REPORT.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT,
23rd October, 1885.

SIR,

I have the honour to submit to Your Excellency the following Report of the Education Department, comprising a statement of its proceedings during the year 1884, and such additional information as can be furnished relative to the current year.

The financial statement (Appendix A) is brought up to the 30th June, 1885, and contains an abstract of the receipts and expenditure of the Department for the financial year ended on that date.

The general statistics of the schools in operation, their respective attendance and cost, have reference to the year ended 31st December, 1884, and will be found in Appendix B.

The last Report of the Department shews that, on the 31st December, 1883, there were in operation 1,750 schools. Of these, 6 were closed from that date, so that the year 1884 opened with a roll of 1,744 schools. Seventy-two schools were added during the year, and 43 were struck off. The number of schools in operation on the 31st December, 1884, was therefore 1,773.

Of the 72 schools added to the roll during the year, 53 were opened in places previously unsupplied with means of education, 10 were old schools revived, 4 were half-time branches constituted independent schools, and 5 took the place of schools that were closed.

Of the 49 schools removed from the roll since December, 1883, 5 were replaced by new schools, 29 were attached to other schools and worked half time with them, and 15 were closed for want of sufficient attendance.

The 1,773 schools in operation on 31st December, 1884, comprised 1,665 conducted as full time, and 108 as half time. The number of localities enjoying school provision was therefore 1,881, shewing a net increase of 61 during the year.

The total number of night schools that were in operation during 1884 was 30, but of these, 7 were discontinued during the year, either through the resignation of the teachers or in consequence of the attendance falling below the minimum required by the regulations. The 23 schools remaining on 31st December, 1884, comprised 8 for boys only, 3 for girls, and 12 attended by both boys and girls.

The following table shews the number of schools in operation and the number of children enrolled and in average attendance during the year :—

	Number of Schools.	Total Number of Children Enrolled during the Year.			Number of Children in Average Attendance throughout the Year.

General return for the year ...	1,803	114,286	107,768	222,054	62,847	57,854	120,701

The return for the previous year shewed a total of 217,447 children enrolled in day schools, and an average attendance of 116,716. It appears therefore that, while the enrolment exhibits a decrease of 608, the average attendance has increased by 2,048.

Number of distinct individual children attending.

The enrolment stated above is the gross enrolment, and deduction has to be made therefrom on account of children who attended more than one school, and whose names therefore appeared more than once on the general roll. The usual steps were taken to determine the correction necessary on this account, and it was found that, of 104,149 children present at roll-call on the 3rd December, 1884, 11,970, or 11·49 per cent., had attended one other State school during the year ; 1,265, or 1·21 per cent., had attended two other State schools ; and 186, or ·17 per cent., had attended three or more. The repeated enrolment of these children would have the same effect in increasing the gross total as if the names of 15,058, or 14·45 per cent. of those under consideration, had been enrolled twice ; and if the total number of children enrolled during the year—216,839—be reduced in the same proportion, we obtain a result of 185,488 as the number of distinct individual children that attended State day schools during the year.

The corresponding number for the previous year was 185,802. The net enrolment therefore, during 1884, shews a decrease of 314.

The gross enrolment in night schools was 5,215, as compared with 4,981 in 1883, and the average attendance 1,937, as against 1,612. There was therefore an increase of 234 in the number enrolled, and of 325 in average attendance.

The error arising from repeated enrolment of the same scholars in night schools is much greater than in the case of day schools. The inquiries instituted shewed that, of 1,642 scholars present on the 3rd December, 1884, 579, or 35·26 per cent., had attended one other State school during the year; 82, or 4·99 per cent., had attended two other State schools ; and 11, or ·66 per cent., had attended three or more. The effect of these repeated enrolments would be the same as if 776 of these 1,642 scholars had been enrolled twice, and if the total number enrolled—5,215—be reduced in this proportion, the result is 2,750, which is the number of distinct individual children that attended night schools during the year.

This number is less than in 1883, when the net enrolment in night schools was 3,147.

The combined returns for day and night schools shew a total of 188,238 distinct children attending school. The number for 1883 was 188,949. There was therefore a decrease of 711 during 1884.

Progress under the Education Act as regards number of schools and attendance.

The following table shews for each year since 1872 the continual increase in the number of schools and the changes that have taken place in regard to the number of children enrolled and in average attendance :—

* The figures marked (*) are an approximation only, the returns of numbers on rolls of night schools for these years being incomplete.

With regard to the number of schools, it should be noted that the addition of 23 to the roll of day schools does not adequately represent the additional means of education that have been provided. The wants of the less thickly peopled districts have received special attention, and been met by a wider extension of the half-time system. Two departments conducted on this principle appear on the roll as only one school, and although the net increase in the number of schools is apparently 23, the increase in the number of places provided with means of education is 61.

The total number enrolled shews a slight decrease. This is no doubt due in part to families migrating to newly occupied districts remote from schools; but the main cause would appear to be that children are continually being removed from school at an earlier age than they formerly were. Indeed, the reduction in the number of children above 15 years of age that attended school during 1884, as compared with 1883, will more than account for the whole of the decrease.

