtain high percentages, not, I think, so much for their cash value as for the honour they are supposed to confer on the teacher. In some localities the keenest, though friendly, rivalry exists among neighbouring teachers to obtain the highest percentage, and the result is apparent in the excellence of the schools competing. During the year, ten schools obtained over 90 per cent., and nine others over 85; the lowest was 55 and the highest 94, which was obtained in three schools. It is worthy of notice that in one half-time school in the district the high percentage of 93 was gained. The two branches of this school are twelve miles apart, and the result obtained is due solely to hard work, and not to any special circumstances of the case. The thoroughly excellent state in which I found this school confirms the opinion I have expressed in former reports, that, in the hands of an earnest young man, a half-time school is capable of doing much better work than is generally supposed. The average of the percentages of all the schools of this district this year is nearly 78, as against 75·6 last year. The increase is attributable not to any special improvement in the schools, but to the concessions made about the middle of the year by the Department in regard to absentees.

From July last a very great diminution took place in the number of "standard certificates" granted, owing to the increased stringency of the examination in reading and writing. The failures occurred most frequently in reading, in which the test is now more searching. It is not, I think, too severe, as the ability to read his own language well should certainly be required before a child can be regarded as "sufficiently educated" or ready to leave school. As the changes made will cause this important subject to receive more attention from both teachers and children, it is a decided improvement.

Object lessons still continue the exception, and not the rule, in all but town schools. It is strange that country teachers neglect this means of cultivating habits of observation in their pupils, especially as they often complain (though certainly without reason) of the comparative dullness of their pupils. Such lessons are the only means of giving children some knowledge of common objects, and the leading phenomena of nature. It is consoling to reflect that, with the circulation of the new programme, these lessons will form part of the regular course of study, and will have to be arranged for in the time-table as carefully as reading or arithmetic. After some experience of their use it will be found that ordinary allusions in books and newspapers are better understood, and that children know something else about the objects around them than their mere names.

Arithmetic is a well-taught subject as far as accurate and mechanical working are concerned, but here commendation must stop. The only rule in which problems are set at result examinations is Proportion, and, as this is only tested in the 6th class, very few children are ever called upon to work a problem of any kind. It is also rare to find the children able to give any reason for the different operations they perform on their slates, the various rules of arithmetic being looked upon by them as mystic processes by which a certain result called the "answer" can be obtained. In reduction, for example, in which the reasoning powers should be fully exercised, most teachers are content with telling their pupils that to go from a lower denomination they must divide, and from a higher to a lower multiply, wholly omitting to point out why such directions are necessary. As these terms "higher and lower," as applied to the denominations of quantities, are entirely arbitrary, it is no wonder that children get considerably befogged in working reduction sums.

The number lesson to infants is not usually conducted in a satisfactory manner. It is designated on the Daily Routine as "tables," which means the learning by rote by simple repetition the addition and subtraction tables, without much, if any, reference to concrete examples. The order in which the numbers recur is the only impression made on the minds of young children, and after learning that 5 and 2 are 7, 5 and 3 are 8, 5 and 4 are 9, they are as likely as not to answer that 5 and 6 are 10, and so on. To secure readiness in calculation, the sum or difference of two small numbers is ultimately, no doubt, in a great measure, a question of memory, but in the first instance it is one of comparison, and therefore material examples should be mainly relied on to impart the desired knowledge to young children. Even if thought necessary to give occasional rote lessons in "tables," it is best to avoid placing the numbers in regular ascending or descending order.

It is evident that the girls in our midst are getting a much better education than the boys, as they stay at school years after the boys have left. In the 6th and + 6th classes very few boys are found, the proportion of girls to boys being almost four to one. After getting through the 5th class, and obtaining a certificate, the boys leave school, there being abundant employment for them, while the girls are then too young for the principal employment open to them, viz., domestic service. The girls, moreover, seem to make more rapid progress than the boys, not, I think, from any greater ability on their part, but from their having fewer distractions from study than the boys, who nowadays spend as much of their time as they can possibly snatch in cricket, football, rifle shooting, or some other form of out-door amusement.

DRILL.

Military drill is efficiently taught in five schools. In two schools, Hamilton (295) and Merino (2115), cadet corps are successfully established.

EXTRAS.

Book-keeping is the only extra subject taught, and that only in two schools. Drawing and singing lessons are given in three schools by qualified teachers.

DISCIPLINE.

This remains good, and the children are well behaved.

TEACHERS.

The teachers continue to take a deep interest in their work. It is pleasing to notice the attention which is paid to hints for the better management of their schools, made in the ordinary course of inspection. There are, of course, still many points in which improvement is desirable, but they must be left to time, and the continual supervision of inspectors, as short-comings in the management of schools arise from inexperience, defective training, &c., which can only be remedied gradually. Charges, preferred against three teachers, were investigated during the year; two of them were found to be wholly groundless, but in the third the parents had reason to complain of the negligence of the teacher, who was accordingly admonished by the Department.

RECORDS.

The records are correctly kept, except the register, which is too complex for many teachers.

This book assumes that ten years is the maximum time that a child remains at school. As children often enter at three years of age, and remain till fifteen or sixteen, it is evident that the columns appropriated to some children get filled up a long time before they leave school, and the awkward expedient of re-entering these children as new scholars is necessarily resorted to. In many instances I have found the whole register rewritten solely because of some columns being filled up in this manner. Were the columns extended so as to provide for twelve years' school attendance there would be no inconvenience.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

J. DENNANT.

REPORT OF R. F. RUSSELL, ESQUIRE, B.A., SANDHURST No. 1 DISTRICT.

SIR,

McLaren-street, Sandhurst, 23rd February, 1885.

I have the honour to forward my general report on the Sandhurst No. 1 (West) District for the year 1884.

At the end of 1883 there were 113 schools on my programme. In the beginning of 1884 the Department considerably lightened my labour by excising fifteen schools, nine of which were handed over to Dr. Philp, and six (including Millewa, No. 1564) were kindly taken by Mr. Inspector Gamble. As this excision left me only 98 schools, I had two from Mr. Cox's district handed over to me.

The following schools were closed during the year:—Gunbower South Division of $\frac{2339}{2334}$; Torrumbarry Township Division of $\frac{1795}{2337}$; and Mitiamo North, 2138.

The new schools added during the year were—Gunbower Saw-mills, 2572; Lake Boga, 2596; Benjeroop East, 2615; Pompapiel North, 2623; and Tragowel South, 2626.

The only half-time schools on my list at the end of the year were Capel's Crossing, $\frac{2599}{2552}$, and Bamawm, $\frac{1769}{2154}$.

SUMMARY OF THE YEAR'S WORK.

I regret that, owing to untoward circumstances which are known to you, I was unable to complete the inspection of the district this year. Ninety examinations for results took place—one school having been examined twice at the special request of the teacher. Of those unexamined, four were not due for examination, owing to their having been less than six months in operation.

Applications for the establishment of schools at Tragowel West and Gunbower Island were received and reported on.

Old applications, previously declined, were renewed for schools at Leichardt East, Neilborough East, and Lake Bael Bael.

A permanent site for Cohuna Township, No. 2502, was chosen, and the building at Gunbower South, No. 2534, was removed to it.

A site for Macorna West, No. 2562, was procured through the courtesy of the church trustees.

Petitions for change of site for schools 1795, Torrumbarry Township, and 2351, Lake Meering, were dealt with.

The number of children examined for results was 8,471: 3,177 in the first half-year, and 5,294 in the second.

The pupil-teachers on the list for examination were 30; of these only 25 were examined in Art of Teaching. The results were:—Passed on first trial, 21; passed on second trial, 2; not yet passed, 2.

Thirteen teachers were examined in Art of Teaching for certificate; of these only one failed.

The number of miles travelled was 4,357, and the time spent on official duty amounted to 2,0821 hours, distributed as follows:—

	Hours.
(1.) Travelling	759·8
(2.) Inspecting and examining schools	717·8
(3.) Writing reports on schools	109·3
(4.) Inquiring into and reporting on special references	39·0
(5.) Examinations (not included under 2)	264·2
(6.) Correspondence, interviews, general work, and Conference of Inspectors	192·0
Total	2,082·1

RESULTS.