The average attendance has made a satisfactory advance. Notwithstanding the slightly diminished number enrolled in day schools, the average attendance has increased by 2,048; and in night schools, also, a similar improvement has taken place. The proportion which the average attendance bears to the number on the rolls is the highest yet recorded for any year, being 54·35 per cent. when the gross enrolment is used for the comparison, and 64·12 per cent. when the net enrolment is employed.

The following table shews the percentage of average attendance to the gross and net enrolment respectively for each of the last five years:—

Year.	Gross Enrolment.	Net Enrolment.	Average Attendance.	Percentage of Average Attendance to—

1884 ...	222,054	188,238	120,701	54·35	64·12

A comparison with the corresponding results attained during 1884 in other Australasian colonies is furnished in the following table:—

* Information not obtainable from the Report.

The following table, compiled from returns furnished by the head teachers, shews the age and sex of children attending day schools during 1884:—

Age and sex of children
school.

Age.				Boys.	Girls.	Total.
3 years of age and under 4 years	...	...	...	1,603	1,588	3,191

16 " and upwards	...	...	...	1,166	1,695	2,861
Total	...	...	...	109,485	105,979	215,464

It appears therefore that, out of every 1,000 children attending school, 508 were boys, and 492 were girls. The proportion of boys shews a slight increase, the numbers for the last three years having been uniformly 506 boys to 494 girls.

It may further be noticed that, under the age of 13 years, the boys at each age constitute the majority, but that thereafter the girls are the more numerous. This is in accordance with the experience of former years, and is of course due to the fact that the services of boys can at an earlier age be turned to profitable account.

If the figures in the foregoing table be summarized with a view to the statutory school ages, we find that there were—

Under 6 years of age ...	...	...	...	28,742
Between 6 and 15 years	...	...	...	177,161
Above 15 years	...	...	...	9,561

and if these numbers be reduced so as to correspond with the number of distinct children attending school during the year, we have—

Under 6 years of age...	...	...	...	24,743
Between 6 and 15 years	...	...	...	152,514
Above 15 years	...	...	...	8,231
Total	...	...	...	185,488

Similar returns furnished by the head teachers of night schools give particulars as to 4,687 scholars, of whom there were—

Age.					Boys.	Girls.	Total.
12 years of age and under 13 years	...				339	95	434
13 " " 14 " "	...				875	224	1,099
14 " " 15 " "	...				1,075	247	1,322
15 " " 16 " "	...				840	210	1,050
16 " and upwards	...				689	93	782
Total	...	...	...		3,818	869	4,687

In other words, 2,855 were within the statutory school age, and 1,832 above it. Reducing these numbers so as to correspond with the number of distinct pupils attending night schools, we have—

Between 6 and 15 years	...	...	...	1,675
Above 15 years	...	...	...	1,075
Total	...	...	...	2,750

The number of distinct children at the different ages that were under instruction during 1884 will therefore be as under :—

—				Under 6 Years of Age.	Between 6 and 15 Years.	Above 15 Years.	Total.
Day schools	...	...	...	24,743	152,514	8,231	185,488
Night schools	...	...	...	...	1,675	1,075	2,750
Total	...	...	...	24,743	154,189	9,306	188,238

Out of every 100 children attending, there were therefore—

Age.				Day Schools.	Night Schools.	Total.
Under 6 years of age	...	...	...	13·34	...	13·15
Between 6 and 15 years	...	...	...	82·22	60·91	81·91
Above 15 years	...	...	...	4·44	39·09	4·94
Total	...	...	...	100·	100·	100·

While the percentage of children below school age is exactly the same as in the previous year, there is a slight increase in the percentage of children of school age and a corresponding decrease above that age, as has been the general tendency for some years past. The figures for the last five years are as under :—

Age.	1880.	1881.	1882.	1883.	1884.
Under 6 years of age ...	13·17	14·44	12·85	13·15	13·15
Between 6 and 15 years ...	79·78	79·89	81·74	81·52	81·91
Above 15 years...	7·05	5·67	5·41	5·33	4·94
Total ...	100·	100·	100·	100·	100·

From the returns furnished in accordance with section 10 of the Education Act Amendment Act it appears that the number of private schools in operation during 1884 was the same as in 1883, viz., 676. Of these, 88 were attended by boys alone, 87 by girls alone, and 501 by both boys and girls. The total number of children enrolled, as shewn in the following table, was 42,228, being an increase of 306 on the previous year.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS.

	Under 6 Years of Age.	Between 6 and 15 Years of Age.	Above 15 Years of Age.	Age not stated.	Total.
Boys ...	2,339	14,667	2,356	559	19,921
Girls ...	2,787	16,889	2,024	607	22,307
	5,126	31,556	4,380	1,166	42,228

Assuming that the duplicate enrolments in private schools bore the same proportion to the total number enrolled as those in State schools, and assuming also that the 1,166 children whose ages were not stated included the same proportion of children of school age, under the school age, and above the school age as was found amongst the other children attending private schools, the number of distinct children attending private schools was as follows :—

Under 6 Years of Age.	From 6 to 15 Years of Age.	Over 15 Years of Age.	Total.
4,510	27,763	3,853	36,126

Combining these numbers with those in the corresponding statement as to State schools on page vi supra, the total number of children under instruction in State and in private schools during 1884 was—

Under six years of age—
In State schools	...	...	...	24,743
In private schools	...	...	...	4,510
					29,253
Between 6 and 15 years of age—