The average percentage of the district (found by dividing the sum of the percentages by the number of schools examined) is 76·636.

This is satisfactory when compared with that of the previous year.

Thirty-three schools obtained over 80 per cent. of marks, while only two obtained less than 60 per cent.

The following list shows the schools which this year obtained upwards of 85 per cent.:—

BUILDINGS.

The district is generally well supplied with buildings. In most of the cases where improved accommodation was required, the Department took steps to provide it. New brick buildings for Ironbark, No. 323, and Eaglehawk, No. 210, have just been completed, and a new wooden building for Koondrook, No. 2265, has been erected during the year. The building at Sebastian is too small for the increased attendance, and at Bridgewater, No. 1097, additions are much needed, as the leased building occupied by the junior classes is unlined, draughty, and comfortless, and is situated too far from the room owned by the Department. The old portable buildings throughout the country are nearly all in need of painting.

FURNITURE, ETC.

The furniture supplied is generally sufficient, and is, as a rule, cared for.

Less difficulty is now experienced in checking the free stock, as most of the teachers prepare an inventory of the stock on hand before the Inspector's visit, and the checking is, except in the large schools, the work of only a few minutes. Experience in this district shows that the stock is better cared for, and therefore lasts longer, in small schools than in large ones.

In very many schools it is now the rule to find children purchasing their own copy-books. Very little tact is required in order to secure this result, and teachers as a whole would do well in endeavouring to stop the indiscriminate distribution of free books.

ORGANIZATION.

The organization of the schools continues to steadily improve. Most of the licensed teachers have so improved in this respect that few would find any difficulty in passing in the requirements of Art of Teaching for a certificate. To those teachers who are yet in perplexity about the construction of their time-tables, I strongly recommend the perusal of the well-timed remarks of Messrs. Topp and Craig, in their general reports for 1883.

The organization of half-time schools is likely to attract attention during the coming year, as, owing to decreases in the attendance at many schools, it will no doubt be necessary for the Department to reduce some of those now working on the full-time system to half-time.

A few remarks on the subject of their organization may be made for the benefit or guidance of those who have or may have charge of half-time schools. These schools are rarely taught according to the plan laid down in Reg. VII. 2. The schools being generally five or more miles apart, it is not convenient for a teacher to travel from one division to another during the dinner recess. The plan therefore adopted is to spend the whole of each alternate day at each division. In some cases Monday and Tuesday are always spent at one particular division, and Thursday and Friday at the other, and this system has many advantages. As there must be five hours' instruction at each division per day, the question for young teachers is what amount of time should be devoted to each subject, so that the half-time school shall approach as nearly as possible the work of a full-time school. The best plan is to teach all the subjects at each meeting, so that thus the work of two days will be taught in one day. The classes should be always grouped for oral teaching, care being taken that different classes are grouped in the morning and in the afternoon. The following arrangement is suggested:—

Morning meeting, 9.30 to 12.15. Grouping of classes—6th with 5th, 4th with 3rd. Time distributed thus—Roll-call, 5 minutes; recess, 10 minutes; reading, 25 minutes; writing, 25 minutes; arithmetic, 25 minutes; grammar, 25 minutes; geography, 25 minutes; home lessons and exercises, 25 minutes.

Afternoon meeting, 1.15 to 4. Grouping of classes—5th with 4th, 3rd with 2nd. Time distributed thus—Roll-call, 5 minutes; recess, 10 minutes; reading, 30 minutes; dictation (or transcription), 30 minutes; arithmetic, 30 minutes; grammar, 30 minutes; geography, 30 minutes. In the morning, class II. might do some work such as reading with the upper 1st, and in the afternoon class VI. might work alone, receiving only necessary oral teaching. The work of the programme and of the class below could be kept up under this system, the children being thus able to have a fair measure of back work without detriment to their advancement in the programme. Especial care must be taken that sufficient home work be given to keep children usefully employed at home on the "off-days"—those on which they do not attend school.

The practice of grouping classes does not appear to be generally in use in small schools. Some teachers have thought that the Department objected totally to any back work whatever, and in their schools I have found them attempting to teach reading to two classes at the same time from different books. It is not only allowable, but advisable and necessary in small schools that the classes be grouped, but the teachers must take care not to have the same classes always grouped.

The classification appears to be generally correct. At times, children who are old and dull are found in a higher class than that to which their attainments would entitle them. The converse of this took place in one school. Some children who had been fairly taught at a private school, but who were rather old for their proper class, were classified by the teacher in the "1st class, over seven less than six months on the roll." As the children were quite equal to 2nd class work, and were placed by the teacher for examination with the infants, marks were deducted.

INSTRUCTION.

Very satisfactory work has been done during the year. Where faults have been found they have only been pointed out to be immediately remedied. In many schools the examination on programme brought out many weaknesses that one would not expect. In one good school it was surprising to find how few 4th class pupils knew the name of the Queen. In other 4th classes no pupil could tell why the English and Scotch were not now accustomed to fight battles against each other as at Bannockburn. In other schools, children in the same class did not know the empire under which they lived. All this lack of general information is attributable to the want of proper explanation of, and comment on, the reading lessons. Again, in classes to which the programme grammar had been fully taught, great ignorance was displayed when the children were asked to correct errors in faulty sentences. In geography too there seemed a want of proper map teaching. In class III. many children failed to name a sea east of Africa from their inability to carry their eye in imagination over the map, while others failed in the same question, because the only answer they had been taught was that the Red Sea was "between Arabia and Africa." In class V., "Name a river in Russia flowing into the Sea of Azov," proved fatal to children who could have answered the question if put thus:—"Where is the Don, and into what does it flow?" As a further instance of unintelligent teaching, the following may be cited:—I asked class V. "Where is the river Orange, and into what does it flow?" and almost immediately the head teacher, as if fearful of his own fault in teaching, asked me if I would change the question so as to make it "Where is the Orange River?" as the class had never heard it called the river Orange.

In regard to infants' instruction, the schools, as a whole, are doing good work.

DRILL AND GYMNASTICS.

Military drill is taught in only eleven schools. In most of these the instruction was found to be satisfactory.

Gymnastics are not taught in this district.

EXTRA SUBJECTS.

The extras most sought after are bookkeeping, Latin, French, Euclid, and algebra. The pupils generally show proficiency.

DISCIPLINE.

The discipline of the schools continues to be of a satisfactory character. Of course, it may be contended that children are generally on their best behaviour when the Inspector is present, but in the majority of cases the inspecting officer can easily perceive whether the order observed is assumed for the time or is customary.

STANDARD OF EDUCATION.

The instructions issued to Inspectors, which raise the reading and spelling tests for the standard, have already produced good effects. Teachers used to complain that young children who obtained certificates of being "sufficiently educated" were accustomed to presume on their knowledge, and either stayed away from school altogether, or came intermittently, and just regularly enough to render themselves liable to examination. It is now quite common to find children who pass fully in class V. fail for the certificate in reading or spelling, and thus they are compelled to have another year's work at school to their increased benefit.

TEACHERS.

Few changes have occurred during the year. Those teachers who deserved good reports in 1883 have again merited them, and it is gratifying to bear testimony to the better work done during 1884 by those who were not successful in obtaining good reports the previous year.

RECORDS.

These continue to be well kept in the majority of schools. Teachers should read the "directions for filling up the rolls" on each new issue of roll sheets. The direction (now about two years old) requiring teachers to notify the Inspector of any contemplated holiday other than a public one, has either been left unread or has been ignored. Of the total number of schools in this district, only 44 complied with the direction in 1884. Happily, this year's issue has the direction printed in small capitals, so that "he who runs may read."

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant,

R. F. RUSSELL.

The Secretary, Education Department, Melbourne.

REPORT OF THOMAS R. HEPBURN, ESQUIRE, B.A., LL.B., SOUTH-EASTERN DISTRICT.

SIR,

Melbourne, 9th April, 1885.

I have the honour to forward my report on the South-Eastern District for the year 1884.

At the commencement of the year the western boundary of this district was altered by the Department; but both the northern and western boundaries are far from being well defined.