					181,952
Over 15 years of age—
In State schools	...	...	...	9,306
In private schools	...	...	...	3,853
					13,159
Total	...	...	...	...	224,364

To these should be added about 220 children in industrial and reformatory schools, of whom 135 on the 31st December last were of school age. From an estimate furnished by the Government Statist, it would appear that the mean number of children of school age in the colony last year was 200,063, and the foregoing statement shews that 182,087 of these children were under instruction either in State, industrial and reformatory, or private schools. The remainder, 17,976, represents, as nearly as can be ascertained, the number of children of school age not attending school last year. From information obtained in connection with the census of 1881 it would seem that fully one-half of this number are under instruction at home, and a considerable proportion of the remainder doubtless consists of children of from 12 or 13 years to 15 years of age, who, having been educated up to the standard, have left school. That this is not an unreasonable assumption is evident from the fact that during the last three years 27,648 children have passed the standard examination, and from a return prepared in 1882 for the Royal Commission it appeared that 19 per cent. of the children who pass that examination leave school shortly after doing so. From these considerations it may fairly be inferred that the number of children of school age who are being left without education is not great. This inference is further supported by the fact that the proportion of the population known to be under instruction in school, viz., 224,364, out of an estimated population, on the 31st March, 1884, of 938,937, or nearly 24 per cent., cannot but be regarded as very satisfactory. It may, however, be asked what amount of instruction did these children receive? How many days were they actually at school? This question cannot be answered as regards the children attending private schools, nor can the children in industrial and reformatory schools or at night schools be taken into account in considering it. In the case of the 185,488 distinct children enrolled at State day schools a sufficiently exact estimate can be formed. The average attendance at State day schools last year was 118,764, or 64 per cent. of the net enrolment (185,488). That is to say, out of every 100 days on which the schools were open each child was, on the average, present 64 days. Deducting Saturdays and Sundays and the 30 days allowed as holidays, the number of school days last year was 232; in schools, therefore, that were in operation throughout the year the children on the average received 148½ days instruction. This was the average amount of instruction received by children of all ages, but as the attendance of children under 6 years of age or over 15 is less regular than that of those of school age, the latter received somewhat more than that amount. It should also be remembered that only children who are actually present at roll-call, and who remain for not less than two hours, are entitled to be credited with attendance at a school meeting. It follows that no inconsiderable amount of instruction was received by children whose attendance is not shewn in the returns, viz., by those not present at roll-call, or who left before they had been two hours in school.

Quarterly enrolment and number of scholars who completed the statutory attendance.

The number of distinct children who attended the schools during each quarter of last year is shewn in the following table, which gives also the number that completed the statutory attendance, that is to say, attended for at least 30 days in the quarter, and the proportion of such children to the number enrolled:—

—	Total Number who attended during the Quarter.	Number who attended at least 30 days during the Quarter.	Percentage who completed at least 30 days' attendance.
Quarter ended 31st March, 1884 ...	173,172	127,832	73·81
„ 30th June, 1884 ...	175,933	128,999	73·32
„ 30th September, 1884	175,263	139,789	79·75
„ 31st December, 1884	170,881	115,430	67·54

From the foregoing statement it will be found that the average number of children enrolled was 173,812, and that 73·6 per cent. attended the required number of days. In 1883, the mean quarterly enrolment was 172,419, and the average percentage of children who completed the statutory attendance 72·6. The returns for last year compare favorably, therefore, with those for the preceding year, and the comparison would have been still more favorable but for the low attendance in the December quarter, when, owing chiefly to sickness, the number of defaulters was very much greater than in the preceding quarters of the year.

Annexed is a detailed statement respecting the children who failed to make the requisite number of attendances, shewing the number and proportion of such children who were absent without reasonable excuse.

SUMMARY OF ATTENDANCES AT STATE SCHOOLS DURING THE YEAR 1884.

It is encouraging to note that, taking the year as a whole, the percentage of children for whose insufficient attendance no reasonable excuse could be assigned was only 3.8, a proportion of defaulters smaller not only than that of the previous year, but than that of any preceding year.

The expenditure of the Department for last financial year, as shown in Expenditure, Appendices A (1) and A (2), was £628,997 6s. 2d. Included in this amount, however, were the following sums:—

£2,000 (an addition to the ordinary annual endowment) for the Melbourne University.

£4,000 for Schools of Mines.

£1,399 18s. 5d. towards the support of Schools of Design and for other purposes connected with technological instruction.

Deducting these amounts, the expenditure purely for State-school purposes was £621,597 7s. 9d., of which sum £84,334 17s. 10d. was expended in the erection and maintenance of school buildings and for rent. In the annexed statement the expenditure for the last two financial years is compared:—

The increase under the head of the ordinary expenditure for the salaries of teachers, inspectors, and the clerical staff, and for management generally, was chiefly due to expenses incurred in connection with the education census—a sum of about £4,000 being required for that purpose. Other items under this head, in which an increase appeared, were allowances and compensation to officers who have retired from the service, and bonuses for the promotion of pupil teachers. The payments for temporary clerical assistance, and those to teachers for salaries and results, showed a slight decrease. The expenditure incurred in the erection and maintenance (repair) of school buildings increased by £23,094 19s. 10d., but as that for rent decreased by £569 9s. 8d., the net increase under the head of buildings was £22,525 10s. 2d., as given above. The decrease under the heads grouped together in the column marked 3 above was almost wholly attributable to the fact that in the financial year 1883–4 a grant of £4,000 was made in aid of the extension of the buildings for Schools of Mines at Ballarat and Sandhurst; a similar expenditure was not incurred last year.

In the following table the purposes to which the sums voted for the Department have been applied are shown more in detail. The proportion expended under each head, with similar information for the preceding five years, is also given:—

School books and requisites.

In the list of maps, books, and other requisites supplied free to schools, no great change has been made. Vere Foster's copybooks have, however, been added as proposed, and it is hoped that the wider range in the choice of method in the teaching of writing which is implied by this addition will be attended with beneficial results.

It has long been felt by inspectors that there is a tendency on the part of some teachers to restrict the instruction in geography to mere topography, and to give but little information of a descriptive character. The modifications in the course of instruction in geography will, it is hoped, do much to correct this; and, as an aid to investing the lessons in this subject with the interest that should be imparted to them, a New Geography, by Mr. Alex. Sutherland, M.A., is being supplied to teachers. This work gives much less topographical information than is usually found in school geographies, but each locality mentioned is described with considerable fulness. The map of Victoria hitherto supplied to schools requiring revision, the Lands Department has kindly undertaken to provide a new school map of the colony. In this map, which, it is hoped, will be ready for issue by the end of the year, the railway system of the colony, and the towns that have sprung up within the last few years in the agricultural districts will be shewn, and the present population of the principal towns will be indicated by suitable variations in the type employed.

The expenditure for books and requisites during the past financial year was £2,897, and shews a decrease of £285 7s. 4d. as compared with the previous year, and of £928 1s. 11d. as compared with the average expenditure during the previous five years. In view of the continued decrease under this head, it has not been deemed advisable to make any change in the practice adopted in regard to the issue of free books and requisites, although such a change was suggested in the Report of the Royal Commission. The Commission recommended that books, and similar requisites, should not be supplied gratuitously, except in cases where the head teacher is satisfied of the inability of the parent to pay. It has been found, however, that the teachers' influence is almost always sufficient to induce all parents who are able to do so to purchase books for their children, without its being necessary to make any stringent rule on the subject, and thus any unpleasantness that might have arisen from rigid inquiries respecting the circumstances of parents has been avoided. Much credit is due to teachers for the tact and good sense with which, as a rule, they have carried out the policy of the Department in this matter.

By the transfer of Mr. Topp, the Senior Inspector, to the charge of the Training Institution, a vacancy was caused in the staff of inspectors, for which Mr. John Robertson, B.A., the second lecturer of the Training College, was chosen, the senior inspectorship being conferred upon Mr. Baldwin, the officer next due for such promotion.

A few changes have also been made in the Inspectors' districts, Mr. Gamble having been transferred from Sandhurst to Melbourne, Dr. Philp succeeding him at Sandhurst, and Mr. Campbell taking the place of the latter officer at Maryborough. Mr. Carmichael has lately been appointed to the North-Western district; and Mr. Craig's Metropolitan district has been enlarged.

Towards the close of January in the current year a Conference of Inspectors was held to make further recommendations with respect to changes since carried into effect in the programmes of examination for pupil teachers, students in training, and candidates for the certificate of competency, and for honours. Various points of practice in holding result examinations were also considered with a view to securing greater uniformity in such matters in the future.

In the general reports of the Inspectors (see Appendix H) will be found much that will prove interesting alike to the educationalist and to the general public. These reports, while offering some useful criticism, shew that faithful and effective work is being done in the State schools. From them it may be gathered that the schools are judiciously organized, and kept industriously at work; and that, in the matter of discipline, a most wholesome control exists. It may be mentioned that the high average of 82 per cent. of marks is still maintained at result examinations.

These examinations furnish evidence that the scholars possess a considerable amount of accurate knowledge. The revised programme recently issued has been framed so as to extend that knowledge, especially with respect to common things; while it may also be expected to stimulate intelligence and to interest pupils in their work.

The two tabular statements which follow afford full details of passes gained during the last three years. Table I. gives these particulars for the subjects generally; and Table II. records the percentage for the same subjects in each class. It is satisfactory to note the uniformity that prevails from year to year in the high proportion of results obtained. It will be seen from an inspection of Table I. that, during the past three years, the mean average of the subjects named—the principal ones taught—has not varied so much as one per cent.

Pupils who have passed the standard examination.

During 1884, the number of pupils who passed the examination exempting them from the necessity of further school attendance was 7,966. This shews a diminution of more than 2,000 when compared with the previous year's return, the falling off being caused by the increased stringency with which the examinations were conducted in accordance with a recommendation of the Conference of Inspectors. This examination has now been passed by 76,228 pupils altogether, the numbers for each year being as follows:—

Extra subjects.

Extra subjects were taught during the year in 204 schools, a somewhat smaller number than for the two preceding years, for which the numbers were respectively 218 (1882) and 210 (1883). The lessened demand for these branches of instruction in State schools is probably due to the establishment of private grammar and intermediate schools.