APPLICATIONS FOR SCHOOLS.

The establishment of schools has been recommended at Nindoo (half-time), Mirboo Central, Tinamba West, Deptford (half-time), Upper Nicholson (half-time), and Canningham.

An application for a school at Wy Yung was not favorably dealt with.

An application for a school at Jack River has been dealt with by a recommendation to move the building at Stony Creek (1662) two miles nearer Jack River.

Applications for schools at Anderson's Inlet and Morass Creek were received late in the year and have not yet been reported upon.

BUILDINGS, ETC.

Full-time schools have been established at Loy Yang, North Devon, Holey Plains, Boolarra, Willung South, and Callignee; the three last being held in rented buildings.

Half-time schools have been opened at Lower Livingstone Creek, Bengworden South, Maryvale North, and Osler's Creek. All these are held in rented buildings.

Handsome additions are being made to the Bairnsdale school; and the buildings at Longford and Latrobe have been enlarged and made thoroughly comfortable.

New buildings, to replace old ones, have been erected at Stradbroke, Alberton West, and Dutson.

Increased accommodation is urgently required at Heyfield and Mirboo North.

The majority of the wooden buildings in this district need painting.

I would still recommend the closing of the Bulgoback and Waterford schools, $\frac{1}{2} \frac{61}{54} \frac{9}{3}$.

The following have degenerated from full-time to half-time schools:—Hinnoomunjee, 1995; Delvine, 1696; Morwell North, 2419; Winnindoo, 1682; Denison, 1300; Flynn's Creek, 1320; Upper Flynn's Creek, 2312; Bulumwaal, 1794; Coppermines, 2123; and Upper Boggy Creek North, 2459.

That the educational wants of this district are well looked after is amply proved by the fact that 34 half-time schools exist, the average attendance at none of which exceeds 15, and, in some instances, is as low as 4.

INSPECTION.

Every school in the district due for result examination has been so examined; and, with a few exceptions, every school due for two visits was so visited. I am also pleased to report that, at the end of the year, I left the district without a single reference in my possession—a curious boast for a servant to make.

FURNITURE, ETC.

In a few schools the furniture has been supplied by the parents and is of a most primitive kind. As these schools are in out-of-the-way places and their permanency is very doubtful, I would not recommend the substitution of better furniture.

I would still like to see a cheap ball-frame supplied to all the smaller schools.

ORGANIZATION.

The classification, in the main, has been found correct.

To ensure the constant working of the classes under their charge, teachers of small schools have found out the necessity of monitorial assistance; and many teachers, to ensure the profitable employment of the children, have recognised the fact that monitors need both supervision and instruction in the duties required of them.

The time-tables, as a rule, provide sufficient and suitable employment for all classes.

INSTRUCTION.

In my last report mention was made of nine schools in which the instruction was of such a nature as to deserve censure. In every one of these marked improvement has taken place; and of the other schools, I am pleased to say, but one has retrogressed.

The percentage of those obtaining certificates was considerably lessened this year by the raising of the standard of education, reading being the disturbing cause.

With regard to the various subjects of the programme, I have noted as follows:—

Rhymes.—The requirements of the programme demand that the rhymes should be simply known, and known they are. In a few schools they are properly said.

Reading.—Improved; but still weak, and in very many instances unintelligent.

Arithmetic.—Improved in the 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 6th classes, but the 5th class are still backward in arithmetic (2).

Grammar.—Very much improved.

Geography.—Topography well taught, but nothing else.

Writing.—Marked progress has been made in this subject in the upper classes. I would, however, like to see the 1st class receive more attention whilst learning to write.

Transcription.—Excellent progress has been made by the 2nd and 3rd classes in this subject.

Spelling.—Very well taught.

Needlework.—The work shown by the girls at examination is very creditable.

Class Drill.—This in many schools is neglected, and in very few schools is it well taught, the children being allowed to execute the various movements as if they were afraid of exerting themselves.

Military Drill.—This is taught with varying success.

I still continue to impress on many teachers the desirability of intelligent teaching. In schools where the intelligence of the children is cultivated, the bright faces of the children and the ready and intelligent, if not correct, answering renders examining a pleasing task. In schools where the children are never taught to think for themselves, and are accordingly greatly wanting in self-reliance, the dull apathetic faces and the stupid answering make the work of the examiner most irksome. As it is with the examiner, so must it be with the teacher.

Mr. Hughes, one of the inspectors of Canadian schools, with regard to the desirability of teaching children to think for themselves, thus writes and quotes:—"It is a mistake to tell pupils anything they should know or can be led to find out by judicious teaching. This is the Teacher's Golden Rule. If only this one was carried out, the teaching in most schools would be revolutionized. Young teachers should repeat it every morning on their way to school, and ask themselves every evening wherein they have violated it. It will form a pruning hook to cut away most of the errors in method, if it is intelligently used. Telling is not teaching. Lecturing or sermonizing is not teaching. The teacher should lead or guide his pupils through the garden of knowledge, and show them which kinds of fruit are beneficial and which injurious; he should also show them the best means of obtaining the fruit, but he should not pluck it for them, eat it for them, and digest it for them. He should teach his scholars how to think; he should not do the thinking for them. This will make them develop, by giving their mental activity the work for which it so ardently longs.

"Professor Tyndall says—'Looking backward from my present stand-point over the earnest past, a boyhood fond of play and physical action, but averse to school work, lies before me. The aversion did not arise from intellectual apathy or want of appetite for knowledge, but mainly from the fact that my earliest teachers lacked the power of imparting vitality to what they taught.'

"Sir William Hamilton says—'The primary principle of education is the determination of the pupil to self-activity—the doing nothing for him which he is able to do for himself.'

"Herbert Spencer says—'In education the process of self-development should be encouraged to the fullest extent. Children should be led to make their own investigations, and to draw their own inferences. They should be told as little as possible, and induced to discover as much as possible.'

"Fellenberg held 'that the individual independent activity of the pupil is of much greater importance than the ordinary busy officiousness of many who assume the office of educators.' Rosenkranz says—'Mind is essentially self-activity. Mind lets nothing act upon it unless it has rendered itself receptive of it.' Horace Mann wrote—'Unfortunately education amongst us at present consists too much in telling and not in training.'

"Let the pupils have a chance to enjoy the pleasures of discovering for themselves, and school will be to them, not a prison, but a temple of joy. How children delight in overcoming a difficulty! How much greater is their satisfaction when they overcome it without aid from the teacher! The honour is then entirely their own. What a difference there is, too, in the results of teaching when the pupil is allowed to do his own share of the work! If an infant were always carried in arms, it would never learn to walk. Each little effort it makes for itself gives new power and vigour to the muscles. So the child that is lifted over every obstacle by the strong mental arm of its teacher will become mentally crippled, and dependent on others. It will lean if it is trained to do so; and when it has to go forth into the world without its teacher for a helper, it will be unable to surmount the difficulties in its path. A pupil can never forget a fact learned practically, as the result of his own investigation. One boy learns by actually mixing yellow and blue colours that they form green, and discovers the effects of all the primary colours in forming secondary colours. Another is told the results of the combinations of the primary colours. He may even have these results exhibited by means of the most ingenious and elaborately coloured charts. The results in the two cases will be vastly different. The second boy, ten years after leaving school, may remember, after a process of thought, that red and blue produce purple. The first does not need to go through any process of reasoning. He is not conscious of an effort in remembering. He knows it as he knows his name; that he has two hands, ten toes, &c.; that the weather is cold in winter; or as he knows any of the thousand and one facts which he has learned for himself practically."

This book, "Mistakes in Teaching," from which I have quoted at length, should be in the hands of every teacher.

RECORDS.

The direction, "No blanks must occur after roll-call," is too frequently disregarded, as I have found out when paying incidental visits. Otherwise I have no complaint to make about the keeping of the records.

DISCIPLINE.

The children are invariably obedient and well under control. There has been a marked improvement in manners, but there is still room for much more. The curt answers "Yes" and "No" are far too frequently heard, and the gruff "Here" in answer to roll-call still grates on one's ears. I am sorry to say that some teachers consider the teaching of manners a waste of time, and that a few cannot distinguish the difference between civility and servility.