The following statement shews the subjects taught, with the number of pupils that received instruction in each:—

The fees received for this instruction amounted to £4,496 6s. 6d., and the provision of the 17th section of the Education Act for withholding a proportion of these fees in case of inefficient teaching had to be put in force in only one instance. Satisfactory testimony as to the character of the instruction was received from the Inspectors at their visits of inspection ; and its efficiency may be said to have been further gauged by the Melbourne University, for, during the year, 39 State-school pupils passed the Matriculation Examination, and 47 the Civil Service Examination. The numbers of State-school pupils similarly passing in 1883 were respectively 39 and 49. Among State schools, Flinders school 260 has again taken the premier position in this respect, 15 of its pupils having passed for Matriculation, and 18 for the Civil Service Examination.

Singing from notes continues to be taught, partly by visiting teachers and partly by members of the ordinary staff. Of the former there were 27 last year, and of the latter 87; but five of the visiting teachers were not employed for more than a part of their time. The number of children under instruction was somewhat smaller than in the previous year, viz., 32,746 in 1884, and 33,566 in 1883. The expenditure on this subject was £7,307 19s. 9d. It should be observed that no payments are made for instruction in singing unless given by a qualified (i.e., a licensed or certificated) teacher, and only children in classes above the second are included in the returns of attendance upon which paid teachers of singing are appointed. It is, however, intended that the lower classes shall be taught wherever practicable, and with this view easy school songs and infant school songs have been added to the programme of instruction. Even where no member of the staff possesses the qualification requisite to enable him to claim payment as teacher of singing, it is believed there will usually be some one capable of teaching singing, if not from notes at least by ear; and the importance of this subject in brightening and varying the work of the school, especially that of the younger children, will, it is hoped, be generally recognised by teachers.

It has for some time past been contended by the advocates of the tonic sol-fa method of instruction that the teachers who adopt that method are placed at a disadvantage in having their classes examined throughout on the staff notation, and several communications have been received from public musical bodies as to the advisability or otherwise of sanctioning a separate programme of instruction for schools in which the tonic sol-fa method is employed. The supporters of that system ask that pupils taught in accordance with it shall not be required to shew a knowledge of the ordinary notation until they reach the highest grade (i.e., the Fifth and Sixth classes); and they urge that even more than this has been conceded in England, where children who learn under tonic sol-fa teachers are examined in the tonic sol-fa notation throughout. As regards the concession made in England, it is observed that Dr. Stainer, the Inspector of Music, in his report for the year 1883, says—"If any feeling of irritation or any latent sense of injustice existed among the tonic sol-fa-ists it has been completely allayed. It must, I think, be a matter of congratulation that the two systems of notation have almost ceased to be rivals, and that the advocates of each are bound together by a common wish to make 'singing from notes' an integral portion of the elementary education of the country."

The question is still under consideration, and it is hoped that a settlement that will be attended with the same beneficial results as have ensued in England will shortly be arrived at.

An increase took place last year in the number of schools in which drawing was taught, instruction in that subject having been given in 170 schools, as compared with 156 schools in the preceding year. As in the case of singing, the instruction was given partly by visiting teachers and partly by members of the ordinary staff. Of the former there were 16, and of the latter 92, and the average attendance at the classes was 20,854, or about 400 more than in the preceding year. The cost of teaching this subject was £4,208 2s. 10d. No special payment is made for teaching drawing to children in classes below the Fourth, but it is intended that this subject shall for the future form part of the course of instruction in the lower classes in all schools, and provision for this has been made in the amended programme recently issued. The elementary lessons to the classes not taught by the special teachers of drawing will be given by the members of the ordinary staff.

Some doubt having been expressed as to the value of the instruction in this subject as given in the State schools, the teachers of drawing obtained permission to hold an exhibition in December last of the work of their pupils. The exhibition was held in the Town Hall, Melbourne, and upwards of 1,200 specimens of the children's work were shown. The Argus, in commenting on the exhibits, said—"Much good work is evidently being done systematically and gradually; and it is apparent that the object principally kept in view is to qualify learners to turn the knowledge they acquire of the principles and practice of design to good account hereafter in those arts of life which involve the application of it to carving, modelling, engraving, pattern-making, embroidery, constructive and decorative architecture, and so forth. Taking it altogether, this juvenile exhibition is creditable alike to the pupils and to the teachers, who are evincing a praiseworthy determination to ground them well in the rudiments of design."

Military drill and gymnastics. Instruction in Military Drill was given in 200 schools, and in Gymnastics in five schools. The average number of children under instruction in the former subject was 11,986, being an increase of 522 on the number in the previous year.

Exhibitions. At the examination held in December for the eleven exhibitions annually offered for competition among the pupils of State schools, 65 candidates presented themselves. The successful competitors came from the following schools:—

These exhibitions are of the annual value of £35, and are tenable for six years. Fifty-three persons were in the enjoyment of them during the year, of whom five completed the full term of their tenure, one forfeited his exhibition in consequence of failure at the University examinations, one resigned through being unable to prosecute his studies, and one died.

The exhibitioners at the present time number 56, and are distributed as under:—

Two very satisfactory facts are evident from a perusal of the above. First, it appears that no person without proved qualification as a teacher holds office under the Department as head or assistant teacher; and secondly, that a large number of

* including one relieving teacher paid as an assistant.

teachers who have only the lowest qualification are gradually exchanging it for a superior grade of certificate, the possession of which implies better attainments and more theoretical knowledge of, as well as a higher degree of practical skill in, the art of teaching.