Country children are far more timid than their town cousins. This timidity is, in many instances, greatly increased by teachers threatening all sorts of pains and penalties to children unsuccessful at examination. Thus crying and nervous children are far too frequently met with in country schools. On one occasion, when on my way to examine a small country school, I overtook two children, the younger of whom, a four-year-old, was crying bitterly. On inquiring the cause of distress I received the following answer, choked with sobs, "Oh! I don't want to go to school to-day, the insect is coming."

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

REPORT OF SAMUEL WARE, ESQUIRE, M.A., BENALLA DISTRICT.

SIR,

16th March, 1885.

I have the honour to forward my report on the Benalla District for the year 1884.

Owing to the reduction in the size of this district, I was able to visit all the schools twice, except 4 which were opened during the second half of the year, and 2 others which were temporarily closed when I was in their neighbourhood. The number of schools in operation at the beginning of the year was 113; since then 1 has been closed and 9 new ones opened, so that there are now 121. Nearly all of them are small; there are only 10 which have an average of more than 50, and 16 are worked in pairs on the half-time system.

SCHOOLS.

The new schools opened during the year are those at North Shepparton, No. 2563; Yalca North, No. 2570; Bundalong, No. 2593; Yaroweyah South, No. 2578; Yabba Yabba South, No. 2609; Tharabegga South, No. 2610; Drumannre, 2611; and Naringaningalook North, No. 2595. New buildings have been erected at Greta South, No. 2452; Burramine South, No. 2202; Numurkah, No. 2134; Yaroweyah, No. 2425; Tungamah, No. 2225; Devenish East, No. 2124; and Mokoan West, No. 2501. Considerable additions have also been made to the buildings at Yarrowonga, No. 1819, and Shepparton, No. 1469.

Leased buildings are occupied at Carboor East, No. 2503; Bundalong, No. 2593; Strathmerton, No. 2440; Bajanna, No. 2540; St. James Railway Station, No. 2579; Naringaningalook West, No. 2410; and Baulkamaugh East, No. 2417. Little advantage would be gained by erecting buildings for any of these schools except Strathmerton, No. 2440, and Bundalong, No. 2593, which are overcrowded.

New schools have been recommended at Muudoona North and Burramine West; when these are opened, the district will be very fairly supplied.

FURNITURE, ETC.

The black-boards supplied to small schools are not large enough to provide space for that free use in all lessons which is recommended by the best authorities on teaching; they are also in many cases badly painted, being either varnished so smooth that the chalk will not mark them without wetting, and the reflection of light causes the writing to be invisible at certain angles, or so rough that it is impossible to do neat work on them. It would, I think, be an improvement if they were not painted at all, but merely stained with the dregs from the ink-bottles or some similar composition. The large maps now supplied to small schools, though fewer in number, are much more serviceable than the small ones which were formerly in use. The only thing necessary to the apparatus of small schools which is not now supplied by the Education Department is the notation frame, without which it is difficult to give lessons on numbers to the First class.

ORGANIZATION.

The organization of the schools in this district is, with few exceptions, very fair. The principal defects I have noticed are, that two or more classes engaged in oral work are allowed to remain so close together that the work of one interferes with that of the other, instead of being separated as far as the limits of the building will allow; and that, though monitors are freely used, no attempt is made to train them so that they may be useful, nor is proper supervision exercised over them while they are at work. The time-tables, though generally open to criticism in some minor points, provide constant and profitable employment for all classes, and with one or two exceptions are strictly adhered to.

INSTRUCTION.

The general character of the instruction in the district is improving; there are few schools now in which the programme is not systematically adhered to and some intelligence displayed in the methods adopted, but many of the old defects still remain, e.g.—

Reading.—Too little attention is still given to expression and emphasis, and the questioning is often badly done, incomplete and inaccurate answers being accepted, and little care taken to ascertain whether the children understand the words they are using or not.

Arithmetic.—Two faults are noticeable in the instruction in arithmetic; one is that the lessons given in introducing a new rule are not sufficiently thorough, the teacher trusting to his scholars perfecting themselves by working examples, with little more supervision than is necessary to correct the answers; and the second is, that the examples are often put down at random, instead of being carefully prepared to illustrate the special difficulties connected with the rule under consideration.

Grammar.—The chief defect I have observed in grammar is the lack of instruction in etymology, either in the form of regular lessons on that part of the subject, or of careful explanation of the errors made in parsing; the result of this is that the children never get a clear idea of the meanings of the terms, and their work is always of a somewhat haphazard character.

MILITARY DRILL.

Military drill is taught in only two schools in the district; there are several others in which it should be taught, but the majority are so small that it would be useless to attempt to form a drill class.

EXTRA SUBJECTS.

Very little interest is taken in extra subjects—there are only two schools in which they are attempted, and in these the instruction is of the most elementary character.

DISCIPLINE.

The discipline is in general good.

RECORDS.

With very few exceptions the records are kept correctly and with satisfactory neatness. I have on a few occasions found omissions in the school register, but I have detected no case of falsification of rolls, and but one of continued carelessness in marking them.

SAMUEL WARE.

REPORT OF F. H. RENNICK, ESQUIRE, M.A., ST. ARNAUD DISTRICT.

SIR,

St. Arnaud, 16th April, 1885.

I have the honour to submit the following report for the year 1884:—

This district now embraces 113 schools, of which 89 are full-time, and 24 are worked on the half-time system. All of these were visited for inspection, and all but two for examination. The district is now, on the whole, well provided with schools. Applications for new schools at Bellellen, Wickliffe-road, and Bungeeluke West were dealt with, and, with the exception of the Bellellen application, were favorably reported on.

BUILDINGS.

New schools have been erected at New Bendigo, Carr's Plains, Tittybong; and buildings have been leased for school purposes at Moolerr and Campbell's Bridge. The school at Bungeeluke East has been closed, and Jeruk, hitherto full-time, has been made half-time with Fort Cameron. The following schools are held in leased buildings:—Crowlands, 756; Campbell's Bridge, 2581; Green's Creek, 1381; Wallaloo, 2250; Granite Flat, 2434; Narrapoort 2418. In the cases of Campbell's Bridge and Wallaloo, sites have been reserved, but at present I would not recommend the erection of new buildings.

FURNITURE, ETC.

As a general rule, the schools were found to be well provided with apparatus, and in the few cases where additional furniture was required it has been supplied. I am pleased to notice that the head teachers, as a rule, endeavour to restrict the use of the free-stock books and slates as much as possible. In a few cases only, and these in the remote country districts, do the head teachers supply these free to the pupils. I would like to see some of the head teachers more careful of the maps and cards. The latter are often worn out by the careless handling of monitors. Some teachers, by setting them in frames, preserve them for a considerable length of time. The maps are frequently discoloured through being hung up over the fireplace, and torn by being thrown over the top of the easel. The ball-frame and illustrated wall-cards should be supplied to small schools as well as to the large. It is to the country schools, where the children have least opportunity of observing the animals, &c., represented that these useful auxiliaries to instruction are denied. Some teachers, I am pleased to note, have provided these at their own expense, and the interest thus afforded to the instruction well compensates for the outlay incurred.

ORGANIZATION.

The teachers appear to have profited by the remarks upon time-table of Inspectors Topp and Craig, in last year's report, and, as a general rule, the time-tables are drawn up with due regard to the principles there set forth. The importance attached to the construction of a time-table in the examination for certificate of competency has led the head teachers and pupil-teachers to pay more attention to this point in school organization, and I have noted that the lately-appointed head teachers soon learn how to draw up, and put into satisfactory working, time-tables suitable for their schools. But in many cases the time-table consists of a paltry slip of paper, too often contained in the roll-sheets, instead of being fixed conspicuously on the wall. Neatness and taste, however, are frequently displayed in the framing and ornamentation of the time-table. In these respects, as in all others, the habits and character of the teacher are generally reflected in the children.

In the instruction of the infants there is not enough resort to the Kindergarten system of varying the methods and appealing to the senses. A free introduction of songs and appropriate exercises into the infant school would be highly beneficial. Indeed, some head teachers appear to intrust the junior classes almost wholly to the workmistress or monitor, and it is to be feared that the former receives very little assistance from the head teacher in the practical work of teaching.

The classification is generally based on attainments. Few instances occurred where marks were deducted for improper classification. But in some schools I notice a tendency to keep the children as long as possible in the same class, and to delay promoting them until a month or two previous to the result examination. This is not only unfair to the children, but another evil results, viz., that some pupils obtain their certificates and leave school without having a full knowledge of the work of their class. Seeing that the standard for certificate is admitted to be too low, it would be well for the teacher to see that each scholar presented for certificate is well grounded up to the full extent of the fifth class programme.

As a rule, the staff is judiciously allotted to the various classes with due regard to the efficient working of the school. In some cases, however, the use of monitors is very injudicious. For example, a monitor is often left to conduct a lesson in rhymes or reading to a 1st class without any supervision from the head teacher. Though in small schools it is sometimes impossible to dispense altogether with monitors, it is well, considering that their work is at best only of inferior quality, to use them as little as possible, and then only in cases where the work set them is of a mechanical and routine character. It must also be remembered that in small schools the time of the elder and more advanced children (usually employed as monitors) would be better spent in receiving instruction themselves. Frequent complaints have been made, and with good reason, that these elder children, who are about to leave school, lose great part of their time in helping to teach the younger ones.

INSTRUCTION.

In most of the schools the instruction is carried on in accordance with the regulations, and with good results.

The teachers, as a whole, are earnest and painstaking in their work, and, though there are some whose work is more or less weak and ineffective, in general this result is to be traced rather to the weakness of the methods adopted than to idleness or inattention to work. The programme is, in general, fully taught, though, in some schools, there is a tendency to neglect those parts of it which do not bear directly upon the result examination. For example, in but few schools are the weights and measures, as applied to the four simple rules, taught. As to the several subjects of the programme, I have the following remarks to make:—

Rhymes.—I notice that the numerous comments of Inspectors on the weakness of the rhymes in schools have caused more attention to be paid to the teaching of this subject. The rhymes are now more carefully taught, and more pains are taken to secure clearness and distinctness of articulation. Some teachers, however, rely too much upon monitors for the teaching of this subject. There is also a tendency to resort too much to collective repetition. Without individual testing, faults of enunciation cannot be corrected, or even ascertained.

Reading.—The reading, I find, is generally well taught in the upper classes. In the junior classes there is too much tendency to teach the reading by rote. A first class will sometimes be seen repeating the whole lesson without looking at the book. I would like to see the black-board more freely used to teach reading. When a first class has learnt the tablets by heart (as they soon do) they should be tested with other words and sentences, either from the black-board or from other cards. The explanation now receives more attention, and the suggestion made to head teachers, of giving questions in comprehension for home work has, in many cases, been acted upon. By this means the children become accustomed to express in writing, in an intelligible form, the answer to any ordinary question. This exercise also helps to develop the power of composition.

Arithmetic.—This is generally taught well, as far as the requirements of the programme go. In common with other Inspectors, I would like to see more mental exercises and sums of a practical character given. This defect in the present programme, I am glad to see, has been rectified in the proposed new one.

Grammar.—This is well taught as a rule in the large schools. In the small ones, little is done till the pupils reach the fourth class, as the requirements of the examination test are so low. The practice of teaching by Abbot's system of giving the reason for each part of speech is, I am glad to see, extending.

Geography.—This is, I find, usually one of the best taught subjects, and in result examinations few failures occur in it. There is, however, too much teaching of mere topography. In the second and third classes it is too often the case that, though knowing the oceans, &c., the pupils cannot indicate the chief points of the compass with reference to the school surroundings. In the upper classes likewise, there is very little physical and descriptive geography taught, though it is knowledge of this sort that makes geography of any practical benefit.

Home Work.—This important branch of school work in many cases receives but little attention. From the character of the home exercises can generally be estimated the value of the work done in the school, and by them the neatness and accuracy of the head teacher can generally be gauged. I notice also with pleasure that some of the teachers keep a record of the home work set, and plan out a course of such lessons for the half-year. If such a course were universally adopted, it would be of great assistance to an Inspector in forming an estimate of the school, and of the actual work done in it. For neatness of the home exercises, I have pleasure in singling out St. Arnaud, 1646, and Stawell, 502.

RECORDS.

The school records are generally well kept, and are rarely in arrear. Some teachers do not enter the monthly totals as prescribed by the directions on the roll-sheets. There has been only one case of falsification, and this not of a flagrant kind. The rolls are, I have reason to believe, frequently marked without being called, as they should invariably be. In keeping the time-sheets there is great irregularity of method. Some teachers fill up one sheet as far as it will carry, then set it aside and take up another. A far better plan, and one which is adopted by many teachers, is to sew together as many as will carry through the half-year. These, when in this form, can be kept with the rolls for the same half-year, and be available at any time for reference.

DISCIPLINE.

This continues to be, on the whole, satisfactory. The teachers, as a body, are learning to dispense almost wholly with corporal punishment, and the success with which the majority of the schools are disciplined, without recourse to the rod, goes far to show that, as the teachers have improved, so has the discipline. Class drill is generally well carried out, but the extension exercises do not always appear to receive sufficient attention. While on this subject, I may remark that it would be well if the pupil-teachers, while preparing for examination in the literary subjects, were to practise the drill to the extent required at examination. Many of them appear to neglect the drill until after they have passed in the other subjects, and then to acquire their knowledge of it almost wholly from the text-book, the result being that they show little practical acquaintance with the subject.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

The Secretary, Education Department.

F. H. RENNICK.

REPORT OF COLIN H. CAMPBELL, ESQUIRE, LL.B., NORTH-WESTERN DISTRICT.

Horsham, 28th February, 1885.

SIR,

I have the honour to submit my annual report for the year 1884.

DISTRICT.

This district was formed at the beginning of this year, and now consists of a large portion of what was previously known as the North-western District with a small portion of the Hamilton District.

The character of the country and population is almost wholly farming, and consequently the homes of the children are very much scattered, and, as the farms are very evenly distributed over the country available for agricultural purposes, it will easily be understood that it is almost impossible so to locate the schools that all the children of school age can attend. Many families are necessarily situated between schools, to none of which the children can travel during the hot weather, or during the winter when the roads are almost impassable. The number of children in any particular parish who cannot attend a school for the above reason may be small, but I am sure that in this district the total number would be found to be very considerable. In addition to this, I have noticed many isolated farms, miles away from any other habitation, the children from which, of course, can receive no regular instruction.

The establishment of half-time schools to some extent provides for those thus situated, and the proposed scheme for sending a travelling teacher to several groups of families in turn will meet some of the wants of many more.

A point of importance in connexion with these agricultural districts is the permanency of residence of the parents of scholars. A large number of families may be residing near where it is proposed to establish a school, and it may appear most probable that they have settled permanently there. In accordance with the then requirements a school may be erected, and for a few years it may be well attended. The parents then obtain the right to transfer their lands, and, sufficient inducement offering, they move on to fresh fields. Schools with an average attendance of fifty or more may thus be greatly reduced, and have perhaps less than twenty scholars, and an expensive building, in such a case, would be almost wasted.

SCHOOLS, AND TO WHAT EXTENT INSPECTED.

The number of schools in this district at the beginning of the year was 104; since then 10 new schools have been opened, and applications for 10 others have been favorably considered and granted, making a total of 124, of which 10 are worked on the half-time system.

As settlement is still extending, I expect numerous applications will be received for schools in the outlying portions of the district.

The schools are scattered over a great extent of country, and as the distances between them are often very great, and the roads at times almost impassable, a great amount of time is spent in travelling. The only school with more than 200 scholars attending is at Horsham, and not more than twelve schools have an average attendance of more than 50. During this year, I examined all the schools in the district for results, with the exception of a few which had been but lately opened, and also visited all the same schools for the purpose of inspection.

BUILDINGS.

The buildings I found generally to be quite suitable, and also in good order and condition.

The old portable structures I found, in several places, to be in bad condition, but they have been suitably repaired.