The following additional particulars as to the literary qualifications of teachers may be noted :—

- 17 teachers possess either first-class honours or university degrees ;
- 70 „ hold second-class honours ;
- 221 „ have passed the matriculation examination ;
- 26 „ have passed the science examination in at least two subjects.

The proportion of female head teachers and assistants in 1884 was slightly less than during the two preceding years. A statement of the proportion for the last five years is appended :—

Classification of teachers.

The Public Service Act has now introduced, in the institution of the “Classified Roll,” a system whereby every teacher can ascertain his actual position in the service, and can form an estimate of his prospect of promotion. It provides that promotion shall be dependent solely upon good conduct, proved ability, industry, and length of service. It secures teachers from the frequent fluctuations of income to which they were liable when salaries were made to vary with slight changes in the attendance at their schools ; and it confers a further advantage, in that a teacher is enabled to advance from the lower to the higher positions in the service with less changing of schools, and therefore with less inconvenience and expense, than was necessary under the former system.

Training.

A very great loss was sustained by the Department in November by the sudden and lamented death of Mr. Frederick John Gladman, the Superintendent of the Training Institution. Mr. Gladman formerly occupied an important educational post in the Borough Road Training College, and in January, 1877, he was specially engaged to come to Victoria to take charge of the Training Institution, being recommended for this position by his reputation as a teacher of a very high order, as well as by his attainments, his enthusiasm, and his influence over young people. The good work done during Mr. Gladman’s able administration will not readily be forgotten ; and indeed it is not easy to estimate the great service rendered to the colony by his zealous and faithful labours, and specially to the teachers, whom he trained so well, and who were otherwise benefited by intercourse with a man of such high character and blameless life.

The choice of a successor to Mr. Gladman fell upon Mr. Charles A. Topp, M.A., LL.B., whose previous services under the Department indicated him as specially qualified for the post. Further changes have occurred through the transference to the inspectoral staff of Mr. Robertson, the second lecturer, his place being filled by the promotion of Mr. Jackson, the junior lecturer; and for the vacancy caused by Mr. Jackson's advancement the Public Service Board selected Mr. Alfred Dean, M.A., Head Teacher of Tabilk State School 951. Both as student and teacher, Mr. Dean's career has been very successful; and it may be mentioned that, under Mr. Gladman's régime, he passed through the training course and obtained the trained teacher's certificate.

At the beginning of last year, there were 27 candidates (nine being pupil teachers) for admission to training. Of this number, 6 were qualified to enter at once upon the second year's course of training, and were accordingly granted studentships in the Training College, the remainder being appointed to the associated schools.

In the following July, there were 55 candidates for training (15 being pupil teachers). Three applicants, being duly qualified, were given studentships for the second year, and forthwith joined the Training College, and 21 students were admitted to the first year's course.

The following statement gives details respecting the students admitted during 1884:—

		Teachers formerly employed in Schools.	First-class Pupil Teachers who had completed their Course.				Matriculated Students.		Total.

July, 1884	...	...	8	2	5	...	5	1	21
		2	11	5	5	3	10	6	42

In the first half of 1884, the total number of students in training was 86, of whom 44 were engaged in Associated Schools and 42 in the Training College; but in the following term, the total number of students fell to 77, 45 being in Associated Schools and 32 in the Training College. As the number of studentships to be awarded each half-year has now been raised from 20 to 25, the roll of students in training will shortly recover its former standard, as is necessary in order to meet the current requirements of the Department.

The following return shews the result of the two half-yearly examinations held in 1884 for the trained teacher's certificate in all the necessary subjects except needlework and the practical part of the art of teaching:—

The examinations of pupil-teachers for promotion, and of candidates for the certificate of competency, were held in December; those of candidates for admission to the second year's course of training and for the trained teacher's certificate were held, as usual, in June and December. The following tabular statement shews the results of these examinations:—

Candidates.	Number Passed.	Number Failed.	Total Number Examined.	Percentage Passed in—
				1884.	1883.	1882.
I.—Pupil teachers—

IV.—For the trained teacher's certificate ...	29	12	41	70·7	75·0	72·8

It will be seen that the proportion of passes at the examination of pupil-teachers is much higher than that of last year; the results in each class are, in fact, much in advance of those at any examination of the kind during the five preceding years, and testify to increased care, on the part of many head teachers, in the preparation of their pupil-teachers. The percentage of passes at the examination for certificate of competency is about the same as for last year, but a diminution in the number of candidates is noticeable, the number having fallen from 653 in the year 1881 to 482 in the year 1882, to 423 in the year 1883, and to 302 in the year 1884. This decline is chiefly due to the fact that many teachers in the service of the Department who formerly were simply licensed have, within the last few years, succeeded in obtaining the certificate of competency; the number of merely licensed teachers under the Department is accordingly reduced, and the number of candidates from this class is, in consequence, smaller than in former years. The diminution, which is not great, in the number of outside candidates may be attributable to the fact that, in making new appointments under the provisions of the Public Service Act, precedence is given to trained teachers and pupil teachers.

Examinations in music were held during the year at the principal towns throughout the colony—Melbourne, Geelong, Ballarat, Sandhurst, Castlemaine, Ararat, Sale, Echuca, and Maryborough; and in drawing at the five first-named places.