In some localities, rustic structures have been erected by the inhabitants, which well serve the purpose of giving temporary accommodation, and of proving practically that there is a sufficient average attendance to justify the erection of permanent buildings. In many cases the school grounds are unfenced; some of the schools, situated in the open country, hardly require enclosing; but where they are in townships, with a constant traffic about them, the inconvenience is very great.

The school premises, in almost every case, are kept in good order by the teachers. I notice frequently that the appearance and condition of the school is good evidence of the amount of general interest which the teacher takes in the welfare of his scholars.

The out-offices, on many of the school grounds, are far too much exposed, and they require screening either by tree-planting or by fencing.

FURNITURE AND APPARATUS.

The necessary furniture and apparatus supplied to the schools are generally of a very good description, and are sufficient, when used in a reasonable manner, and supplemented by small appliances, cards, &c., such as are easily obtainable.

The maps are generally well preserved; when they are not in good condition, it is because they are not properly hung, or because the scholars are allowed to damage them with pointers.

ORGANIZATION.

The time-tables are, as a rule, carefully constructed, and provide for a judicious arrangement of the programme instruction. A general want appears to be an authorized text-book, which would lay down clearly the lines and principles on which time-tables should be drawn out.

When conducting the result examinations, I have, in most cases, found the classification to be correct; the chief cause of failures to attain the required standard being irregular attendance.

Classification according to age, and not according to attainments, still, to some extent, pertains.

The general supervision of the classes is well carried out, the most noticeable error consisting in allowing a monitor to conduct a whole lesson, or too great a portion of a lesson, without the teacher's occasional attention.

INSTRUCTION.

I am of opinion that the programme, as a rule, is faithfully adhered to, although in some cases the "result work" receives too much consideration.

In a large number of the schools in this district really excellent instruction is given, and the good result in these cases is due to intelligent and energetic teaching.

Reading.—The reading in almost all the schools is very correct, wanting only in fluency and distinct enunciation; but the teachers, I observe, are eliminating this defect.

Arithmetic.—This subject is well taught throughout, the black-boards being properly used for purposes of correction and explanation.

Writing.—Writing is in some cases well taught; but too frequently the scholars are allowed to learn to write as best they can. They write copies for years, and thus may or may not become good writers; but, except in a comparatively small number of schools, they have no thorough instruction in the proper formation and structure of the letters.

The bad habit of lounging and leaning on the desks is too often observed.

Geography.—The teaching of geography I have noticed to be wanting in interest; the lessons consist to too great an extent of dry lists of names.

Local geography cannot be taught to any great extent with the map of Victoria at present in use, as very few of the important places in this district are marked on it.

Grammar.—This subject is well taught in a large majority of the schools.

DISCIPLINE.

The teachers, with but very few exceptions, have a proper control over their scholars, and good order and good behaviour are the general rule.

Class drill and the extension exercises in many cases are not sufficiently attended to.

Where this is the case I have also generally noticed a want of mental activity.

EXTRA SUBJECTS.

Extra subjects receive but little attention in the schools in this district. I do not think that much will be done in this direction until some more practical results can be seen for the work done.

TEACHERS.

The teachers in this district, I am of opinion, perform their required duties faithfully and carefully, and in many cases with great ability and energy.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

COLIN H. CAMPBELL.

The Secretary, Education Department, Melbourne.

REPORT OF F. C. EDDY, ESQUIRE., M.A., GOULBURN VALLEY DISTRICT.

SIR,

Seymour, 20th February, 1885.

I have the honour to submit a report for the year ended 31st December, 1884.

In January I was appointed to a newly-formed district named the Goulburn Valley, which consists mainly of schools formerly under the supervision of Inspectors Craig and Ware. The boundaries, roughly, are on the north the Broken River, on the south the Dividing Range, and on the west the east bank of the Goulburn. The district, upon the whole, is a pleasant one, more suitable for horseback than for driving, and most certainly better for a bachelor than a married man. The only drawback is that in the roughest parts there invariably is the worst accommodation both for man and horse.

At first there were 108 schools in active operation under my charge (98 full-time and 10 half-time schools), but during the year eight new schools were established, thus raising the number to 116.

There are some settlements yet which have received no benefits from the Education Act, but, taken as a whole, the district is fairly supplied with schools.

My official time was spent in the following manner:—

In travelling, 650 hours.

In schools, 618 hours.

In result work out of schools, 32 hours.

In writing reports on schools, &c., 137 hours.

In investigating applications for schools, holding inquiries and writing reports thereon, 87 hours.

In assisting Board of Examiners, 223 hours.

Miscellaneous, 171 hours.

BUILDINGS.

The school-houses in most places belong to the Department, and as a rule are suitable and in repair. The buildings now used for school purposes at King Parrot Creek and Balmattun are, however, notable exceptions. A great number of sites are not enclosed, and, when funds are available, fences should be erected around at least all the principal schools. A fence is urgently needed at Euroa. With regard to this matter I think that local assistance should be proffered more frequently. Too often the parents, instead of subscribing locally to execute certain works of a comparatively inexpensive nature, are too willing to throw the burden on the State.

In very few places gardens are to be seen, and there are not many plantations, so the State schools in isolated positions generally have a very naked appearance, which does not tend to make the buildings look as homely and comfortable as possible.

I have not had to complain of any great want of attention with regard to school premises, as the teachers evidently consider that it is as much their duty to take care of the departmental buildings as it is to give instruction to the children under their charge.

In the more exposed schools, a cheap verandah should be erected to protect the children and teachers from the scorching sun. At Mansfield and Yea I have felt the heat intolerable, from the want of such protection. In sultry weather in such schools the benefit of the instruction cannot be very great to the children.

In most of the smaller buildings the quarters are unoccupied.

FURNITURE.

All the schools are fully equipped with the necessary apparatus and furniture, and these are generally in good order. I have much pleasure in stating that in some instances the teachers themselves have provided additional means for perfecting the furniture. Alexandra, 912, is supplied with a good deal of apparatus furnished by the head teacher.

I am opposed to the supplying of free stock, except in very special cases, and if the teachers themselves made a firmer stand, the evil would be lessened, and the Department saved a constant source of expense.

ORGANIZATION.

The schools generally throughout the district are in good working order, and the classification, in the main, is fair. Sometimes cases of misclassification have occurred, but none have been so bad as to call for a deduction of marks.

The time-tables are in most schools drawn up with care, and followed with fair consistency, but in some instances I have met with slovenly time-tables, which have at once betokened the character of the school. The main faults in the time-tables are, first, that the superintendence of the classes is not shown; and, secondly, that there is a considerable want of judgment in the allotment of the various subjects to the classes. In all the larger schools the children are kept usefully employed, but in those taught by one teacher the supervision is often defective, especially over the junior classes.

First-class pupil-teachers, before being sent out to take charge of a small school, should have at least a month's work in a practising school.

The arrangement of classes is not always judicious, as the children are kept too often throughout the session seated in the desks, and this tends to make them idle and careless with their work.

INSTRUCTION.

The instruction in most subjects is sound in character in nearly all the schools in this district, and the majority of the teachers do their duty in an efficient and faithful manner.

Having had charge only for twelve months, I cannot say much under the head of progress; but, judging from previous reports, the main body of schools seem to be progressing steadily.

Payment by results seems to me to be a necessity in country schools, as by this means a suitable and even standard is obtained for all classes, and the want of local supervision is not so much felt.

The defects most noticed I will now mention under the heading of each subject.

Rhymes.—Too often the instruction in this subject is handed over to monitors who are incapable of imparting it satisfactorily, and so the rhymes are learnt incorrectly, and repeated in an unintelligent manner.

Reading.—The defects in this subject are want of fluency, unsuitable emphasis, and indistinct utterance of words, and these faults are owing to too much individual work and the want of systematic class correction. If more care were bestowed upon the reading of the junior classes, the quality of the reading would soon improve throughout the school. It is a matter of no surprise, when there is such a want of suitable emphasis, that the children are backward in knowledge of matter read, although this backwardness is no doubt partly due to the fact that the lessons are not prepared beforehand.

Writing.—Insufficient attention is paid to the work of the 1st and 2nd classes, and thus faults arise which cannot be eradicated afterwards without considerable difficulty.

Arithmetic.—Very fair work is done in this subject as far as the 5th class programme standard, but this is after all only the bare foundation, and arithmetic of a more useful character should be cultivated in the higher classes. No doubt in country schools the anxiety to obtain certificates acts very strongly against higher instruction in this subject.

Grammar.—This is the weakest subject in the schools, and the weakness to a great extent is due to the fact that there is too much parsing in books or on slates, and not a sufficient amount of class instruction.

Geography.—In this subject the lessons are too often uninteresting both to teacher and scholar owing to over-anxiety to obtain good results.

Home Work.—Home lessons in some form are given in all schools, but the work is capable of great improvement.

Extra Subjects.—Extra subjects are taught in a few of the schools, but the results are barely satisfactory.

The following schools gained the highest percentages in the district:—

Roll No.	Name of School.	Head Teacher.	Percentage.
1443	Castle Reef	H. Hard	95·789
2001	Jericho	P. Lohan	91·739
1049	Lauraville	D. McIntyre	90·822
2274	Strathbogie	J. B. Boyle	89·600
699	Yea	J. T. Daley	88·461
2181	Strathbogie South	E. Marsh	87·788
1433	Yea Parish	Eliz. Grant	87·700
1855	Puckapunyal	E. James	87·700
1047	Gobur	Wm. Birrell	86·185
1197	Alexandra Road	H. Sisely	85·185

More than half of the schools secured over 70 per cent., and there were only nine with a percentage below 60.

MILITARY DRILL.

Drill is taught in six schools, and in all of them it is taught with fair efficiency.

DISCIPLINE.

The children are, in most of the schools, well conducted during the hours set apart for work, and, except in one or two cases, respectful to their teachers.

A good tone especially prevails in some of the smaller schools under the charge of female teachers.

In country places the children are not always punctual. If roll-call were strictly adhered to, and the parents more frequently fined for the non-attendance of their children, this evil would quickly decrease. Irregular attendance, too, acts against the order and general working of a school, and in some places, notably Seymour and Mansfield, the children attend very badly indeed.

I am afraid that "class drill" is neglected in a great many of the smaller schools.

RECORDS.

The registers are generally up to date, and the rolls added correctly; but the time for roll-call is in many cases forgotten.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant,

The Secretary, Education Department.F. C. EDDY.

REPORT OF HENRY F. RIX, ESQUIRE, B.A., NORTH-EASTERN DISTRICT.

SIR,

Bright, 28th February, 1885.

I have the honour to forward my report on the North-Eastern District for the year 1884.

At the beginning of the year, when the boundaries of the several districts were re-adjusted, sixteen schools west of the Ovens River were excised from this district, which thereafter contained 98 schools, of which four were worked as two, on the half-time principle. During the year, schools were established at Bontherambo, No. 2574; Smoko Creek, No. 2594; Cookinburra, No. 2625; and at Buffalo Creek, No. 2635; the last named to be worked half-time with Eurobin, No. 1355. The schools at Wooragee North, No. 1672, and Middle Creek West, No. 2195, were reduced to half-time, owing to decreasing attendance. A night-school, opened in May, at No. 1560, Beechworth, was closed in a few months. There were, therefore, in the district at the end of the year, 102 schools, eight being half-time.

Numerous applications for schools were inquired into with the following result:—It was recommended that schools be established at Tangambalanga (half-time with Kiewa, No. 1472), Buffalo Creek (see above), Upper Gundowring, Dederang North and Running Creek Bridge (to be worked third-time with Dederang, No. 1772). Sites were selected or approved of with a view to the establishment of schools when the population shall have sufficiently increased at Spring Creek (Wagra), Black Hills and Happy Valley, Spring Creek (Mitta Mitta), Annandale (near Tallangatta), Kergunyah North, Upper Sandy Creek, Koetong, Chiltern Valley, and Walwa Creek (Upper Murray).

BUILDINGS.

The State school buildings, with few exceptions, are in good repair and afford ample accommodation for the pupils. There are eight leased buildings, all of which are of more or less unsuitable character. New school-houses have been built at Everton, No. 1198, and Palmerston, No. 2240, the latter one in a more central situation than before, and the Mudgegonga school-room, No. 2171, has been moved to a more convenient site.

SCHOOL GROUNDS.

It is a matter for regret that so few head teachers endeavour to beautify the grounds about the commodious school-houses by tree-planting. During the year, however, the grounds of No. 522, Rutherglen, and No. 644, Wahgunyah, have been planted with trees, and at No. 37, Wodonga, flower-beds were laid down and intrusted to the care of volunteer gardeners amongst the pupils, with gratifying results. The two most attractive school grounds in this district are those of No. 1560, Beechworth, and No. 1577, Lake Modemere. In the case of the 49 school grounds that have not yet been fenced in, tree-planting is, of course, out of the question.

While speaking of play-grounds I must remark that, to one who has always regarded school sports as a most healthful auxiliary to school work, it is painful to see the listless way in which the children of so many schools loiter about during play-time. "They seem to need teaching to play almost as much as teaching to work," and a teacher who takes a kindly interest in the out-door life of his pupils will always have over them a greater influence for good. It is with pleasure I name No. 2391, Wangaratta North, as a school where all the children play systematically and heartily.

SCHOOL FURNITURE AND REQUISITES.

Most of the schools are fully supplied with furniture of the most approved patterns. There are, however, a few unsteady obsolete desks in use. Some school-rooms would look more tidy, and the maps would last longer, if the latter were hung on the walls instead of being bundled into the corner, and teachers have sometimes to be told that ink-stains can be removed from desks by using a weak solution of crystals of oxalic acid.

ORGANIZATION.

As a rule, the order of the lessons has been wisely planned, and the teaching power at command judiciously distributed, but in many small schools, under young teachers, the time-tables exhibit such faults as were pointed out by Messrs. Topp and Craig in last year's reports. The time-tables, except in a few cases, were being strictly observed on the occasions of unexpected visits, and active supervision was exercised over the work of the several classes. Sometimes, however, in small schools inexperienced monitors were allowed to blunder on without the teacher's assistance.

Classification is usually based, as it should be, on the sole ground of the pupils' attainments.

INSTRUCTION.

Thorough and efficient instruction is given in some schools where the head teachers are able and enthusiastic, and in many the teaching is of energetic and painstaking character, even when the methods employed are more or less weak. In not a few, however, the teachers, influenced by the monetary consideration, have worked too closely with an eye to the result examination—a short-sighted policy, for, as a rule, the schools which obtain the highest percentages are those in which the programme of instruction is most strictly observed. A circumstance which, in view of the limited time Inspectors have for the purpose, makes it hard to correctly gauge the amount of attention given to genuine programme work, is the fact that a difference of practice exists in the schools as to the time when the majority of the promotions are made—in some schools they are made shortly before, in others shortly after, the annual examination. It would be well if more uniformity in this respect could be secured.

The average percentage obtained by the schools of the district was 76.416. Fifty-six of the schools got percentages higher than this, 41 lower; of the former, eight got over 90, 26 over 85, and of the latter only eight got less than 60, and two less than 50 per cent. The highest percentage, 93.181, was obtained by No. 1900, Woolshed, and the lowest was 40.944.

Much of my time at inspections is spent in suggesting improvements in method to such teachers as lack experience. Two faults I have found rather common, and not confined to small schools; first, that there is generally too little class teaching, and too much slate work; and, secondly, that too often the best part of slate and home exercises is omitted, viz., the marking, statement, and correction of the errors made therein.