The number of candidates examined, and the result of their examinations, are shewn in the following table:—

Examination.	No. of Candidates.	Number Passed.
		Fully.	Except in Art of Teaching.	Total.

Certificate of competency ...	5	...	1	1
Drawing—
Licence to teach ...	140	32	5	37
Certificate of competency ...	9	...	4	4

In addition to the persons included in the foregoing statement, 6 candidates completed their examination for a licence to teach singing by passing in the art of teaching; and 4 similarly completed their examinations for a licence to teach drawing and 4 for a certificate of competency. A list of the candidates who passed in singing and drawing during the year 1884 is given in Appendices G (1) and G (2).

In military drill 73 candidates were examined in the theoretical part, 47 passing. In the practical test, 61 teachers, who had previously passed in theory, presented themselves for examination; of these 47 passed and 14 failed. In gymnastics 40 candidates were examined, of whom 27 passed fully and 7 partially.

Forty-six science certificates were gained at the December examinations, ^{Science.} a decrease of 7 when compared with the previous year's return. On this occasion, 1 candidate passed in three subjects, and 2 others passed each in two subjects. As the possession of science certificates has a direct value in the determination of a teacher's classification, it is to be expected that the number of candidates for them will not diminish; and it is hoped that the incentive to study thus offered will result in the spread throughout the country of teachers with scientific tastes, who may become the means of encouraging in their pupils a love of scientific investigation.

The following statement shews the number of candidates and of passes for each subject. The names of the successful candidates will be found in Appendix G (3):—

The amount expended in erecting and maintaining school buildings during the ^{Buildings.} year 1884 was £77,550 17s. 2d. Full details of this expenditure will be found in Appendix E.

From 1st July, 1884, to 30th June, 1885, 99 new school-houses were erected in various parts of the colony, 76 being in localities previously unprovided with schools, and 23 taking the place of portable or other buildings which had become unsuitable. It was also found necessary to enlarge the school buildings in 24 cases. In 17 localities school accommodation was provided by erecting buildings which had been removed from districts where they were no longer required. In nine cases where, on account of changes in the population, the school sites had ceased to be central, the buildings were removed to new sites in the same neighbourhood. Five new residences were built, and 10 residences were enlarged. It should also be stated that 68 of the 99 new school-houses referred to above had teachers' quarters attached, and that usually, where a permanent school was built in place of a temporary one, the latter was converted into a teacher's residence.

The following are among the more important of the buildings enumerated above:—

A complete list of the school buildings owned by the Department, brought up to the 30th June, 1885, is furnished in Appendix D, of which a summary is given below. The totals, it will be seen, shew 1,793 school-buildings with accommodation for 169,431 children, and 1,304 teachers' residences.

(2.) ACCOMMODATION.

At the date of the last Report the cost of works ascertained to be necessary was estimated at £84,000, towards which a sum of £13,000 remained available as a balance from Loan 717. Since that date many applications for new schools have matured, whilst the rapid growth of population around Melbourne renders it necessary that large additions to the suburban school accommodation should be made without delay. At the same time many old buildings taken over by the department on the passing of the Education Act 1872 have been condemned as no longer suitable, and will shortly have to be replaced by new ones. These requirements, with the balance of works included in last year's estimate but not yet undertaken, bring up the total estimated cost of buildings necessary to meet the wants of the colony, as far as at present known, to the sum of £109,000.

In December, 1884, a sum of £75,000 was provided by Loan Act No. 805, which, with the balance of £13,000 from Loan 717, made a sum of £88,000 available for school buildings. Of this amount a sum of £38,000 has already been appropriated, and £50,000 remains available for works yet to be undertaken. It will thus be seen that a balance of £59,000 still remains to be provided.

It is not proposed to proceed immediately with all these works, as suitable premises can in many cases be rented. About 170 buildings are usually leased by the Department for school purposes, and the rent of leased buildings for the year ending 30th June last amounted to £2,400.

The number of school districts at the beginning of 1884 was 327. One was added during the year, viz., the North Riding of the Shire of Huntly. None were abolished, so that at the close of the year there were 328 school districts. The name of school district No. 74 was altered to the Shire of Maffra, and its boundaries made to correspond.

In school district No. 292 (South Riding of the shire of Portland) the Board of Advice was increased to seven members.

In the following seven school districts there was no Board of Advice:—

No. 137,	Shire of Dundas, West Riding.
„ 143	„ Eltham, South Riding.
„ 192	„ Minhamite, North-East Riding.
„ 199	„ Mortlake, Darlington Riding.
„ 211	„ Mount Rouse, Dunkeld Riding.
„ 249	„ Talbot, East Riding.
„ 301	„ Wannon, Balmoral Riding.

During the year, 297 members retired by effluxion of time, 105 resigned, 14 died, 8 forfeited their seats through failure to attend the Board meetings, and 2 were removed for other reasons.

During the same period, 305 elections were held, at 75 of which no candidates were nominated. The number of members elected was 314, and of those appointed by the Governor in Council 155, 14 of the latter being for districts where there were no ratepayers. The cost of the elections was £520 10s. 9d.

As was contemplated in the last Report, steps were taken in the early part of the current year whereby the boundaries of the school districts generally have been assimilated to those of the municipalities. This involved the abolition of twenty school districts, some of which had been originally constituted without regard to municipalities, while in others the municipalities themselves, which had been constituted school districts shortly after the introduction of the Education Act 1872, had no longer a separate existence. The designations of 50 school districts have been altered, so as to accord with those of the municipalities or their subdivisions.

The number of new school districts constituted is 21, making the total number in existence at the time of commencing the Education Census 329. The system referred to above of making the school districts correspond with the municipal divisions has been followed in the formation of all the new school districts.

The Order in Council proclaiming these changes was published in the Government Gazette of the 20th February, 1885.

There still remain six school districts which do not fall within any municipality.

Upon the completion of the alterations in the school districts, steps were taken to obtain the aid of the municipal councils in the collection of the Education Census, but not with complete success, as in 100 districts out of the 329, other arrangements had to be made. The results cannot yet be stated, as the returns for 13 districts have still to come in, but, as far as can be judged from the returns already received, it would appear that great changes in the distribution of the school population have taken place since 1880.

The following table shews the arrangements for enforcing the compulsory clause of the Act during the year 1884:—

	Districts in which Prosecutions were instituted by—				Total Number of School Districts in existence during the period.

The number of districts in which the Boards of Advice undertake the prosecution of parents for non-compliance with the compulsory clause of the Act is gradually increasing; and the number of prosecutions instituted was much larger than in any former year. The bench, moreover, is, in many instances, shewing a disposition to inflict heavier fines in cases of proved delinquency.

The number of prosecutions instituted during the year 1884, with particulars and results, is given in the table subjoined:—

In addition to the ordinary truant officers—30 in number—special officers were, as mentioned in last year's Report, appointed in March, 1884, to inquire into the cases of children found during school hours in the streets, parks, or gardens of Melbourne and suburbs. The labours of these officers have been attended with good result, 408 convictions having been obtained. A summary of the reports of the street officers is appended, shewing the extent and results of their inquiries from 1st July, 1884, to 30th June, 1885:—

Night schools.

It has been shewn above that the number of night schools in operation last year was 30, with an aggregate average attendance of 1,937. In view of the adverse opinions that have been expressed respecting the utility of free night schools, and the advisability of continuing them, the question of their retention has engaged my serious consideration. It has been alleged that in many instances they are but indifferently conducted, that they furnish a means of evading the compulsory provisions of the Education Act, and that they do not benefit, i.e., are not attended by, the class of pupils for whom they are provided, viz., children who are necessarily employed during the day, and who, from want of early opportunities, may have received a very imperfect education, or who, if fairly advanced, are desirous of obtaining further instruction.

In order to acquire full information on these points, and to ascertain the views of the Boards of Advice more directly interested in the matter, a circular was sent to all Boards in whose districts State night schools were held as to the desirability of closing the schools under their supervision. A return of the occupations followed by the scholars attending night schools has also been obtained from the teachers. Of the 18 Boards consulted, 14 were in favour of continuing the schools as at present, 3 of closing them, and one Board recommended that the establishment of night schools should be left to private enterprise. None of them stated that the schools were badly conducted. The following extracts from the replies received may be found interesting:—

Board No. 8.—“ We have visited the night schools on several occasions to enable us to give a fair opinion as to whether the children were deriving any benefit from evening tuition, and what would be the result of closing them. The Mayor of this city also visited them, and he is in accord with the resolution unanimously passed at a full meeting of the Board, viz.—‘That it is desirable that the night schools in operation in this district be continued.’” Board No. 9.—“The Board have visited each of the schools named, and found them well managed, and are strongly in favour of their continuance. The question was asked, at the various schools, how many were engaged during the days at factories and other employment, and 215 out of 229 were so engaged. This fact, in the opinion of the Board, shews the necessity for the existence of night schools, and they ought, on no account, to be abolished.”

Other Boards were equally emphatic in their opinion as to the necessity for retaining them.

Some of the inspectors would appear, from their annual reports, to be unfavorable to their continuance; but the reports on the working of existing schools do not support the statement as to their being inefficiently conducted—on the contrary, they show that, as a rule, the schools are well managed. It should also be noted that the occupations of the scholars, and the number of hours per day during which they are employed, as ascertained from the returns furnished by the teachers, do not afford ground for believing that the night schools are attended by an unsuitable class of children.

From the foregoing considerations, and in view of the very decided opinion expressed by the majority of the Boards of Advice consulted, it would seem that, though it has been deemed expedient to raise somewhat the age at which children may be enrolled at night schools (viz., from twelve to thirteen years), the time has not yet arrived when they may, with advantage, be wholly discontinued.

The movement for establishing Cadet corps in Victoria has met with considerable support from the State schools, and special regulations dealing with them have been adopted by the Defence Department, whose officers will inspect them. The movement was only begun towards the close of last year, but it has progressed in a satisfactory manner, and by the end of August, 1885, Cadet corps had been established in connection with 38 State schools. The members of these corps will have opportunities before leaving school of becoming versed in the use of the rifle and in infantry field exercises; and such of them as may hereafter join the militia or volunteer force will have comparatively little to learn in order to attain to efficiency. The indirect benefit too resulting to those school-boys who belong to such an organization cannot but be very considerable. Apart from the physical pleasure and healthful character of military exercises, the lads should develop the smartness, the quickened attention, and the prompt obedience which military discipline begets; and, when quitting school, they should carry into the world with them much physical and mental benefit arising from their service as Victorian cadets. Cadet corps.