Object or general lessons are not henceforth to be merely a test subject for teachers, but are to form an important part of the regular school work—the leaven which it is hoped will permeate the whole system. I would here suggest that the plan followed in the neighbouring colony, New South Wales, be adopted in our schools, that is, to require that the list of subjects for general lessons to be given to each class or group of classes during any quarter be posted on the school wall a clear fortnight before the conclusion of the preceding quarter, and further, that pupil-teachers of the 2nd and 1st class be expected to have their notes of these lessons neatly written out in a book, in order that examination by inspectors on the work of these lessons may be facilitated. It would be well if all teachers were to preserve these notes of lessons given by them for future reference and expansion. The systematic culture of the powers of observation in pupils, from the youngest to the oldest, will invest school work with a charm which it now lacks. Children in whom intelligence has been awakened and habitually exercised, and who have learnt the pleasure of thinking for themselves, will take delight in employing their newly-found reasoning powers in all their school work, and teachers' labours will be correspondingly lightened. The solution by the children of such easy problems in arithmetic as the new programme provides for, but which are very rarely set them now, will become practicable. But not all at once. Time must be allowed for the transition.

With the view of encouraging that broad generous teaching which it is the aim of these approaching changes in programme to introduce, and for the unanswerable reason given therewith, I would like to see adopted Mr. Senior-Inspector Topp's suggestion, that 90 per cent. of possible passes at examinations should carry the maximum of results. The same end could, however, be effected if, going upon the lines of the "Merit Grant" of the English system, 10 or 15 per cent. (to be added to the present examination percentage) were to be placed at the disposal of the Inspector, according to his estimate of the (1) organization, (2) discipline and tone of the school, (3) observance of programme, (4) intelligence employed in instruction, (5) neatness of school-room and appliances and accuracy of the registers. This is partly provided for now by a recently adopted rule. Thus a school obtaining 85 per cent. of passes at examination might be awarded 100 per cent. of results if it were considered excellent in all the above-mentioned particulars. Teachers who at present think that to forsake the present mechanical memory grind in such subjects as geography is to be fined in "results" would then feel free to teach as their better instincts urged them. Then it would be as rare as it is now common for children to point to the ceiling as the north side of the school-room.

It is gratifying to find that so many teachers have passed in physiology. This, however, should be a pass subject for the certificate of competency, so that there might be a guarantee of the teacher's possessing that knowledge which is necessary to enable him to give properly those general lessons on the laws of life and health which should form a chief part of education.

DISCIPLINE.

This is generally very good. The school which gave me most pleasure in this respect was No. 2495, Tallangatta Creek North.

DRILL.

Military drill is well taught in some of the larger schools. Class drill, in many schools, does not receive that attention which it deserves.

RECORDS.

These are usually kept with neatness and accuracy. As the most frequent source of error were the age entries in the school register, printed age certificate forms were introduced by me, and are now to be found in nearly all the schools of the district.

OFFICIAL DUTIES.

All the schools were examined for results excepting No. 37, Wodonga, where prevalent sickness interfered; 5,812 children were present at these examinations, and 298 standard certificates were issued. All the schools but four received a second visit of inspection, and some a third or incidental one.

The number of miles travelled by me was 3,561, and the time spent in the discharge of the various duties was distributed as follows:—

	Hours.
(1.) Travelling	654·7
(2.) Inspecting and examining	816·2
(3.) Inspection work out of schools	37·7
(4.) Writing reports on schools	223·0
(5.) Inquiries into special references	72·6
(6.) Writing reports on special references	72·0
(7.) Examinations not included under (2)	258·1
(8.) Correspondence, &c.	276·5
Total	2,410·8

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

HENRY F. RIX,
Inspector of Schools.

The Secretary, Education Department.

APPENDIX I.

REPORT OF J. SUMMERS, ESQUIRE, INSPECTOR OF MUSIC, ON SINGING.

SIR,

Melbourne.

I have the honour to submit my sixth annual report on the condition and progress of music in our State schools.

Inspectoral Work.—Upwards of 31,600 children have been inspected and examined by me during the past year. Owing to the immense amount of travelling, and the labour involved in the examinations, I have been unable to visit the various country districts more than once during the year.

Singing Staff.—With the exception of the appointment of Mr. D. Montague to the Sale district, no changes have been made in the staff of teachers, and I am pleased to record that, as a body, good and honest work is being performed by them, meriting high approval.

Programme Work.—It is satisfactory to find that our newly revised programme has been welcomed by the teachers, and that it fulfils the object for which it was issued, i.e., to reduce the amount of unnecessary theory; to bring into constant use the practice of writing music sung by the teacher; to give more time to the cultivation of tone, and more finish to the test songs set by the Department for examination. Under this programme various methods of teaching may be adopted at the discretion of the teacher, and the Department maintains a neutral position in refusing to impose any particular method, and it is satisfied to give the grant for good practical results without reference to the method whereby those results may have been attained.

Voice Training.—I am desirous of impressing on the teachers generally the great necessity which I find existing for more careful attention to this branch. After a trial and classification of voices, which should be regularly made once a month, voice training should be the first thing to be considered in order to produce a pure musical tone. Too much care cannot be bestowed on the production of tone when the vocal organ is in its youthful state and during the time of its development. Many singing voices of men and women are ruined through early training by careless or incompetent teachers. The advice given in Curwen's Teacher's Manual is commended to the attention of teachers of singing, as being especially valuable on this subject.

Test Songs.—Practical singing has been best illustrated to me in the test songs submitted by the Department for examination in the following districts:—Williamstown (Mr. Brightwell's); Sandhurst (No. 1 and 2, Messrs. Crooke and Fabian); Collingwood (Mr. Lang); Stawell (Mr. Hill); Emerald Hill (Mr. Ford).

Sight Singing.—This subject merits great praise in all districts, and special mention may be made of Melbourne (Mr. Allen); Ballarat (Mr. Matthews); Emerald Hill (Mr. Ford). It is my intention for the future to require separate individual tests in accordance with the provisions of the new programme.

Ear Tests.—With the revised programme came this most valuable element in music teaching, and the success attained by our children in each class speaks well for their natural intelligence. A very large percentage of passes is obtained at the examinations, and the interest exhibited by the children, of all degrees, is highly satisfactory.

Theory.—Having released teachers and children from much unnecessary theory, which was attempted to be taught under the old programme, I hope to obtain the highest number of passes possible for this branch, at the yearly examinations. The present programme requires that only which is absolutely necessary that a singer should know.

Order and Discipline.—Praise may now be uniformly given for the order and discipline found in our classes during the singing lesson, and I trust that the high state of efficiency now attained may continue. Disciplinary singing exercises have been introduced in many districts at my request, and great benefit has been derived from them by the children. Many of our school-rooms are badly adapted for singing classes, and it has been found to be almost impracticable for the children to stand when singing; I therefore advise the use of the above exercises as a relief to the body from a too long sedentary position.

Visits of Surprise.—I continue to pay these visits, and I am pleased to report that I am unable to record any departure from the customs of strict duty on the part of any teacher.

Teachers' Classes.—I regret to have to report that these are a pronounced failure, and the unsatisfactory state of affairs indicates the urgent necessity of some speedy change. The lax attendance on the part of the students shows a want of interest in the class lessons held by the teachers of singing. Special aptitude appears necessary to impart instruction in singing to teachers, and I fear, until the Department adopts the suggestions made in previous reports by me, we shall look in vain for more hopeful results.

Training Institute.—A fair amount of success attends the instruction given at the institute by Mr. W. R. Furlong. Though but few attain the qualification of L.T., many of the students succeed in doing really good work, and, where marked ability is shown, special notice is recorded in the examiner's report to the benefit of the students. The singing class has lost one of its best and most enthusiastic well-wishers in the lamented death of the Principal, Mr. Gladman. Singing under his term of office took a firmer hold on the students, most of whom valued the instruction, and took pleasure in the lessons.

Drum and Fife Bands.—These are admitted to be of great value in drill and discipline, and are calculated to impart a manly, martial tone to the children. The most successful bands are to be found at Maryborough (Mr. Cox's), Ballarat (Mr. Armstrong's), Carisbrook (Mr. Beilby's), Hotham (Mr. Courtenay's). I regret that in many large schools where most excellent bands were found, they are now discontinued through various circumstances, such as want of funds, removal of teachers, loss of scholars, and the much to be regretted "weariness of labour that creeps o'er all." I would submit that the Department might be asked to subsidize a well-taught school band, and I intend to report in all cases where bands are ably conducted and successful.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

J. SUMMERS,

Music Inspector.

The Secretary of Education.
